A Mother's Seven Words, Teaching Talkies to Talk, To Stay on a Gold Basis, How to Catch Squirrels,

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 28.

A FEW WORDS may save a life. Ruth Judd, accused of murdering two women, and placing their dismembered bodies in a trunk, at first confessed.

Lawyers are fighting for her life against her confession. Crowds gather to hear. Witnesses supply reasons for the alleged crimes.

THEN AN OLD woman comes to the witness chair, tells the jury:

"My daughter, Ruth, was a strange little girl, not quite right."

Tears roll down her wrinkled cheeks and turning to the Judge she says:

"Excuse me, but I can't help it."

Those seven words might have more effect on a jury than all the eloquence of lawyers and testimony of experts.

IN THIS METROPOLIS, center and factory of the moving picture industry, even now one of the three greatest in America, mechanical genius has made it possible to put into the mouth of a "talkie" actor, who knows no language but English, any other language that may be desired, perfectly synchronized.

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER, most successful among producers of moving pictures, enabled this writer to see an admirable performance in which Norma Shearer and Lionel Barrymore appeared. The language was German, and a most beautiful performance, although the picture had been made in English only.

German artists of high ability, a man and a woman, had "talked the film," supplying German voices for the American artists, they themselves not photographed, or making any appearance except in sound.

THIS MEANS an end of the hope in foreign countries that "the talkies will kill American competition abroad." The pictures will be made here, they will talk German in Berlin, French in Paris, Italian in Rome.

So admirably was the language substitution accomplished that it was impossible to believe that Norma Shearer, sitting in the prisoner's box, or Barrymore, the lawyer, pleading for her life, was not talking German.

This industrial accomplishment in future will mean hundreds of millions in profits for an American industry.

THE WHITE HOUSE denies that there is any "policy of inflation" in the administration reconstruction program, which will lend two thousand million dollars, as a starter to tig folks in need of it.

That the President and his advisers do not intend inflation is certain. But inflation comes as other diseases come, of themselves, not planned.

This country is on a gold basis now and means to stay there. But we hand our gold to anybody that asks for it, with a certain piece of paper in his hand.

WHY DOES THIS government do it. No matter what paper money France may give you, neither you nor any Frenchman can get even one Louis d'Or in exchange for it. The French government has the gold, billions of it, keeps it in bars, coins none of it, lets not an ounce go out.

FRANCE IS ON A GOLD BASIS AND WILL STAY THERE BECAUSE FRANCE KEEPS HER GOLD.

SINCE WE MEAN to stay on the gold basis, why don't we arrange to keep our gold? We should cease paying it out to those that hurt the country by hoarding it, and absolutely forbid its exportation on any pretext.

The ignorant may say:

"If you don't pay gold on demand you abandon the gold basis."

That is nonsense. You are on a gold basis AS LONG AS YOU HAVE THE GOLD. And people will take your paper if they know you have the gold, just as they would take gladly a note signed by John D. Rockefeller.

WE SHOULD KEEP every ounce of our gold, add to our national supply constantly, and accumulate an overwhelming control of the world's gold metal. The world's gold supply amounts to about one-fourth the number of dollars that our government and bankers have sent abroad in the last few years.

SOMEBODY WHO planned to kill ground squirrels, carriers of disease, mixed a deadly poison, thalium salts, with a large pailful of grain.

Half-starved Mexicans stole the grain, made tortillas. Several have died, more are expected to die.

No one is to blame, unless you blame starving creatures for stealing grain, or those that mixed the poison, for leaving it where it might be stolen.

COULD NOT scientists in one of our great laboratories produce synthetically a scent that would lure to traps and death any desired kind of vermin. Science reproduces artificially the flavor and odor of the vanilla bean, and a thousand others.

Would it not be possible to create synthetically, such an odor as would attract one or both sexes of the animal to be destroyed? Could not this suggestion apply to harmful insects, moths and others? In every case the attracting odor would leave absolutely indiffer-

Society Woman Leads Manhunt On Horseback

MRS. JOHN HAY WHITNEY

Mrs. Whitney Gallops Into Blue Ridge After Fugitive

UPPERVILLE, Va., Jan. 28.—(INS.)—Mrs. John Hay Whitney has ridden to hounds many times, chasing the elusive fox. Now she has personally conducted a manhunt over the wooded hills of her Virginia estate.

Today there languishes behind the bars of Loudoun County Jail one Ernest Grayson, Negro, employed as a domestic on the Whitney estate, until Mrs. Whitney mounted a horse and rode him to cover.

Questioned about theft of a purse containing bonds, the Negro fled from the manor house, heading for the Blue Ridge Mountains that fringe the estate.

A horse was saddled for Mrs. Whitney who, accompanied by two grooms, led the chase. She took stiff barriers to head off the fugitive, caught up with him and trussed him with a rope while the grooms held the man's arms and legs.

It was near here that Mrs. Spencer Ilsley, wealthy sportswoman, and her maid were murdered. Two Negroes have been sought for that crime, but never apprehended. Mrs. Ilsley was a friend of the Whitneys.

Trainmen Agree to Pay Cut

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Agreement by railway labor upon a 10 per cent voluntary wage reduction was augured today in a resolution adopted by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, last holdout of the 20 union groups to vote.

The trainmen agreed to rejoin the brother organizations in seeking "the best settlement possible," but specified that the railroads must promise not to attempt another wage reduction for a full year after the termination of the contemplated year's reduction.

Strikers Parade Despite Ban Of Chief After 2 Seniors Are Jailed as Leaders

More than 200 boys and girls, striking pupils of Pitcairn High School, paraded noisily past the Pitcairn Police Station this afternoon in defiance of police orders that they disperse.

Inside the police station, arrested after they had been branded as ringleaders of the strike, were two seniors, Paul St. Clair, 17, and Jack Amend, 17, charged with malicious mischief.

PRINCIPAL HOOTED

When the 23 girls and 200 boys on strike had gathered for a parade outside the high school, Police Chief Warren McDowell had defeated their purpose with this command:

"All those going to school, go; all those not going, go home. There'll be no parade."

But they paraded later, many toting signs which demanded "We Want Weight"—Clifford Weight, mathematics instructor, whose accepted resignation is effective tomorrow.

At noon they stood outside the school and booed the principal, A. D. Morgenthal, as he walked from the building.

Then leaving the school they paraded through Pitcairn's streets. As they trotted past the police station they raised their voices in their demand for Weight.

RESIGNATION STANDS

Admittedly flattered by what he interpreted as a display of loyalty, Weight said he intended to stand by his resignation and insisted he had quit only because of ill health.

From one striker came a statement of the students:

"Weight was pretty easy with us. Some of the boys used to throw paper wads at him. He's getting fired on account of us and we'll see that he gets back."

St. Clair and Amend were arrested by Police Chief McDowell on information he said he had received from school authorities.

This was the second day of the strike. Yesterday 150 pupils were out, including one girl, Alice Fullerton, school basketball star.

Linda Watkins Weds Hess, Film Attorney

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—(INS.)—Linda Watkins, one of the younger Hollywood film stars, and Gabriel L. Hess, New York, were married here today between trains as they arrived from Hollywood. Then they departed for New York.

Hess is general counsel for the Motion Picture Producers' Association.

Gov. Pinchot, Wife Going to Bermuda

HARRISBURG, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Gov. and Mrs. Pinchot will leave New York on Saturday for a 10-day trip to Bermuda, returning here February 10.

The Governor left here Tuesday for Minneapolis, where he will address the Hennepin County Republican Club tonight.

AMBUSH DEATH CLUES FAIL

FAYETTE CITY, Pa., Jan. 28. The deeper police dig into the mystery surrounding the shooting from ambush of John Nutt, 19, at the Eskin farm near here late Tuesday night, the more baffling it becomes.

When the body of the farm hand was found within a few feet of the Eskin home, police anticipated an early solution.

Clues linking a stenographer as well as a married woman estranged from her husband, failed to throw light on the killing.

State police are tracing an auto with an Ohio license which is said to have been in the vicinity the night of the murder. Young Nutt and Russell Eskin routed a petting party in a car bearing an Ohio license a few days before the murder.

Young Nutt will be buried Sunday afternoon from the Perryopolis Methodist Episcopal Church.

Cold Wave Expected Here by Saturday

By Saturday Pittsburgh should feel the first touch of winter, Weather Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said today. A frigid wave sweeping out of the Northwest is following a rainy area which is expected to pass over Pittsburgh tonight and tomorrow. Friday night indications are for a drop in temperature with a further drop on Saturday. The cold spell will not tarry long, it was said.

Huey Long Speeding Back to Home Fight

Seen as Signal of Trapped Men to Show Position

PORTLAND, DORSETSHIRE, England, Jan. 28.—(INS.)—A slight ray of hope for the safety of 60 officers and men imprisoned aboard the missing submarine M-2 was raised this afternoon when the destroyer Sabre reported sighting a sudden spurt of oil rising to the surface of Dead Man's Bay near the spot where the submarine is believed to have sunk.

The Sabre dropped its anchor, and at 1:40 p. m. a gush of oil rose to the surface.

It was suggested that the anchor might have brushed the side of the sunken submersible and that survivors of the disaster heard the clank of metal, responding by releasing oil to reveal their exact position.

SIGNAL RUMOR FALSE

If this actually happened, however, naval experts were at a loss to explain why at no time during the last 48 hours have other oil patches been seen.

Previously, the admiralty issued an official denial of a rumor that the searching vessel Thruster had heard tappings from beneath the surface of the channel.

At 10:58 a. m. the Thruster reported it had contacted with some sunken object two miles from Abbotsbury. At this same spot the destroyer Salmon, some time previously, had dropped a lead line and fished it up marked with paint.

EXPLOSION REPORTED

LONDON, Jan. 28.—(INS.)—Possibility that the British submarine M-2 exploded before its mysterious disappearance more than 48 hours ago loomed suddenly today when a Danish ship reported having observed two explosions near where the M-2 disappeared eight hours after it was last seen.

HOUSE TO VETO 1931 TAX RAISE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(INS.)—No additional taxes will be applied on 1931 incomes and whatever increases Congress enacts in the forthcoming tax bill will begin with 1932 incomes, it was decided today by the Democrats of the House Ways and Means Committee.

The Democrats are agreed that the budget shall be balanced to maintain the credit of the United States.

The Democratic decision on the retroactivity feature was a blow at the tax program which Secretary of the Treasury Mellon proposed at the outset of the session.

MACHINE GUNS PERIL SECTOR GUARDED BY U. S. MARINES

BULLETIN.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 28.—(Friday, 2:30 A. M.) (INS.)—Japanese troops landed on the bund in the heart of the international settlement here early today, shortly after heavy fighting had broken out between Japanese and Chinese forces on the northern boundary of the district.

A brisk engagement was under way in the native chapei area, occupied several hours earlier by Japanese soldiers and Marines. Chinese snipers stationed on rooftops opened fire on Japanese soldiers in the streets. A steady enfilade of lead poured from both sides of the streets upon the troops below, inflicting heavy casualties among the Japanese forces.

International News Service.

SHANGHAI, Friday, Jan. 29.—Occupation of Shanghai early today was followed by heavy machine gun fire in the vicinity of the international settlement boundary line near the Japanese consulate on the Whangpoo River.

All traffic was stopped in the district. Telephone wires were severed by Japanese troops.

The occupation of the city began at midnight, preceded by a naval bombardment in which 40 shells were hurled at the Woosung forts.

An official statement from Japanese headquarters charged the Woosung forts had opened fire on Japanese warships anchored in the harbor.

The warships immediately returned the fire, silencing the forts within 10 minutes.

SENTRIES POSTED

Japanese authorities immediately began posting sentries at strategic places along the route of occupation. The Chapei district was expected to be entirely under Nipponese control by dawn, and utmost precautions were being taken to avoid disorders, which might result in consequences serious to the entire western world.

The Japanese troops moved with the speed and precision of a well-oiled machine. No attempt was made to demoralize the Chinese forces, which undertook evacuation as soon as the occupation began.

Chinese civilians were fleeing into the international settlement, where strong forces of American and other foreign troops and volunteer forces were on guard to take adequate protective measures in the event the evacuation developed into a disorderly rout.

CHINESE WITHDRAW

The Chinese had begun withdrawing from Chapei at about 10:30 p. m. to avoid hostilities.

At midnight, the Japanese were advancing in motor trucks, shooting great flares which picturesquely illuminated the native suburb of Chapei.

They entered the city from the north by the Dixwell road to avoid crossing the international settlement, where they would have come into conflict with American marines and British troops and Chinese volunteer forces.

Other strong Japanese detachments moved down the North Szechuen road, which leads to the international settlement, without meeting any resistance at all.

Admiral Shiosawa, Japanese naval commander in charge of the occupational forces, issued a proclamation warning the Chinese population not to become panicky, and declaring the Jap-

U. S. TO IGNORE TICKER PRICES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(INS.)—Credit will be extended by the new Reconstruction Corporation on the basis of the recognized intrinsic value of securities pledged as collateral rather than on depreciated market quotations, it was learned today.

It is believed this will have the effect of bringing about a material appreciation of quotations on stocks and bonds of real value. It will relieve banks by permitting them to attain a liquid position without disposing of their investments at a serious loss.

Gen. Charles G. Dawes and his associates conferred at the Treasury again today, following sessions that lasted well into last night.

Owing to the delay in obtaining confirmation of the board and the appointment of the last Democratic member the corporation can hardly start functioning before the last of next week.

Plot to Blast Pipe Line Laid to Woman, 4 Men

Accused of conspiracy in an alleged revenge plot to blow up a pipe line of the Sun Oil Company on the Reith farm, off the Franks-town road, Penn Township, four men and a woman are in jail, pending court trial.

A second woman, whose name was not disclosed by state police and Patrolman Samuel Bickerstaff, of Penn Township, who made the arrests, was released on her own recognizance following a hearing yesterday before Alderman Thomas M. Geary.

Those in jail in default of $2,500 bail each are Mrs. Freida Sturgeon, of Hill No. 5, Gascola; Homer Vaughn, of Gascola, Floyd Verzinski, his brother, Harold, and George Lott, of Universal.

According to State Patrolman John O'Mara, the women admitted plotting to blow up the pipe line out of revenge for the oil company having prosecuted two members of their families for alleged tapping of an oil line last year, which resulted in their being sentenced to the workhouse.

According to testimony at the hearing, 31 sticks of dynamite with fuse attached were found in a hole lodged against the oil line by laborers, January 8. Oil seepage had drenched the dynamite and prevented its explosion, state police said.

The five denied the charges.

Allen Indicted as Slayer, Sister Faces Grand Jury

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Jan. 28.—(INS.)—Edward H. B. Allen was indicted for the murder of Francis A. Donaldson III, his sister's sweetheart, by the grand jury of Montgomery County this afternoon, after they had heard secret testimony by Rose Allen herself.

Allen took the report of the jury stolidly. With a look of confusion on his pale face, he rose and followed a deputy sheriff back to jail without a word.

Allen did not catch a glimpse of his sister, whose testimony was the last the grand jurors heard before sending out word that no more witnesses were necessary. Rose, who will be called at the trial by the commonwealth, was before the jury for 11 minutes.

It was believed Miss Allen told her story of family squabbles and undiscouraged love for Donaldson. With chin held high and brown eyes tearless, the debutante for whom a brother is said to have turned murderer, marched into the room with a manner which said plainly: "I'm going to tell the truth, regardless of what happens!"

It was in accordance with an old English custom still followed in Montgomery County, that Allen was taken before the grand jury before formal indictment.

Swissvale Youth Ends Life With Gun

William Book, 19, graduate of Swissvale High School, shot and fatally wounded himself today in his home, 2005 Noble street, Swissvale, the coroner reported. He was found with a gunshot wound in his head and was removed to Braddock General Hospital where he died soon after being admitted.

He had been morose for a week, the coroner was informed. The case was listed as suicide.

DAVIS ACCEPTABLE TO G.O.P. ORGANIZATION, MARTIN SAYS

SENATOR GIVEN BACKING OF VARE

Expected to Announce Stand On Dry Law Issue Soon; East to Dictate Platform

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The statement that Senator Davis' renomination would be "satisfactory to the Republican state organization of Pennsylvania" was made here today by Edward Martin, Republican state chairman.

Martin said the eastern part of the state would be identified as Philadelphia should be permitted to select a senatorial candidate for the Republican state ticket. Publisher reports from Philadelphia say Davis already had been indorsed by the Republican city committee.

Davis lives in Pittsburgh but he was elected in 1930 by William S. Vare, head of the Philadelphia organization.

As for the platform of Davis Martin said:

"Whatever Philadelphia does is all right with us."

Vare Leaders Back Davis for Senate

International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 28.—Dropping his attitude of watchful waiting, United States senator James A. Davis will announce his stand on the liquor question probably late this week, according to reports given credence here today.

His declaration, it is understood, will be acceptable to William S. Vare and the anti-dry Philadelphia organization.

Through a spokesman, Republican leaders who met yesterday in Vare's office here announced last night that they would support Davis for re-election.

Senator Davis is to establish a permanent residence in Chester County as a salient move in the harmony agreement between Davis and Eastern Pennsylvania political chieftains, it is understood.

In addition to Davis for senator, the probable slate for the Republican state ticket, it was indicated, would include Attorney General Frank E. Baldwin of Potter County, State Treasurer Charles A. Waters of Philadelphia, and Superior Court Robert S. Gawthrop of Chester County and former Lieut. Gov. Arthur James, Luzerne County.

DEMOCRATIC TARIFF SNAGS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The Senate Finance Committee today voted an unfavorable report on a revised House Democratic tariff bill.

There was no roll call on the motion to send the bill to the Senate with an adverse report, but an earlier move to report it favorably resulted in a tie, 10 to 10, with Senator La Follette (Rep.) of Wisconsin joining the nine Democratic members in voting for it.

Before the bill can come up on the floor, Chairman Smoot must make his report and the bill be sent to the calendar to await its turn.

The measure contains several amendments proposed by Senator Harrison of Mississippi, ranking Democrat on the Finance Committee.

Cash to Widows Of Vets Approved

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—A bill to give cash allowances to dependent widows, orphans and dependent parents of World War veterans was approved today by the House Veterans Committee.

Editorial Comment On League of Nations Statement by Baker

Here is the editorial comment of New York newspapers on Newton D. Baker's statement in which he temporarily renounced the League of Nations as an issue in national politics. Mr. Baker has been one of the most conspicuous advocates of the league since its inception.

From the New York Herald-Tribune Republican

MR. BAKER RETURNS TO THE PICTURE

Mr. Baker takes great pains to remove from the minds of all who may be interested any impression that his nomination would bring America into the league. He doesn't even want a league plank in the Democratic platform. The league should not be a partisan issue.

"I would not take the United States into the league, if I had the power to do so, until there is an informed and convinced majority sentiment in favor of that action in the United States."

These words and the further declaration that any opinion he may have as to America's relationship to the league must be looked upon simply as that of a private citizen, were intimations taken altered with the hope of relieving the speaker of the burden which advocacy of the league inevitably imposes upon any candidate for public office.

Mr. Baker's return to the picture will be widely welcomed. The pity is that he ever felt it necessary to handicap his candidacy with such a hopelessly impractical and doomed issue as American entrance into the league.

From the New York Evening Sun, Independent

BAKER AND THE LEAGUE

The statement of Newton D. Baker on American adherence to the League of Nations naturally leaves the impression that he hopes to be nominated for President and wishes to throw off the handicap which any candidate favoring the league must carry. He speaks with apparent frankness, but he is not convincing when he tries to separate his opinion as a private citizen from his opinion as a public man.

If he perhaps the most fervent advocate of the League in his party, were to be elected president, would not the league propagandists in this country hail the event as a signal for American adherence? And how is Mr. Baker to discover an "informed and convinced majority sentiment" for adherence unless the league is made an issue in a presidential campaign? In 1920 the Democratic platform described the league as "the surest if not the only practicable means of maintaining the peace of the world."

The league was the paramount issue and the popular verdict was a majority of 7,000,000 votes against American adherence. No wonder Mr. Baker shies from a repetition of 1920, and yet it is impossible to think of him without thinking of his loyalty to the league or to think of him as president without fearing that the executive power would be used to put us into the league.

From the New York Evening Post, Independent

MR. BAKER IS BACK IN THE RING

There are many New York Republicans this year to whom the Democratic presidential nomination is of as much if not more interest and concern than is the Republican nomination. This is due partly to the fact that they know Mr. Hoover's nomination to be conceded and partly to their half-determination to vote for a Democrat, should a strong man, strong on prohibition reform, be named.

Such Republicans have viewed with alarm the tendency to let the Democratic nomination go to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York in the default of running anyone against him. Their individual opposition to Gov. Roosevelt is almost incredible.

Nearly all of them say he is a weak and time-serving man, not big enough for the presidency either in mind or character. They would not follow Roosevelt out of their party. They would vote for Hoover.

Mr. Baker in the estimation of the country had half stepped out of the ring. While his strength as a possibility for the Democratic nomination had been blossoming into full bloom, he suddenly began making speeches for the League of Nations. He did it not only once but frequently and pointedly. Over this there was first deep puzzlement and then, quiet acceptance of his evident intention to kill his candidacy. For it was known that no sane politician was going to rush out and force the nomination of a man shooting off fireworks for so unpopular a thing as the league.

Mr. Baker has now lightened—we will not say removed—that burden.

Yet there is politics in it. It is unmistakable. By his words he puts himself back into the ring, and he does it just after Gov. Roosevelt, his main opponent, has formally stepped into it. Mr. Baker's politics may be wise politics, permissible politics, but politics it is.

The cause will return to plague him. Extreme anti-leaguists will never accept a candidate for the presidency who is for the league and will do everything he can to cooperate with it and promote it in the United States, even if he says he does not want to join it right now. If Stimson, they will say, despite the country's veto, put an American at the league council table at Geneva, what might not a confessed pro-leaguer, like Baker, do?

BAKER'S LEAGUE STAND BLOW TO ROOSEVELT

Ohio Man, Believed Active Contender for Nomination; Opposes Foreign Tieups

By LOUIS SEIBOLD
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—The League of Nations (symbol for internationalism) is rapidly becoming unpopular with all American political parties.

Newton D. Baker's left-handed renunciation of the Wilson project as a presidential campaign issue is likely to cause embarrassment to all contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Mr. Baker's willingness to jettison the league in the coming campaign is naturally interpreted to mean that he is ready to accept the presidential nomination of his party by forgetting all about the "solemn referendum" of which he has been the most conspicuous advocate since its inception.

Whether the Democratic party will confer this honor on the Ohio statesman on the terms defined by him remains to be seen. Mr. Baker's reservation proclaiming his personal belief in the value of the league will probably impair his chances.

ACTIVE CONTENDER

Democratic comment both in New York and Washington clearly reflects the impression that Mr. Baker will become an active contender for the Democratic presidential nomination under almost any conditions that the nominating convention may impose.

With this thought in mind, Democratic leaders express the opinion that Mr. Baker has erected a hurdle that Gov. Roosevelt will now find it difficult to negotiate.

Gov. Roosevelt, next to Mr. Baker, has been an ardent and consistent champion of internationalism ever since it was fostered by Woodrow Wilson.

Mr. Roosevelt has sedulously avoided any public statement regarding his present views of both the league and collateral affiliations of an international character. Mr. Roosevelt declared the other day that he did not propose to discuss national affairs until after the adjournment of the State Legislature.

ROOSEVELT'S DILEMMA

Leaders in both political parties appear to concur in the opinion that Mr. Baker has put Gov. Roosevelt in a tough hole by his declaration that the League of Nations should not be made an issue during the coming campaign. Mr. Roosevelt must copy Mr. Baker or stand by the league.

ATTRACTS LEADERS

Regarding Mr. Baker's actual state of mind regarding the presidential nomination, there does not exist much doubt that Mr. Baker will attract a good many leaders of the party who have been counted up to date as favoring Mr. Roosevelt.

Party interest now squarely revolves around men who are regarded as willing to be drafted to head the national ticket in the coming presidential campaign. These are Gov. Roosevelt, Mr. Baker, Speaker Garner and Alfred E. Smith.

Of these, Mr. Baker and Mr. Garner have gone on record as opposing the projection of the League issue into the coming campaign. Speaker Garner has consistently opposed the League and all other aspects of internationalism for many years.

The fact is that the speaker made known his opposition to the League project when it was first suggested by Woodrow Wilson.

VOTE MACHINE BRIBE DENIED

HARRISBURG, Jan. 28.—(INS)—The Senate investigation committee's findings in a probe of an alleged bribe offered to Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard Beamish rested today with the Attorney's General's Department and carried an emphatic denial from George O'Brien of any bribery attempt.

O'Brien, a former newspaperman and a former port appraiser of Philadelphia, offered Beamish $20,000 if a contract for 800 voting machines in Philadelphia went to the Shoup Voting Machine Company, according to Beamish's statements. This O'Brien flatly denied. He said:

"I was promised a job if the contract went to Shoup, but there was no talk of money and no talk of $20,000."

Senator Frank J. Harris, chairman of the committee, questioned O'Brien.

The Philadelphia man told of visits to Secretary Beamish and admitted he urged the latter to give every consideration to the Shoup company in the contract awarding. He repeated, nevertheless, his assertions that he made no reference to "$20,000" or to "something nice" for Beamish.

Police Exonerated In Coraopolis Killing

Two Coraopolis policemen, Henry Rhodes and Samuel Rawe, were exonerated by a Coroner's jury in the death of Harry Young, 32, of 834 Pennsylvania avenue, Coraopolis, killed while robbing a store. The jury held the shooting justifiable.

BEGS FOR LIFE HE TRIED TO END

TUSCALOOSA, Jan. 28.—(Universal)—After shooting himself in an attempt to discover more quickly the mysteries after death, Charles E. Butts, University of Alabama student, last night apparently lost his taste for knowledge in the beyond, and pleaded with surgeons to save his life.

With a pistol wound in the head, the studious Butts was nearer death than life as he was placed on an operating table for an emergency operation. He said:

"I want to live. I know now nothing is more important than life."

Attendants said Butts' chances of recovery were about one in 20.

West Farmington, O., Bank Closes Doors

WARREN, O., Jan. 28.—(AP.)—The Farmers Banking Company at West Farmington, Trumbull County, failed to open today. Directors asked that it be taken over by the State Banking Department. Gradual withdrawal of deposits was given as the reason for the closing. The bank was capitalized at $25,000, and had deposits of approximately $120,000.

LEWIS SCORES MINER FOES

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 28.—(INS)—John L. Lewis, fighting president of the United Mine Workers of America, with vitriolic oratory, struck back at the assaults of his union enemies today.

Taking the speaker's rostrum at the organization's constitutional convention today, Lewis defended his international administration against the attacks of John Himmarsh, member of the executive board of the rebel District 12 (Illinois) and other Illinois mine chieftains.

During the course of the address, Lewis described graphically the union's view of "terrible conditions" in the non-union fields of West Virginia, Alabama, Kentucky and other states.

Then the union chieftain read the bill of United States Senator James J. Davis, and Representative Clyde Kelly, both of Pittsburgh, which Lewis said would correct many of the abuses suffered by members of the U. M. W. A. in those areas. This measure now is pending in Congress.

'Little White Lies' By Women Defended

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(Universal.)—Women tell twice as many "little white lies" as men, Dr. Julius B. Maller, Columbia University research psychologist, declared in announcing results of a survey of untruths.

But, the psychologist hastened to add, women don't lie so much because of dishonesty as because they are more considerate of their friends' feelings than men are.

MELLON CHARGE SCANNED IN CONGRESS

Secretary Denies Part in Oil Concession, Loan; Committee Given Papers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The impeachment charges brought against Secretary Mellon by Representative Patman (Dem.), of Texas, today were referred to a House judiciary sub-committee for detailed study.

Chairman Sumners announced this action after a closed session of the full committee. He said:

"This subcommittee will study the arguments made before the committee, segregate them and direct the attention of the full committee to the pertinent sections for its consideration."

The subcommittee will analyze the statements made before the committee by Patman and Alexander Gregg, Mellon's representative.

SENATE TESTIMONY

The committee also was directed to study testimony taken by the Senate Finance Committee in its investigation of the sale of foreign securities in this country.

Mellon has denied there was any relation between a credit extension to Colombia and the Barco concession obtained by an oil company in which he has a large interest.

The foreign loan hearing, conducted by the Senate Finance Committee, is now closed. As its result the group turned today to a study of legislation designed to put a strong curb on future international loans.

The record bulges with intimations of bribery; unproved charges linking valuable concessions to the making of loans; assertions that bonds floated in this country served to maintain Latin-American dictatorships. It has been testified that some bankers ignored warnings against making unsound loans.

ANSWERS CAPPER

What finally persuaded Mellon to issue a statement was a recent broadcast by Senator Capper (Rep., of Kansas, who said "some people in high places in this government appear to have betrayed their trust" in connection with the Latin American deals.

The measures for control of further foreign loans which were before the Finance Committee today are the offerings of Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California, the man responsible for the entire investigation.

In one he proposed creating a "foreign loan board," composed of the Secretaries of State and Commerce and the governor of the Federal Reserve Board, to pass on all loans to other countries.

The second would require public reports to the Secretary of Commerce on the terms of the loans and the estimated profits.

Rebels Rout Troops, Seize Salvador Town

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Jan. 28.—(Universal)—Rebels in Salvador have beaten back federal troops in interior, inflicting heavy losses, and were early today reported in control of Acajutla, in whose harbor lie the American destroyers Wicks and Phillips.

New officers, crossing the Honduran border, are declared to have rallied the retreating Reds to a fresh attack on the eastern seaboard with the object of taking San Miguel, second most important city in the republic, before sweeping on to San Salvador, the capital.

Coleman Appointed Boreman Receiver

R. H. Coleman today was appointed receiver of Louis Boreman, druggist, trading as Boreman Drug Stores, with stores at 260 Fifth avenue and at Stanwix street and Liberty avenue. An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed earlier by three creditors, whose claims were given at $7,358. Coleman's bond was placed at $10,000 by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker.

Geneva Delegates From U. S. in France

CHERBOURG, France, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Senator Claude A. Swanson and Dr. Emma Woolley, American delegates to the disarmament conference at Geneva, arrived today aboard the steamer President Harding, and started for Switzerland immediately by way of Paris.

Dorothy Lee, Film Actress, Under Knife

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. (AP.)—Dorothy Lee, screen actress, underwent an operation for appendicitis yesterday. The surgeon, Dr. H. G. Rosenberger, said her condition was good.

Physician Paroled In Narcotic Sales

Dr. E. E. Phillips, 51, Republic physician, was paroled for two years today by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker after pleading guilty to violating the Harrison Narcotic act. Arrested when Federal agents rounded up a dope ring, Phillips was charged with the sale of 247 grains of morphine on November 25 and smaller amounts at other times. Charles Zaborsky, 30, of Uniontown, charged with aiding and abetting the sale, was paroled for a year.

Two Assemblymen File Primary Papers

HARRISBURG, Jan. 28.—Two Republican members of the House were the first candidates to file their nominating petitions with State Elections Bureau. Their petitions were received this morning, one day after they could be legally circulated for the April primary. Representative Harry E. Himes, of Kittanning, and Representative Harvey A. Surface, Selins Grove, are the two aspirants for re-election. Himes is a member of the House from Armstrong and Surface from Snyder County.

WALES HECKLED IN LONDON SPEECH

Prince Ignores Disorder Instigated by Women; Urges Warfare on Slump

LONDON, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Royalty, in the person of England's popular Prince of Wales, was heckled by women at a meeting last night when he spoke of British interests abroad and cried out against depression. A group of women shouted at the Prince:

"Withdraw the forces from India!"

ADDRESSES BOYS

Wales addressed 10,000 boys and girls in Albert Hall at a meeting arranged by the National Council for Social Service.

One woman was removed from the hall by attendants. The Prince, who ignored the interruption, went on with his address. Cheers had filled the hall earlier when the Prince said depression and apathy were the devil's own. He cried:

"They're not English. Away with them."

The women who heckled the prince previously had broken in on Capt. E. A. Fitzroy, speaker of the House of Commons. While he was addressing the meeting they shouted remarks about the unemployed.

2 JURORS ILL, TRUNK TRIAL MAY HALT

Mental Experts Await Call After Ruth Judd's Father Cites Insanity in Family

By ARTHUR L. MAREN
International News Service.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 28.—Upon the tonsils and temperature of M. T. White, Phoenix clerk and juror in the trial of Winnie Ruth Judd, the fate of the double trunk murder case hinged today.

Whether Mrs. Judd's trial could be resumed later today will be determined by White's condition.

Judge Howard C. Speakman set 1 p. m. as the hour for the report to him on the condition of Juror White, who yesterday afternoon was ordered to go to bed in an effort to break up a bad cold.

Joseph L. Standage, an alternate juror, also was indisposed.

Should both jurors be unable to continue, Judge Speakman could order either a recess of reasonable time, or declare a mistrial.

EXPERTS WAITING

In the meantime a small army of psychiatrists, pathologists and medical experts were eager to get their hands and ears on hypothetical questions with which the jury is to be assisted in determining if Winnie Ruth Judd was insane when she killed Agnes Anne Leroi and Hedwig Samuelson, if she did.

These hypothetical questions were being polished by prosecution and defense, following testimony and cross examination of Ruth's relatives as part of her defense.

Her attorney had gone back 100 years into Ruth's ancestry to find a great-grandmother who died in Scotland of "mental trouble."

The good lady lost her mind after her husband, Ruth's great-grandfather, was waylaid by cattle thieves. The squire's body was found in a peat bog long after he disappeared. That tragedy caused Ruth's ancient relative's untimely death in 1830.

FATHER AIDS CAUSE

This story, with many additional details, was one of the high lights of the testimony of Mrs. Judd's 72-year-old father, the Rev. Harvey Joy McKinnell, who was one of her main witnesses in the insanity phase of her defense.

Dr. McKinnell's testimony was followed by three depositions from other relatives. Uncles and cousins told of others in the family who suffered from mental diseases.

It was after the reading of the last deposition that Judge Speakman ordered a 24-hour recess. Dr. George Brockway, called in by Judge Speakman, examined the two ill jurors and ordered that they be put to bed and be given medical attention.

To add to the unexpected, a 60-year-old woman spectator collapsed in the crowded section reserved for spectators as Judge Speakman was ordering the two ailing jurors to bed.

SEEK KIDNAPERS WHO RELEASED RICH CAPTIVE

Police Guarding Indiana Roads; Ransom Amount Not Revealed by Kin

International News Service.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 28.—Released by a gang of kidnapers who had threatened to kill him, Howard A. Woolverton, wealthy manufacturer, was back in his home today, recuperating from his 24-hour ordeal as a captive.

Mr. Woolverton

Unharmed, he ran through the door of his palatial house in South Bend's fashionable East Side 14 minutes before midnight last night. He cried:

"Where is Florence?"

He was told that his wife was upstairs, suffering from tortured nerves resulting from the tension of waiting for word about her missing husband. Woolverton dashed upstairs to his wife's bedside.

$15,000 OFFERED

Whether or not a ransom was paid for the millionaire's release was undisclosed. But, it was thought that the desperadoes who tore Woolverton away from his wife Tuesday night did not collect the $50,000 they had demanded for their captive's freedom. Yesterday Woolverton's relatives offered to pay $15,000 for his release and it was believed possible that this amount had been delivered.

Woolverton's appearance before his house last night amazed a heavy detail of state troopers and city police who were guarding the building. But, before they could ask any questions the 52-year-old secretar, treasurer of the Malleable Steel Range Company literally leaped up the stairs of the front porch and dashed into the house.

Thus ended one of the most feverish manhunts ever conducted in Indiana. Throughout yesterday machine gun details and heavily armed state highway police searched every highway in Northern Indiana for the big sedan in which the kidnapers had spirited Woolverton away.

SEARCH CONTINUES

Citizens of South Bend raised a fund of $10,000 to be paid as a reward for information leading to capture of the kidnap gang.

Although Woolverton was safe at home, the search for "his abductors was not discontinued. Authorities expressed their determination to bring the gang to justice.

Woolverton was in seclusion today. Only members of his family were permitted to enter his home. One relative said he had been released from the kidnapers' automobile two blocks from his home. Full details of the liberation will be made public later, it was announced by Judge C. A. Farrabaugh, the family's attorney.

PEAK OF CRISIS YET TO COME, SAYS LEADER

Maxwell Declares Larger Sum Needed; Boards of Trade Favor U. S. Loan

Declaring the peak of the unemployment crisis has not yet been reached, Wilbur F. Maxwell, director of the Welfare Fund, last night asserted relief leaders will be forced to resort to local tax funds, of an undefined nature, to provide relief to needy families in Allegheny County.

Despite the need, federal relief is a last resort and cannot be substituted for local funds, he declared at a meeting of the Allied Boards of Trade in the Congress of Women's Clubs. On the basis of requests already made to the Welfare Fund, a much larger sum will be needed than is now available, he said.

PUBLIC AID NEEDED

The final possibilities of private relief efforts were reached in the $6,000,000 drive of the Welfare Fund and Allegheny County Emergency Association and found incapable of providing adequate funds, he declared, pointing out that leaders were forced to request public aid to attain the goal of the drive.

Between 500 and 700 new cases are being reported daily to the Welfare Fund, he said. In an effort to reach more needy families in less time, he urged the cooperation of neighborhood organizations with the fund.

Judge M. A. Musmanno, of the County Court, discussed the activities of the County Court, but declined to speak on economic or political matters, saying he wished to further acquaint himself with his new position before expressing his views. He was scheduled to speak on "United States Government Relief."

BOARDS URGE TAXATION

Recommendations passed by the Allied Boards at their regular meeting which followed urged that every adult be taxed, that no income from securities be tax free, that proper allowance be made in tax exemption to heads of families, and that a share of state taxes be returned to cities, boroughs and townships.

The organization also recommended passage of the Costigan-La Follette bill for $5,000,000,000 to provide work.

Protesting present utility rates, the boards recommended use of stickers announcing that bills are "paid under protest until rates are reduced to conform with business conditions."

Harry Bastow, president, presided.

DUCE BATTLES BIRTH CONTROL

ROME, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Premier Benito Mussolini has proposed a threefold responsibility for Italian physicians—to fight against birth control, to discourage the desire of women for "excessive thinness" and to encourage better mental and physical life.

The charge to the physicians was given in an address made by Il Duce to the Italian Medical Congress made public today.

The Premier said the birthrate was diminishing even in Italy, where 56,000 fewer births occured in 1930 than in the previous year. He also counselled the doctors to fight anti-Fascism and economic depression in their bedside talks with patients.

He told the physicians to go into the 8,000 towns in Italy and teach the people the value of "sun and movement" and to encourage outdoor life with the motorcycle, the automobile, gymnastics and sports, not only for their physical but for their moral benefits.

ALIBI HINTED IN CHERO TRIAL

TROY, N. Y., Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Court observers saw a possible defense today in the case of two Pennsylvania youths on trial for their lives in connection with the murder of a New York state trooper.

John Moore, counsel for Stanley Chero, of Broughton, Pa., one of the accused youths, asked a prospective juror:

"If we show you that these boys were not at that particular place at the time of the shooting, would you give them the benefit of the doubt?"

When the reply was in the affirmative, Harry E. Clinton, district attorney of Rensselaer County, peremptorily challenged the man.

William Schemnitzer, also of Broughton, is on trial with Chero. Both were arrested at McAlester, Okla., after Sergt. John E. Frey, of the New York state police, was shot and killed a few miles south of here last March. Half of the 12 jurors needed were in the box when court opened today, the fourth day of the trial.

CHILD SLAYER HELD INSANE

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Charles Bischoff, eccentric cobbler and confessed kidnaper-slayer of 6-year-old Marian McLean, was declared insane today by three court-appointed alienists.

Judge C. S. Bell previously announced he would send Bischoff to Lima State Hospital for Criminal Insane if alienists found him of unsound mind.

The alienists studied Bischoff's case for 10 days.

Kidnaping of the McLean girl December 19 and discovery of her mutilated body five days later by Bischoff in the basement of his tenement aroused this city to the greatest man hunt in its history.

Indicted for first degree murder, Bischoff refused to enter a plea. His attorneys said he was mentally unbalanced and asked Judge Bell to investigate his sanity.

Mauled by Lion, Trainer Near Death

Film Union Insists Stars Also Take Cut

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Organized labor in the motion picture studios is willing to submit to a wage cut for the good of the industry provided the salary reductions are made to apply also to stars, writers, directors and other highly paid individuals.

Lew Blik, official of International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, outlined the union stand yesterday.

FATHER OF ILL BABY ACCUSED

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Back into the silence which the father of Diane Moore, 13-months-old baby whose only chance to escape idiocy is a dangerous surgical operation, broke with a brief telegram urging her to "take the chance," Mrs. Lillian Moore, the infant's mother today sent her answer.

It was in the form of a visit to the district attorney's office, where she accused her husband, James N. Moore, now said to be in Detroit, of abandoning her and the child. She is expected to present evidence to the grand jury.

DORMONT WIFE WINS MEDAL

The Carnegie Hero Fund Commission today announced award of a bronze medal to Mrs. Edward Mansfield Hoopes, 26, of 2880 Dwight avenue, Dormont, for saving the life of a girl in Guilford, Conn., July 17, 1931.

The rescued girl was Margaret I. Brown, 19, who became exhausted while swimming in the West River at Guilford, and was carried 22 feet from the shore. Hearing her screams, Mrs. Hoopes, fully attired, dived into the water and swam to the struggling girl. Near the bank Mrs. Hoopes slipped back into deep water four times. With the aid of a man on the shore she finally landed the exhausted girl safely.

The first to congratulate Mrs. Hoopes on the medal award was her husband, Edward Hoopes, III. Informed by his wife over the telephone, he hurried from his law office to congratulate her.

Mrs. Hoopes, prominent in social circles and the Daughters of the American Revolution, is the daughter of Capt. and Mrs. J. Clark Mansfield, 1213 Milton street.

Vatican Consents To Fascist Teaching

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—The Catholic church agreed last night to co-operate with the Italian government's program for the preliminary military instruction of children.

Bishops throughout Italy were ordered to guarantee enrollment in the Fascist Ballila of pupils in all Catholic private schools, with military training as part of the scholastic course.

High School Pupils Have Perfect Marks

American Admiral To Fight Bandits

HANKOW, China, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—There was intense excitement throughout the province of Wuhan today because of suddenly renewed activities by bandits, one group of which came within 10 miles of Hankow today.

Admiral Yancey Williams, commanding the American Yangtze patrol, conferred with the foreign consular officials considering means to oppose the menace if it should increase.

Silver Slump Probe Approved in House

WOMAN HALTS JOHN D.'S GOLF

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Jan. 28.—(Universal.)—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., failed to appear on the Ormond Beach golf course yesterday and a veil of mystery surrounded the reason.

Some say that a cold caused his absence, but still others held to the opinion that the persistency of a woman fanatic, seeking an interview, forced his seclusion.

Rockefeller a few days ago changed his point of entry to the golf course to a more distant and secluded spot when the woman persisted in trying to pass the guards to see him.

Orders have been given to the guards by Rockefeller to treat the mysterious woman with the utmost courtesy, a guard said, but she is not to be permitted to annoy him.

Hoover Indorsement Seen in N. Dakota

MINOT, N. D., Jan. 28.—(AP.)—North Dakota Republicans met in state convention here today with indorsement of President Hoover forecast by party leaders.

Dr. J. I. France, former Maryland Senator, is the only Republican candidate who has so far filed for the preference primary. He was entered by the Progressive Republican party of North Dakota at its convention last week. The Democratic convention indorsed Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Washington Hunters Back Pinchot Policy

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 28.—Monongahela Valley sportsmen last night broke radically away from the general trend of Pennsylvania sportsmen's groups, in adopting resolutions commending Gov. Pinchot's stand in the controversy with the State Game Commission, and condemning the commission's policy in regard to distribution of game.

Seventy sportsmen attended the gathering, held in Charleroi. Fred W. Brady, of Charleroi, presided. Principal speakers were Thomas P. Sloan, of North Charleroi, and Malcolm Mehafey, of California.

DIVER SEES SLIM HOPE FOR SUB

Ex-Naval Officer Here Discusses Sinking of M-2

Unless rescue work is started at once, the chances are that the crew of the British submarine M-2 will meet the fate of all good sailors, according to Francis G. Smith, of Pittsburgh, retired lieutenant in the United States Navy and an active figure in the diving around the hull of the sunken United States submarine S-51.

Smith, commenting on newspaper reports of the sinking of the M-2, said the fact the ship had gone down stern first would indicate it struck the mud stern first and stuck there. This position would be serious since it would spill acid from the batteries and generate deadly gas.

The torpedo tubes might be the only method of escape from a ship in such a position, he said. If the men are provided with "safety lungs," they should be able to reach the surface, he declared. The average depth of water in the neighborhood of the accident, he estimated at 160 feet.

When a submarine sticks in the mud, it requires some powerful force to break it loose from the suction, Smith declared. He spoke briefly of his own experience in tunneling through the mud under the S-51 to get cables around the ship.

FRANCIS G. SMITH

Chances of British Sailors' Escape Held Slight

The S-51 was rammed by the steamer City of Rome and sank in 30 seconds to a depth of 150 feet. The accident occurred in Long Island Sound, 14 miles off Block Island. All but three of the crew perished.

Smith, who was at the Bureau of Mines in Pittsburgh working on deep sea diving experiments, was called upon to assist in raising the S-51. The plan of Commander Edward Ellsberg was to tunnel through the mud under the sunken ship in order to attach lines to pontoons.

Water pressure from a hose was used in the tunneling. One day while Smith was working with the hose under the hull of the S-51, the mud caved in on him. Through a telephone he let the men at the surface know this, and then set to work to free himself. He was able to force his way out without help.

Smith has been called to attend a conference with Simon Lake, submarine inventor, who is planning an expedition to dive for valuables on the Lusitania passenger liner sunk during the World War near the Irish coast.

anese had no malice at all toward innocent civilians.

TERMS ACCEPTED

Previous to the occupation, the Chinese mayor, Wu Te-Chen, had unconditionally accepted the Japanese demands shortly before the expiration of the time limit set in the final ultimatum of the Japanese.

Doubting the sincerity of the Mayor's reply, the Japanese ordered Marines to visit and occupy headquarters of the Chinese Boycott Association to investigate the Mayor's success in having the organization cease its campaign against Japanese goods.

United States Marines and British troops repaired the earthworks of the international settlement and erected barbed wire entanglements.

Americans were warned to take refuge in the international settlement.

It was known Japan wished to avoid international complications but, with the Japanese action, there arose a great danger of an avert act on the part of either the Chinese or Japanese which would embroil other nations.

MARINES ON GUARD

There are roughly about 3,000 Americans in and around Shanghai.

In addition to the to the 1,500 Marines and sailors there are approximately 3,500 civilian population, mostly engaged in business ventures. Nearly all large American corporations like the Standard Oil, American Tobacco Company and General Motors have establishments in the city.

The destroyers the Truxton and the Sobie are in the vicinity of Shanghai, and there are gunboats strung along up the Yangtze River.

There has been much speculation as to whether more American warships might be ordered here from the Manila base, but thus far no orders have been issued, and officials have been reticent to discuss the matter.

Japanese, Russian Troops Near Clash at Harbin

TOKIO, Jan. 28.—(INS)—A threatening situation developed at Harbin, Manchuria, tonight with the possibility of a clash between Japanese and Russian troops.

Simultaneous with receipt of word that Japanese troops accompanied by two tanks had reached the city from Changchun to protect Japanese citizens from rioting Chinese, came news that the Soviet military authorities at Vladivostok were preparing to send an armored train to Harbin at once.

The Russian officials, Vladivostok dispatches said, were deeply concerned over Japanese seizure of a branch line of the Chinese Eastern Railway from Changchun to Harbin to transport troops.

Japan Won't Aggravate Crisis, Stimson Told

TOKIO, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The United States government at Washington today asked Tokio for information on just what steps the Japanese contemplated taking in dealing with the Shanghai situation and the foreign office reply was most reassuring.

The reply stated the Japanese have no intention of aggravating the situation.

Secretary Stimson's note was more in the form of an inquiry and it was explained authoritatively it could not be considered as a protest.

Stimson Requests Japan To Explain Intentions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(INS)—The American government has asked Japan for a statement of Japanese policy and intention with regard to the occupation of Shanghai.

Secretary of State Stimson announced today that an official inquiry has been directed at the Japanese Foreign Office.

President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson appeared to be seeking the public support of the nation for a more aggressive stand against the overrunning of China by Japan than has yet been taken.

This was the interpretation given in responsible quarters to the seeming coincidence that the full file of State Department correspondence dealing with the Sino-Japanese crisis in Manchuria was sent to the Senate and made public.

A number of lines of action are known to have been under consideration. Among these is the thought of an economic boycott against Japan, which has been revived. Such action was freely discussed in unofficial circles last year, after Japan had flouted a demand by the League of Nations Council that she withdraw troops from non-treaty zones by November 13. It was dropped when it failed of support from other countries, particularly France and Great Britain.

Meanwhile the impending danger of open warfare between Japan and China today provoked Senator Dill (Dem.) of Washington, into sponsoring a resolution prohibiting shipment of arms or ammunition to either nation.

The resolution would make it unlawful for any American firm to ship any munition of war to either Japan or China or any faction in either country. A penalty of $10,000 fine and two years imprisonment was provided in the measure.

League Sees U. S.-Japan Conflict Inevitable

By WYTHE WILLIAMS
Universal Service

GENEVA, Jan. 28.—The United States is sure to come to blows with Japan sooner or later over the crisis in the Far East, and for this reason it would be unwise for the League of Nations to support American action.

This was the sentiment dominating the council table today, where criticism was being freely expressed of Washington's aloofness and determination not to have an American observer sit in with the league council. The council fears, moreover, that China will demand definite action which the league is not prepared to take.

W. W. Yen, Chinese delegate, last night drew up with the aid of Robert E. Olds, formerly connected with the American State Department, a document invoking additional articles of the league covenant, which it is hoped will force the council to make a decisive move.

ent all but the particular creature for whom it was intended?

Standard Oil, General Motors, General Electric, Big Steel and other great chemical laboratories are invited to think about that.

AT MIAMI, Gar Wood yesterday drove his speedboat "Miss America Ninth" at an average speed of more than 110 miles an hour, a world's water record.

Big steamships should and could go as fast as that and faster, crossing the ocean in 20 hours.

The water's surface presents a perfect ball bearing speedway, the drops rolling over each other.

The problem is to lift the moving vehicle to the water's surface, so that it will skim along the top instead of ploughing through the depths.

MOVE YOUR hand and arm in the water of a bathtub up to the elbow, as fast as you can. Then raise the arm and skim through the air with only the finger tip touching the water.

You will see the difference between the old and the future method of water transportation. The resistance of the water is 800 times that of the air.

FRANCE SEEKS DEBT ACCORD

PARIS, Jan. 28.—(AP)—France is determined to pursue negotiations with Great Britain on the reparations problem and is optimistically convinced some arrangement will be devised eventually, it was learned on the highest official authority today.

It was stated that France wants to live up to the spirit and letter of the communique issued at Washington at the time of the Hoover-Laval conferences and that as far as inter-governmental obligations are concerned, and prior to the expiration of the Hoover moratorium, some agreement may be necessary to cover the period of business depression.

France also is desirous, it was added, of treating the entire problem in an accommodating spirit but with a full belief no real solution can be formulated unless the United States comes into the picture effectively and becomes an integral part of the reparations cycle.

MOTHER WEEPS AT SON'S TRIAL

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Sobbing and hysterical, Mrs. Clara Symington, mother of Harold E. Williams, fighting to escape the electric chair, did her bit in the battle last night with a bitter denunciation of her son-in-law, William F. Prophet, the man Williams is accused of killing.

After detailing abuses Prophet heaped on his wife, Mrs. Grace Prophet, now serving a life prison term for assisting in the slaying, the mother shouted:

"He was a beast."

While his mother wept, Williams sat nearby, shaking his head sadly.

Man Held in Death Of Peacemaker

A Coroner's jury today held Dock Graham, Negro, for the grand jury on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Joseph Bacco, 24, a truck driver, 4791 Yew street. Bacco was shot January 15 when he attempted to stop a fight between Graham and a girl, the latter was escorting home from a dance, witnesses said.

Einstein to Avoid N. Y. on Trip Home

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(INS)—Dr. Albert Einstein will return to his home in Germany from Los Angeles without visiting New York, his wife revealed in a letter today to Dr. Paul Schwartz, German consul in New York.

$10 Bill Only $5 When Turned Upside Down

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(Universal)—Reports that a Wilmington (N. C.) bank received from the Federal Reserve six bills printed $10 on one side and $5 on the other, set Treasury Department officials today to vigorous head-scratching and drew the comment:

"We're from Missouri."

Treasurer of the United States W. O. Woods in charge of the production and accounting of all moneys, told Universal Service that, if true, the instance is the first in the history of the Treasury, so far as he knows.

Woolworth Heiress Sued by Showgirl

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The American says Mrs. Jessie Woolworth Donahue, heiress to the $70,000,000 estate left by her late father, Frank W. Woolworth, of the 5-and-10 stores, has been served with notice of a suit for $100,000 by Jane O'Roark, showgirl and night club entertainer.

The suit, it says, is based on remarks Mrs. Donahue is accused of making concerning Miss O'Roark.

Rudy's Wife Home To Visit Parents

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Rudy Vallee, the former Fay Webb, of Santa Monica, said on her arrival here yesterday that she makes frequent trips to California from her New York home because she gets lonesome for her mother and dad.

Mrs. Vallee, on her third visit since her marriage to the radio crooner last July, was met at the station by her father, Police Chief Clarence Webb, of Santa Monica, and her mother.

Knights Templar To Hold Reception

The drill corps of Tancred Commanders No. 48, Knights Templar, will hold its annual reception and dance tomorrow evening. Clyde H. Campbell is chairman of the committee.

May Estate Here Gets Tax Rebate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Rebates on income and estate taxes announced yesterday by the Bureau of Internal Revenue included the estate of Barney May, Pittsburgh, $20,229.

Spanish Reds Muting, Seize Exile Ship

MADRID, Jan. 28.—(INS)—Reports reached here today that 700 political prisoners, taken during last week's Communist revolution, and placed aboard the liner Brazil for deportation, had mutined and made captives of the ship's officers. The prisoners were bound for the lonely island of Fernando Noronha, just off the coast of Brazil.

Messages reporting the mutiny came from Las Palmas, on the Canary Islands, where the ship was due to stop soon.

Girls to Show Work At Goodwill Home

Household arts and athletic exhibitions by girls of the Goodwill Settlement were to be features today of this week's celebrations at the Goodwill Industries following dedication of the organization's new buildings at Twenty-eighth street and Liberty avenue Sunday. Tomorrow night the formal opening and public inspection of the new buildings will close the festivities. Dr. E. J. Helms, of Boston, founder of the Goodwill Industries in America, and Frank R. Phillips will speak tomorrow night.

Allegheny College Song Prize Offered

MEADVILLE, Pa., Jan. 28.—(AP)—A. W. Robertson, chairman of the board of directors of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, has provided a prize of $150 for Allegheny College's song contest.

The contest is open to all students and the alumni. Entries will be received up to May 1 and the winner will be announced during the commencement exercises in June.

The Donahoe Label Protects Your Table

DONAHOE'S Fifth Avenue Store

Nine Years are behind us—many years of opportunity ahead.

As we stand at the meeting of the two, balancing successes and failures against hopes and endeavors, we feel a warm sense of gratitude to you, our patrons, who have become our friends.

You have been good to us in the years that have passed. You have shown your interest not with your patronage alone, but also with the great help of stimulating praise when we deserved it and constructive criticism when that was needed.

Your patience, your tolerance, your courtesy and your appreciation have been a constant source of inspiration to us and have given to us those compensations that are essential to the contentment and efficiency of any organization.

TO OUR FRIENDS, THEN, a Warm Handclasp, a message of thanks and appreciation for those nine years that have gone.

And for the years to come—to friends old and new—a promise of renewed effort, an honest striving to deserve your continued help and friendship.

Auto Injures Man, Driver Arrested

Charles Keefe, 26, of 2707 Jane street, was injured today when he was struck by an automobile in Carson street, near South Twenty-second street. Harold Dean, 35, of the Highland Building, driver of the machine, was arrested on a reckless driving charge, according to police.

12,000 Moslems Sack Hindu Towns

BOMBAY, Jan. 28.—(INS.)—British troops today were rushed with all haste into the state of Kashmir to suppress a Moslem uprising against the Hindu Maharajah in which 12,000 angry troops were burning villages and killing their inhabitants.

Cold Insurance

He carries it with him, ready for just such times. That little box of Bayer Aspirin. If he catches cold, what of it? Bayer Aspirin will stop it. If his throat feels sore, he will end the soreness with one good gargle made from these tablets.

Dangerous complications can follow the neglect of "a common cold!" Every case of bronchitis began with "just a sore throat!" It's a wise plan to take aspirin after any undue exposure to bad weather, or whenever there is any chance that you've caught cold. If it's genuine aspirin it can't possibly hurt you; and how it does banish the aches and pains caused by colds, neuralgia, neuritis, lumbago, and even rheumatism.

Bayer Aspirin will insure your comfort through the worst cold season. The more susceptible you are to colds, the more you need it. Does not depress the heart.

ST. LOUIS FACES RELIEF CRISIS

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Mayor Victor Miller yesterday issued a statement declaring "no solution has been found to St. Louis' unemployment relief dilemma," but "St. Louis must and will find the solution." The statement was issued after a two-hour meeting of invited citizens. The Mayor said:

"It is one of the most serious situations we have ever been called upon to meet. Unless the next meeting can find some answer, I am afraid that St. Louis will unfortunately have the realization forced upon it over night of its inability to care for the sick and feed the starving."

The meeting was called after the failure of the community fund to reach its goal by $550,000 and the refusal of the Board of Estimate last Friday to appropriate an additional $100,000 for relief. The city has appropriated $600,000 in the last 13 months, Miller said:

"A city that is short of revenue and a public that has given to what it thinks is the limit, is no answer to hungry people."

British Mandate End Over Irak Indicated

GENEVA, Jan. 28.—(INS.)—The League of Nations Council today relieved Great Britain of its mandate over Irak, provided the assembly elects the little country a member of the league. If this were done Irak would become the first country, over which one of the larger powers held a mandate, to ultimately attain league membership.

France also is anxious to give up its mandate over Syria, which lies next to Irak in Asia Minor. Both countries have rich oil deposits, in which both Great Britain and France are interested.

"clear road ahead!"

It's great to feel that way . . .
and you do . . . when the blood has the "feel" of enough rich red cells

Why you should be interested in your Blood Count

(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. They carry nourishment and oxygen to every part of the body; they also remove impurities from the tissues.

(Right) Weak red-blood-cells—only 60 per cent of normal strength. Such a condition is often responsible for body weakness, paleness, sallow complexion, pimples and boils.

REGARDLESS of age—be fortified with plenty of "red blood." That s-p-e-l-l-s happiness.

So frequently work, worry, colds and sickness reduce the red-cell count in the blood . . . then our spirits go down as the blood cells are lowered.

The process may be so gradual that we wonder "what is the matter."

It is well to give thought to those invisible—yet precious red-blood-cells—the "ships," if you please, that "sail" in the blood, carrying nourishment to all parts of the body.

"That tired feeling" may be a warning . . . so are pimples, boils and paleness.

Why not take steps to overcome this trouble? A general run-down condition means a lack of normal resistance to infection and disease. A lagging appetite often leads to underweight and ill health.

You cannot be low in strength and be happy—let's be happy.

For generations S.S.S. as a tonic has been helping people gain New Strength, better health and happiness. Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

Why not start taking S.S.S. today?—the larger size represents a price saving.

GRANT PERMIT FOR BUILDING OF SAND DOCK

Zoning Law Does Not Apply To Property Owned by City, Solicitor Declares

That the city government may not be bound to abide by the zoning ordinance in handling its properties is the opinion of Assistant City Solicitor Thomas M. Benner, on whose authority the Bureau of Building Inspection has issued a permit for a gravel dock for John W. Hubbard, adjoining the Brilliant Pumping Station on the Allegheny River.

Furthermore no public property may be considered strictly by the zoning ordinance, if it comes to a test, Benner declared.

PERMIT GRANTED

The [illegible] 400x80 feet, was leased to Hubbard by agents of a resolution of City Council. While work was [illegible] during pulp, H. L. Lehman, engineer of the Bureau of Building Inspection stopped it because the property zoned [illegible] and the family dwelling.

He [illegible] permit was granted because of an [illegible] of Benner with [illegible].

"Council leased the property for a wharf and is collecting rent on it. The city cannot give it with one hand and take it away with the other."

When [illegible] was called to the [illegible] the Sandy Island property [illegible] Water [illegible] the property [illegible] of [illegible] Park [illegible] hard [illegible] Boyle. Boyle [illegible] was the family [illegible] the case.

PROTEST LIKELY

He [illegible] that the city's use of the [illegible] property made [illegible] Hall [illegible].

"As a matter of fact if it came to a test I doubt if zoning applies to any public property, federal, state, city or school board.

"In the [illegible] time the City Planning Commission has been in force it has not [illegible] and it [illegible] to Council is [illegible]."

Auto, Milk Truck Crash, One Injured

Jack Bergen, 28, of 1419 Allen [illegible] was injured last night when [illegible] automobile crashed with a milk truck at Fifth avenue and Moorehead. Bergenelli was taken to the Montefiore Hospital, where his condition is reported serious. The driver of the truck, Walter Mueller, 25, of 11 Polk street, was uninjured.

STOP THAT COLD

[illegible] cold or cough that so often leads to something serious, generally responds to good old Musterole with the first application. Should be more effective if used once every hour for five hours.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other helpful ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets at pain because it is a scientific "counter-irritant" not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses.

Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

"We Can't do THAT!"

"IT'S NEVER been done before!" "How are we going to arrange it?" "It's a startling idea." —so ran the comment around the group gathered in conference last December to discuss plans for our February merchandising.

But we had the facts—we knew what Pittsburgh wanted—and needed. We had just heard the facts and figures resulting from a nation-wide survey by prominent leaders of May-Stern & Co. and affiliated stores, concerning the public needs for Februery.

As the demands of the country run—so run the requirements of our section of the country's buyers—in and around Pittsburgh.

We had known that "just another February Sale" wouldn't do—but we hadn't figured on anything so revolutionary, so decidedly different! But there was only one thing to do—if Pittsburgh needed this new kind of event, they should have it!

And so, from that December day, plans grew and developed—and in tomorrow's paper you will see the result of all that discussion and planning. You will see the opening announcement of that radically different event—truly not "just another February Sale."

STATE TRADE GROUPS HEAR TAX PLAN

Hawley Talks at Meeting in Harrisburg; Pittsburgh Men Elected Directors

International News Service

HARRISBURG, Jan. 28.—The Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce today had before it the outline of a program for a revised taxation system as proposed by Congressman Willis C. Hawley (Rep.), of Oregon, co-author of the Hawley-Smoot tariff act.

Addressing the chamber at a dinner here, the former chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee advanced the idea that a "scientific system" of levying federal, state and local taxes should be substituted for "our present condition of inequitable and duplicate taxation."

He proposed a nation-wide investigation of the imposition of taxes in which both the state and federal governments are interested. He said:

"Since state taxation may include the subjects of taxation in the federal list, such, for instance, as the income taxes, immediately such taxpayers have a burden greatly increased, and it results in a disparity."

Alba B. Johnson, of Philadelphia, was re-elected president of the chamber.

Other officers re-elected included Vice presidents F. W. Wasser, Beaver Falls, and Frank J. Lanahan, Pittsburgh, directors for one year; Lanahan and Harry C. Graham, Pittsburgh, for four years; Curtis M. Yohe, Pittsburgh.

1 KILLED, 1 HURT BY AUTOS

Charles Bostle, 83, of 14 West Stockton avenue, was dead in his home today of injuries sustained when he was struck by a machine driven in Washington road, Mt. Lebanon, by L. C. Hancock, of 119 Terrace drive, Mt. Lebanon, according to a Coroner's report.

Adolph Stuck, 61, of 3429 East street, was in Presbyterian Hospital with a probable fracture of the skull, received, police said, when he was struck by a machine near his home. Frank Murray, of West View, alleged driver of the machine, was accused of reckless driving.

Stabilization Topic At Gravel Convention

"Stabilization of Industry" and "How to Get Along With Your Competitor" were to be discussed this afternoon at the sixteenth annual convention of the National Sand and Gravel Association, which opened a three-day convention yesterday in William Penn Hotel. Speakers were to be Dr. Ralph J. Watkins, director of the bureau of business research, University of Pittsburgh, and O. W. Irwin, of Youngstown. A demonstration of "Electrons in Overalls" by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company will be a feature at the convention dinner tonight.

Gen. Parker Gets His 'First Wound' At Luncheon

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Frank Parker yesterday received what Gen. John J. Pershing called "the first wound of his military career."

During a luncheon in Gen. Pershing's honor at the Press Club a table flagstaff fell. The metal eagle struck Gen. Parker, inflicting a three-inch scalp wound. He had it dressed and returned to the table in 30 minutes.

Gen. Pershing, sitting two places away, referred to the accident in his speech, saying:

"Gen. Parker went through the whole war without getting a scratch. Here in the Press Club, in peace times, he receives the first wound of his military career."

One Dead, 6 Hurt In Explosion, Fire

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 28.—(AP)—A violent explosion in a downtown business building resulted in the death of a city fireman and injuries to six other persons here early today.

Lieut. Daniel S. McCarty was stricken fatally by smoke as he and members of his company sought to check the fire which followed the blast.

Reserve Officers Plan Dance Feb. 6

Nearly 500 Reserve and National Guard officers are expected to attend the second annual reception and dance, in honor of the National Guard officers of the Pittsburgh area, February 6 in the 176th Field Artillery Armory, Bayard and Thackeray streets. Col. William A. Crede, chairman, is being assisted by members of the Reserve Officers Corps. Officers from the tri-state area are expected to attend.

8th Ward to Hold Relief Meeting

The Eighth Ward Emergency Relief Fund will sponsor a meeting tonight in the Friendship Public School. Edward Gearing is chairman. Speakers will include Attorney Harry I. Miller, the Rev. Dr. Albert E. Day, the Rev. Michael Vitale, the Rev. R. B. Johnson, C. E. Wegner, of the Pittsburgh Goodwill Industries, and Attorney J. L. O'Toole, Jr.

PLEASANT RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Shoulders droop under the weight of years. Young yet beauty has fled. Cheeks are sallow and drawn. Unsightly pimples keep your system clean and you keep the beauty of youth, its energy, its irresistible charm. Then life is not a failure.

Clogged bowels and inactive liver cause poisons to seep through the system. Health vanished and with it beauty and energy. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets will help save you from this dark hour. For 20 years they have been prescribed in place of calomel to men and women seeking health and freedom from constipation. They act easily and smoothly. No dangerous griping. Take nightly, before retiring. Results will amaze you.

Thousands of men and women would never be without Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, a vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c. All druggists.

"My reason for smoking LUCKIES"

THE QUEEN OF COLLEENS

They scoured Ireland—the FOX flicker folks—for a winsome colleen to play opposite that great Irish tenor in "Song O' My Heart." And whom should they find but Maureen O'Sullivan! She arrived dressed as a waif—but her trunk was full of snappy Paris clothes. How's that for Irish blarney! She's now going over big in RKO-PATHE'S "THE BIG SHOT." It didn't take her long to pick LUCKIES, and she's been smoking them a year and a half. The only reward for her statement was our friendly "Top o' the morning, Maureen!"

"My reason for smoking LUCKIES is that they are so mild and cause no irritation to my throat. Your new Cellophane wrapper is marvelous. Just a pull of the tab and there are the LUCKIES."

MUSIC

String Symphonic Ensemble

Carnegie Lecture Hall

PROGRAM

Garden Melody ..... Schumann
Tambourin ..... Rameau
La Fille aux Cheveux de Lin ..... Debussy
Suite ..... Purcell
Ave Maria ..... Massenet
Concerto Grosso ..... Corelli
Notturno ..... Dvorak
Minuetto ..... Haydn
My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair ..... Haydn
I've Been Roaming ..... Horn
Suite "The Ogowe" ..... Zitterbart

Mr. Lissfelt

The String Symphonic Ensemble gave another concert in Carnegie Lecture Hall with a good audience present. The program was particularly well-chosen for strings, even the arrangements having been made from compositions which in the original have the quality of string music.

Oscar Del Bianco conducted, as before, and until he played the Corelli Suite, seemed to have his ensemble nearer unison than heretofore. In the Schumann and Debussy the tone was unusually pleasing, the latter a very pretty composition as arranged for solo violin.

The Zitterbart Suite was the novelty of the evening; music suggested by a travelogue of the African jungle, which arouses our curiosity to hear more of the buried treasure of this Pittsburgh composer.

Helen Bell Rush was soloist and contributed two groups of songs. Her choice was not so fortunate. With all the wonderful songs for her soprano voice, I wonder why she should choose so poor a substitute as the Mediation from Massenet's "Thais," adapted to so simple a prayer as the "Ave Maria." It displays the shortcomings in Miss Rush's vocal training, for there are two distinct voices in the long range of the song's vocal line and she was not able to unite them. Both other songs are trite enough, too.

Susan Glebbe played the piano part in the Corelli Suite. It gave her no opportunity to say anything at all musically. Earl Truxell played Miss Rush's accompaniments.

To a Lady

I'm glad the year of '31 is through—
It nearly was the finish of this hard;
Prosperity? Oh, boy, what ballyhoo—
Why, times for me were never quite so hard.
I lost my job—my bank account grew low,
I lost my sleep—my brain went numb with fear;
To tell the truth I haven't raised the dough
For my poetic license yet this year.

So, here I am, alive and that is all—
I wonder what the future holds for me?
It's pretty bad—a bedroom near the hall,
When once a lad has tasted luxury;

My assets? Well, of course, I have a few—
A shiny suit—some worthless stock—and you!

—Don Wahn.

Observation

In case you didn't know—The stuff Samuel Pepys penned in his day was called Gossip. Today it is called Literature!

How've Y'been?

Sometime ago one of the Los Angeles papers said among other interesting things!

". . . . few men are better qualified to conduct a children's hour than Ken Hamilton, known on the air as Big Brother Ben. Mr. Hamilton was press agent and personal representative for Peggy Hopkins Joyce for years. He has many charming anecdotes to tell the kiddies."

Haw!

By Way of Report

"Whatever became of the old one that appeared in a comic weekly years ago and in almost every act since? You know, the cartoon showing an old gent readying himself for a shabby outfit and saying: "It's just an old Spanish costume?""

"Jimmy Dunn is forced to use it in 'Dance Team!'"

Imagine

Sylvia Froos, one of the better entertainers, is now 17. She recently headlined along with the Marxmen at the Palace. She is on a big-time sustaining program in a song cycle and came up from the ranks, and she has appeared at more benefits than you, you and you.

But this is what we started out to item: A committee of the Ladies' Aid in New Orleans once had Sylvia arrested, charging her with giving an "indecent" performance. At that time Sylvia Froos was 8 years of age!

It would be something to write about if the newspaper which tolerates our stuff in New Orleans would investigate that charge of nine years ago and kindly oblige us with the details—for we cannot conceive of any child at the age of 8 being "indecent."

But we would be more appreciative if our New Orleans paper would also send along the names of the ladies who pressed the charges—so that we might do a little investigating ourself.

From a Glass House

Parents and publishers, Little Bird
Are the people who should know it
Children ought to be seen and not heard—
And so ought many a poet.

—J. B. C.

The Squelch Proper

A pair of vaudeville hammies, take this from Alf Friedman, were making their initial appearance in a large theatre.

"Gee," said the first show-off, peeping through the asbestos at the great crowd that filled the house, "If they all applaud at once, we'll go deaf!"

"Mebbeso," stifled a stage hand, "but watch out for the vacuum if they all yawn at once!"

Help, Police, Murder!

Ben Bernie, the Chicago-gay guy, who makes cracks on the razzio nearly every night, told his liner-inners that once we were arrested for carrying concealed—money.

Then there's the one that actually happened at a theater here one matinee day, when Bernie spotted a cartoonist sitting in a box.

"Hmm," sizzled Ben, "I'd better not tell my best jokes this afternoon or they'll be in cartoons."

"Your best jokes!" screamed back Harry Hershfield, the box seat seater, "have been in cartoons!"

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Mother Should Invite Him

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Will you please tell me if it is wrong for a girl or her mother to ask her young man friend to her home during his leave from school?

2. If a boy friend visits a girl in her town at her invitation and stays at the hotel, should the girl's father pay the bill?

3. If he does will that cheapen the girl? C. W.

1. It is most gracious for the mother of a girl to write to the young man and invite him to their home for a visit. This invitation may not be extended by the girl . . . it must come from the mother, the hostess of the home.

2. No. Under the usual circumstances the young man pays his own hotel bill.

3. No, not necessarily. There might be a circumstance when this could be done with good taste and kindness. For instance, if the mother and father of the girl wished to make an especially hospitable gesture toward the boy, and if they cannot conveniently have him as a guest in their home, they might make it clear to him that they would like to have him in town as their guest, but that, because of some named circumstance, they cannot have the pleasure of entertaining him in their own home. They would then suggest that they would like to make arrangements with the hotel for him to stay there, and that they would like to be "hosts" to him at the hotel.

Are Ushers Necessary?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We have decided to be married in a few months and are going to have a formal church wedding. The bridegroom is to wear a cutaway with striped trousers. Now the question I want to settle is—is it absolutely necessary to have ushers at the church, and if so, must they wear cutaways also? The reason for my asking is because I hate to ask anybody to be an usher at my wedding if he has to buy a cutaway, which he will never be able to use again.

HENRY

Since the wedding is to be formal and since the bridegroom is to wear formal clothes (as he should, of course) it will be necessary for the ushers to wear the cutaway coats and striped trousers, too. I realize how you feel about the necessity of having them buy formal clothes, if they haven't them and if they will not find occasion to wear them after the wedding, but on the other hand, they would be most uncomfortable if they felt they were dressed informally and therefore incorrectly at a wedding that, in all other details, was perfectly and formally planned.

Whether or not the ushers are necessary depends on the number of guests to be invited. It is most important that the guests be seated properly, and with special attention to all those social amenities so important at weddings.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

For coughs due to colds, the best remedy that money could buy can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agents of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sick and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food don't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul; skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

One of society's organizations doing much philanthropic work, the Federation of Girls' School Societies, had the largest annual luncheon in its history yesterday in the Twentieth Century Club. There were 250 alumnae there, representing nearly 30 different finishing schools with a special table for each school.

Of course you know that the Federation helps maintain the Harmarville Convalescent Home for Mothers and Children. And the different schools do all sorts of extra things such as clothing needy children in some of the public schools.

Before I tell you about any of the people I saw there I want to tell you about the new officers are

Elect Officers

Mrs. George Singer Ebbert a Farmington alumna was re-elected president with Mrs. Josie Kinnan of Dobbs a first vice president.

Ellen McClay of Spence is second vice president, Priscilla Barnes Finch third and Mrs. P. K. Rogers Mt. Vernon fourth vice president.

Mrs. W. S. Powell of Briarcliff is recording secretary, Mrs. William S. Dickham, Ogontz corresponding secretary, Mrs. Theodore F. Smith, Seward treasurer, Mrs. Henry S. Rowland, Chevy Chase, assistant treasurer.

Mrs. James I. Marsh of Dobbs is the new chairman of the house committee for Harmarville, Mrs. D. N. Catlin, National Park assistant chairman, Mrs. W. Y. Cocken, Jr., Fairmont, is chairman of the garden committee and Mrs. George J. Kahl, Miss Mason's School, is chairman of occupational therapy.

Mrs. William A. Duckham who was chairman of the luncheon yesterday wore an attractive dress of black crepe with the bottom of the long bell-like sleeves cut to resemble a Greek key design. Her small black hat had two upstanding quills.

Mrs. George Singer Ebbert wore a beige and brown crepe dress and Miss Helen Rauh green crepe with a lighter green as contrast.

An interesting suit of hunter's green wool with black Persian lamb trimming used to suggest a tippet was worn by Mrs. Herbert A. May.

Younger Set There

Attractive Mrs. Wallace Hurtle Rowe in yellow tamarack red wool frock with a turban to match. Clara Dorothea Jenkins was in brown wool crepe with a smart brown felt hat to complete her costume and Mary Blair Holmes wore a dark green suit with a tippet of Japanese weasel. Others of the younger set there were Caroline Mitchell, Lucie Todd, Eleanor Reed, Gretchen Bickford, Lucretia Billings all gems of this season. Mrs. Leonard S. Mudge wore a cranberry red wool coat with fox collar and cuffs and a red hat to match.

Others I noticed there were Mrs. Francis S. Guthrie, Louise and Phyllis Totten, Mrs. A. P. Woolfolk, Mrs. J. Henry O'Neill and ever so many more that I haven't space to mention.

HOSTESS FROCKS MEET NEW DEMAND

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Jan. 28.—This year many of us have spent more time at home than we have done for some time. We have learned the charm of the small informal home entertainment and how much more it yields than the very elaborate affair, carefully planned and given in a hotel, club or a restaurant. We have really come to know and enjoy our friends through pleasant evenings with a small dinner and bridge and conversation. And so this has meant a readjustment of the wardrobe to include clothes that are suitable for the home, both for the hostess and guest. And so we have grand little dinner dresses, easy and comfortable, that cleverly avoid the formal and yet are not too informal. And then there are sumptuous pajamas, splendid for home dinners, also hostess gowns that are the last word in beauty and originality, more artistic and regal than any evening frock that we have ever seen. The woman who loves for picturesque clothes that are stately and colorful with an excuse for a certain amount of lavish trimming can find the gown of her dreams in the newest collections of hostess gowns shown by some of the houses that specialize in such things.

* * *

SHOWN TODAY is a grand excuse for stopping at home in guise of a hostess gown from Lanvin. It is of dull-surface [illegible] black chiffon velvet. The wide mosen-age sleeves are marked off in rectangular insets of massed sequins, the panels alternating in gold and silver. The belt, too, is of alternating bands of gold and silver sequins twisted into a thick rope. The skirt trails at each side and at black and front just touches the floor.

SING SING DOCTOR TO SPEAK HERE

Twentieth Century Club Members To Hear Interesting Talks In Month of February

Twentieth Century Club members will find a variety of interests offered them on the February calendar. The Monday morning lectures will begin with a talk by Dr. Amos O. Squire, Sing Sing prison physician. Henry Seidel Canby, coming to talk on "Judging Books," is the second speaker, and he will be followed on the fifteenth by William Z. Ripley, who will have "A National Economic Planning Program" as his subject. Mme. Cornelia Sorabji, of India, is speaker for the twenty-second, and David Seabury for the twenty-ninth. His topic will be "The Riddle of Human Relations."

Besides the lectures, the calendar announces the usual afternoon of bridge on Thursday of next week, a leap year Mardi Gras dinner, entertainment and dance under auspices of the drama committee on the ninth; a recital by the Manhattan String Quartet on the eighteenth, the monthly French luncheon on the nineteenth and a current interest luncheon on the twenty-fifth with Lloyd Thomas, of Westinghouse, speaking on "The Romance of Radio."

THE DANCE OF LIFE

If you have read Havelock Ellis' interesting book under the above title, you will recall how he points out that science and art, alike, are founded in the secret rhythms of nature. Science seeks to present these secrets to our minds, while art interprets them to our emotions. So the two go hand in hand, and the great exponent of each recognizes and rejoices in his kinship with the other.

This relation of science and art is often illustrated in modern manufacture—brilliantly, we point out, in the case of the automobile. Here, by a happy alliance, pre-eminent artists are today joined with pre-eminent scientists—craftsmen from the custom shops of Fleetwood and engineers from Cadillac's great laboratories. The result is a combination so naturally harmonious and so supremely capable that the fruit of its labors is something which cannot be pictured in the light of any previous accomplishments in custom coachcraft.

This you may determine for yourself, for the supreme expression of Fleetwood coachcraft is now presented in various models of the new Cadillac V-8, V-12 and V-16. In these cars you will see, as nothing else can show you, how men, too, may blend beauty and usefulness, just as it is done in the works of nature.

BISHOP OF ERIE RAPS DRY LAW

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Bishop John Mark Gannon, of the Erie diocese, said at a Knights of Columbus banquet last night that "there are no grounds for the Eighteenth Amendment in the Constitution."

The bishop said it was his first public or private utterance on the prohibition law. He said he was "neither wet or dry, but a man." He added that he was unable to find the Eighteenth Amendment fundamentals in the Bible. He said:

"Self preservation is a problem in this hour of distress, and where we are divided on a social question, there is grave danger to the Constitution of the United States."

The prelate expressed unwavering faith in America and American institutions and asked his audience to hearken back to the traditions of Washington, Jefferson, Hamilton and Lincoln.

BEAUTY EXPERT LECTURES HERE

Dr. Marcel von Wertaur, German scientist and chemist, will lecture on "Science in Beauty," in the auditorium of the Joseph Horne Company store, each afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, beginning today, for the remainder of this week, according to announcement.

Born of an aristocratic family in the ancestral castle at Falkenburg, he was educated at Heidelberg and Cambridge, coming to this country at the instance of dye manufacturers in 1920. Accidental burning of his hand in an acid solution turned his attention to skin rejuvenation with the result that he founded the Feminine Research Bureau, in New York.

Miners Threaten Terminal Walkout

The Provisional Rank and File Committee, representing 2,600 miners, through its secretary, James Morris, today announced it was preparing to call a strike, February 1, in mines of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company, which recently negotiated a 10 per cent wage cut with the United Mine Workers.

Morris today issued an open letter to United Mine Workers officials repudiating their acceptance of the cut in behalf of the men he represents.

Son of Scientist Dies From Bullet

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Edgar Farrar Goldberger, 24, son of the late Dr. Joseph Goldberger, discoverer of the cause and cure of pellagra, died today at Emergency Hospital shortly after he was found at his home with a bullet wound through his head.

Chain Store Slayer To Die in Chair

LEBANON, Ind., Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Charles Vernon Witt, 27, of Bainbridge, Ind., today was sentenced to be electrocuted August 1, 1932, for the murder of Lafayette A. Jackson, Indianapolis chain store owner, during an attempted holdup.

Fascist Foe Seized For Sending Bombs

ROME, Jan. 28.—(INS.)—Mario Merighy, 36, was arrested today charged with sending 48 explosive packages to prominent Fascists throughout Italy since 1922.

FAN'S BEGIN QUIZ OF ALICE WHITE

When Alice White, blonde screen star, arrives in Pittsburgh early tomorrow morning, she will be given a heaping bundle of letters written by local movie lovers eager to avail themselves of the unique opportunity of asking a celebrity intimate questions about life in Hollywood, and hearing Miss White answer them personally.

Miss White has consented to answer the questions over WCAE during the Sun-Telegraph's Night Club Hour. Her first broadcast will be on the Sun-Telegraph Night Club Hour Saturday night at 11 o'clock, when she will be introduced by Jack Keough, master of ceremonies.

She wired yesterday:

"I am a real picture fan myself, and I will get a great kick out of speakin, to other fans. I expect to have a lot of fun during my week of personal appearances at Loew's Penn Theater. I will have lots of time in my dressing room between shows to go over the mail and prepare the answers."

The first batch of letters received yesterday soon after the announcement of the movie quiz contained a number of interesting queries. Just a few of them were:

"What do you think is the secret of Clark Gable's appeal to women?"

"Do you approve of Greta Garbo's ritzy attitude to newspaper magazine interviewers?"

"Is Jean Harlow really a platinum blonde?"

"How did you get your chance in pictures?"

If you have any questions about your favorite stars that you would like to have answered by Miss White, just write a letter to Alice White, care of the Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh. She will answer them in the order they are received.

kibitzers

A KIBITZER is a person who is always telling the other fellow how to play his game and how to run his business . . . He's the most famous back-seat driver in the world . . . President Hoover has had 120,000,000 of them sitting in the rear seat of his car . . . Eddie Cantor says that we should have two Presidents to run the country . . . But Eddie is too conservative, because we have had in the past two years every man, woman and child in America on the job!

¶ Ever since the depression everybody has been kibitzing . . . Every kibitzer knows exactly what started the depression and what's needed to end it . . . Every man over night became a statesman, a philosopher, a financier and an economist . . . As in every great national crisis we have had talkers and workers . . . for a time the talkers had the best of it . . . but now the workers are having their inning . . .

¶ The President of the United States, his Cabinet, and Congress, grappling with an economic situation such as the modern world has never known are winning the fight for us . . . The new slogan for 1932 is Reconstruction! Let's catch the spirit of that word! Rebuilding! Rehabilitation! Revival! The government has started, now let's do Our share. Stop hoarding . . . Bring your money out of your vaults and your socks and your mattresses . . . and start it in the channels of circulation . . . Reasonable economy is to be encouraged but when Buying Becomes Paralyzed then Business Becomes Paralyzed and workers by the Millions are thrown out of their jobs . . . You and You and You can Quickly bring things back to normal if you Will Spend Normally . . .

¶ Frank & Seder will do their Share to encourage sensible buying of things the public needs, by staging the most outstanding value-giving event in a generation . . . our Department Buyers have been busy for weeks combing the markets of the country for the newest Spring apparel, home furnishings, domestics, etc., to sell at prices that'll bring dollars hurrying out of their hiding places . . . and all remaining stocks of winter goods are going to be turned over to the public, regardless of cost or loss!

¶ Start to buy, and put men back to work!

¶ Stop Kibitzing!

Question a Day:

I always thought smoking and drinking were prohibited in studios. Monday night the announcer of a southern station, apparently unaware that he was on the air, remarked: "Say, this is the tightest show I've handled." Isn't there a law against intoxicated people going on the radio? —Mrs. V. E., City.

Answer—A "tight show" in radio parlance is a program with absolutely no room for adding a single bar of music or a sentence. That's what the announcer meant. In contrast, a "long show" is a program with room for insertions and additions if not improvement. Smoking and drinking are prohibited in all radio studios.

Studio Lights

Seth Parker and his troupe of Jonesport Neighbors" slipped in Pittsburgh for half an hour this morning on their way from New Castle to Harrisburg where they perform tonight. From Harrisburg they go to Washington, D. C., tomorrow. Richmond, Va., on Saturday and back to New York Sunday for their NBC-WCAE broadcast. . . Seth's troupe has been absent from New York for several weeks on a nation-wide vaudeville tour.

Tom Waring is to sing "Mrs. Winchell's Boy" on his NBC-WCAE broadcast tomorrow morning at 9:15.

'Sacred Songs' Off Air Tuesday

Sacred Songs, for six years the most popular feature of KDKA, brings its long period of service to a close with next Tuesday night's broadcast. . . . The sponsor made this decision today when it appeared imperative that she would have to change the time of the feature to a later hour, which would be inconvenient for the majority of listeners.

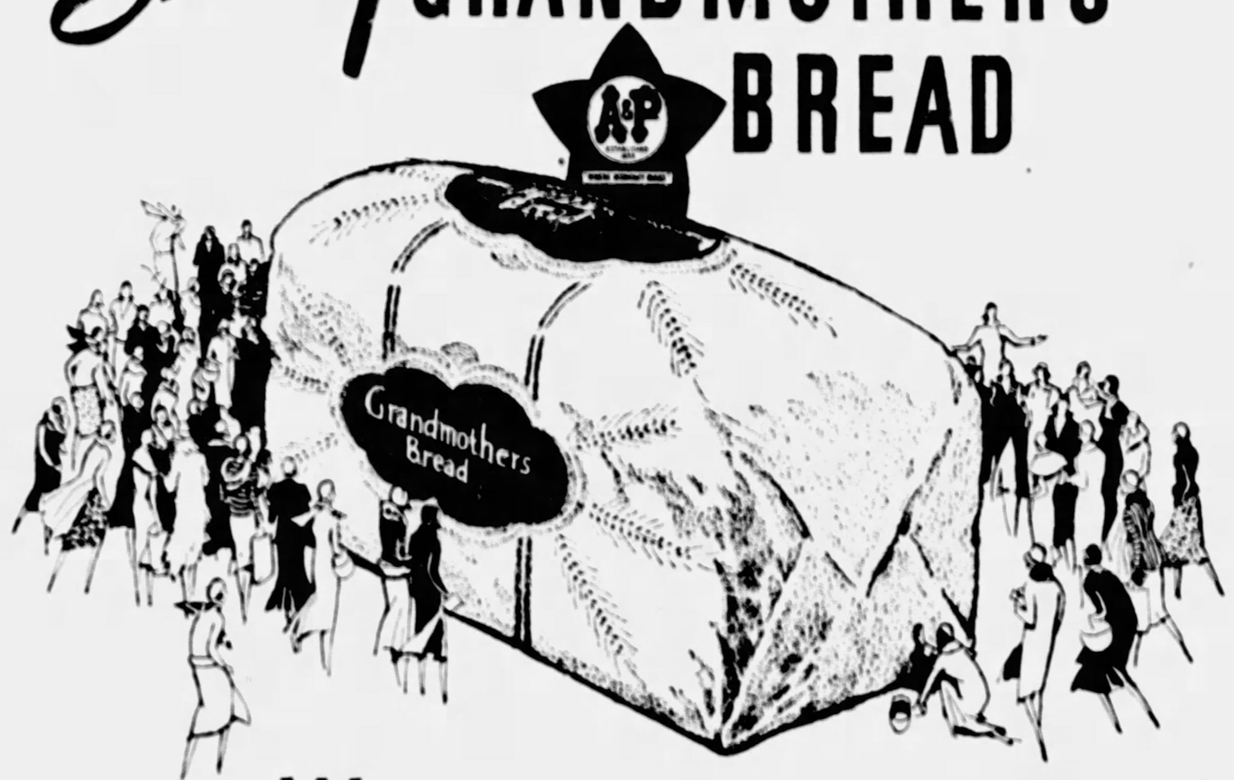
THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA CO

Buy GRANDMOTHER'S BREAD



WOMEN EVERYWHERE ACCLAIM THIS DELICIOUS LOAF.. here's why

Grandmother's bread is the popular favorite with thousands and thousands of home managers who insist upon serving only the best of foods at the meals over which they preside.

If you are one of these women who are directly charged with the responsibility of preparing healthful, nutritious menus, three times each day, for the members of your family, you can make no better selection of bread than Grandmother's.

There is an A&P Store close to your home, where you may purchase Grandmother's Bread each day fresh from the oven. Instruct the manager to reserve a loaf for you each day.

THE GREAT ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC TEA CO.

★FRESHNESS Baked right here in Pittsburgh, in our huge daylight bakery. Grandmother's Bread is speeded, direct from the oven to the A&P Store near your home every twenty-four hours. You can depend upon its freshness.

★FLAVOR The flavor of Grandmother's bread is distinctive and different, and is guarded from imitation by a secret formula discovered in our own research laboratories, by years of painstaking efforts and experimentations. You'll like this delightful flavor.

★TEXTURE Each loaf of Grandmother's Bread is uniform in its fine, closely knit texture. Stop watch precision in the fermentation and baking process governs this feature. Nothing is left to chance.

★WHOLESOMENESS The ingredients that go into the baking of Grandmother's Bread are of the finest quality procurable. The best of fine milling wheat, pure milk, Fleischmann's yeast, salt, sugar and pure shortening. It is rich in vitamin content.

★ECONOMY Grandmother's Bread is the ideal loaf for the small family, as it is consumed without leftovers. The sliced loaf is very convenient also for the preparation of sandwiches and other hasty luncheons without crumbs or waste.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of a Disordered Kidney or Bladder Condition

HEED promptly a nagging backache, with bladder irregularities and a tired, nervous, depressed feeling. They may warn of some disordered kidney or bladder condition.

Users everywhere rely on Doan's Pills. The sale of millions of boxes annually attests to Doan's popularity. Your druggist has Doan's.

Then I saw my Teeth whiten 3 shades in 3 days

Dingy Yellow Disappears Overnight

EVEN if your teeth have been dingy and yellow for years, and faithful care has failed to remedy this unfortunate condition, Kolynos with its unique technique will soon make them clean and attractive. In just 3 days you'll see a great change. Your teeth will look 3 shades whiter.

There's a very definite reason why Kolynos cleans and whitens teeth so remarkably. This double-strength dental cream—utterly unlike anything you've ever used—contains two important ingredients. One—the best and safest cleansing agent known—literally foams into and cleans out every tiny crevice, erases tartar and removes yellowish acid spots. And the second ingredient strikes at the source of most tooth and gum troubles. It kills millions of germs—190 million in 15 seconds, according to tests—that swarm into the mouth and, if neglected, cause decay, discoloration and gum diseases.

Thus teeth are scientifically cleaned right down to the natural white enamel without injury. The gums are stimulated and the mouth is left cleaner and fresher.

Decide to have sound, gleaming white teeth and healthy gums. Start using Kolynos—a half inch on a dry brush, twice daily. In 3 days a glance at your teeth will tell you why this dental cream is winning thousands of new users every week—your teeth will look 3 shades whiter. Try a tube of Kolynos—buy a tube today.

FURNITURE SALE

Offering carefully chosen stocks—the smartest furniture to be had in Pittsburgh—in a wide selection of styles and prices to meet the needs of every type home and every home's individual budget.

A visit to our furniture floor will convince you that for quality, style, lowest price and dignified terms, the best place to buy furniture these days is Boggs & Buhl.

FURNITURE FLOOR OPEN
Tonight & Tomorrow Night, 7:30 to 10 p.m.

These special evening hours make it more convenient for families to shop in groups and with the leisure necessary in making careful comparisons and selections.

Entire Stock of Furniture at Special Prices

Without reservation, every piece of furniture in our large stock bears a special price. Even the small pieces may be had now at substantial savings.

WHAT does the BUDGET PLAN for buying furniture mean? Simply an extended charge account. Instead of the regular thirty day terms, the account is arranged so that you have eleven months to pay off your charge.

Here's How the Budget Plan Will Work for You

For example, let us assume you have selected one of our special $145 Bed Room Suites in the February Sale:

Your Purchase - - - -	$145.00
First Payment 20% - -	29.00
Unpaid Balance - - -	$116.00

The unpaid balance is then divided into 10 equal payments.

$116 divided by 10 months -	$11.60
Monthly Payment - - - -	$11.60

Plus a Small Carrying Charge of $2.32 payable at end of lease, or $11.83 each month.

This is a sensible way to buy furniture. Such a plan makes it possible for families in average circumstances to buy furniture of excellent quality now while such advantageous prices may be had.

Those with incomes of $150 to $300 monthly (which includes the great majority of families in the Pittsburgh community) can afford Boggs & Buhl furniture and welcome such attractive terms from a reliable store. Our furniture department is the store's largest, with a substantial part of all furniture sold on this Budget plan. Hundreds of Pittsburgh families find it a satisfactory manner in which to buy furniture, paying for it out of current monthly income.

OUR BUDGET HOME IN CHATHAM VILLAGE

(The Mt. Washington Homes Project of the Buhl Foundation)

Thousands of people have visited Chatham Village and seen the six room home decorated by this store's Interior Decorating Staff. It furnishes concrete evidence that a limited budget will go a long way in creating a home of comfort, charm and good taste. The complete furnishings, including furniture, carpeting, draperies, lamps and accessories for five rooms have been budgeted to a total outlay of less than $2000.

Consult with our decorators without cost or obligation. They can give you expert advice and help on all home furnishing problems.

TREES HONORED BY BOYS' CLUBS

Joseph C. Trees, president of the Boys' Club of Pittsburgh, has been elected a director of the national movement known as the Boys' Club of America, which sponsors 260 organizations in 135 cities with a membership of 231,941.

In 1900 between 30 and 40 boys' clubs of the United States met in conference and a tentative organization was formed in 1903. The present organization was established in 1906 and was known as the Federated Boys' Clubs. At a convention in Washington last year the name was changed to Boys' Clubs of America, Inc.

The local club, at 4412 Butler street, has a membership of 3,900 boys who enjoy athletic games, vocational guidance, music, dental and medical aid.

PAIR INDICTED IN AUTO THEFT

William B. Rogers, alias James Bascaro, and Opal Neil, alias Mrs. William Moore, were indicted by the federal grand jury under the national motor vehicle theft act. They are charged with transporting a stolen automobile from Cincinnati to Pittsburgh and selling it here. Another count of the indictment charged them with concealing a stolen automobile transported from Steubenville.

Nathan Holtzman and Maurice Holtzman were indicted on a charge of concealing property from a receiver in bankruptcy and conspiracy. The alleged offense occurred in Johnstown.

Conrad Stidard, a letter carrier attached to the postoffice at Elizabeth, was charged with theft of a letter containing a small amount of money.

Stadtfeld's Friends Here Should Bestir Selves

By MARK SHIELDS

Mark Shields

While political leaders throughout the state are preparing a slate of candidates upon which they hope for agreement, friends of Superior Court Justice Joseph D. Stadtfeld had better bestir themselves if they wish to see him a Republican nominee in the primary next April.

In the East, seat of the strong Philadelphia organization, there is today a disposition to sidetrack Judge Stadtfeld, despite his admitted ability.

Two Superior Court places are to be contested for, the term of Justice Robert S. Gawthrop, of Chester County, also expiring. Justice Gawthrop expects to be a candidate to continue in the place he now holds through a previous election, and eastern politicians now favor following precedent and retaining him on the bench.

But the second place is today undetermined between Justice Stadtfeld, Judge Albert Dutton MacDade, of the Common Pleas Court of Delaware County, and former Lieut. Gov. Arthur James. The Philadelphia organization is in the mood to aid MacDade or James, a tremendous influence in a judicial or any other election.

This assistance will be furnished MacDade, if it materializes, because of the political attachment of Senator John McClure, of Delaware County, to the Philadelphia leaders. McClure wishes to clear MacDade from the Delaware County bench to make room for some close adherent, and McClure is the leader of his county. His desire can be accomplished only by the promotion of MacDade, who still has some time to serve of the term for which he was elected in the lower court.

He is a perennial candidate but heretofore has not made much of a ripple because he has lacked organization support and has failed to make a definite impression on the voters of the state. He is a candidate again and has been busily engaged writing letters to political leaders in this section.

* * *

State Chairmanship Might Be Pawn in Game

The picture is not one of indissoluble gloom for Stadtfeld, but his friends had better bestir themselves if they wish him to obtain some necessary assistance.

The state chairmanship might easily become a pawn in this game, and the result might be an indorsement of Stadtfeld and a restriction of MacDade to his present jurisdiction, which would be a most happy circumstance for the people of the commonwealth, who have come to hold a high regard for the Superior Court.

McClure is being discussed as a possible state chairman in succession to Gen. Edward Martin, who has never had any great love for the job and took it at the request of W. L. Mellon when the Pittsburgher retired. Probably McClure would engage in no open fight with Martin for the post, but he is receptive and in that attitude has the whole-hearted sympathy of Philadelphia.

He was talked of for chairman long before his rather nebulous boom for United States Senator saw the light of day. That boom has not been taken seriously, and every indication is that Senator James J. Davis has now, and has had for more than a week, the support of Philadelphia, which is perfectly satisfied with the attitude he will adopt toward the prohibition question.

Indeed, in Harrisburg this week I heard stories that the McClure senatorial boom had been inflated by Republican gentlemen who did not want him for state chairman, and hoped to sidetrack his ambitions by showing him a glimpse of the promised and promising and compromising land of Washington. For a time the Senator himself was inclined to pause and consider, but in the next few years, if the national election terminates as many loyal Republicans dolefully believe it will, a state chairman will be more important than a Republican Senator in Washington, so far as state patronage and influence are concerned.

* * *

False Political Creed Brings About Defeat

Judge Stadtfeld is reputed to have powerful friends here, who have influence with Gen. Martin. They were much perturbed when he was defeated for Common Pleas Court, a defeat brought about by the same false political creed that "virtue is its own reward," or will at least earn its own reward, an attitude which has been held toward the Superior Court also up to now.

Possibly if Senator McClure could be assured of the chairmanship the fortunes of Judge MacDade might not seem so important to the Delaware County leader. And William S. Vare might be prevailed upon to forget about James.

Theoretically, we should not mix politics and the judiciary. But theory and practice are different things, and from the highest tribunal to the smallest magistrate's court politics plays a part in judicial selection, or appointment. When out of political stratagem and barter there can be developed such a political gain as the retention of Judge Stadtfeld on the Superior Court bench the public is the beneficiary, and finds so much clear gain.

These are simply some observations of what might happen. Certainly, unless the picture as it is today is materially altered, the friends of Judge Stadtfeld have cause to be concerned.

Mark Shields will discuss politics over WCAE at 6 o'clock this evening.

'FUR TO FLY' IN RELIEF FIGHT, COX SAYS

Father Cox Addressing Unemployed

THE REV. JAMES R. COX

PRIEST SPURS JOB RALLY IN HOMESTEAD

Declares Battle for U. S. Aid Only Started; Assails With Poor of Nation Neglected

The battle for federal relief for the jobless and needy, which the Rev. James R. Cox, of Old St. Patrick's Church and his followers are waging, has only started and "the fur will fly" within the next few months, the priest told several thousand persons at a jobless rally last night in Homestead.

More than 1,500 persons jammed the auditorium in Moose Temple and more than 3,000 others stood in the street and heard the address over amplifiers.

The presidential candidacy of Father Cox was boosted once again by Representative Matthew A. Dunn, who spoke after the priest. He said:

"We have a real shepherd with us. Another Abraham Lincoln who will not stop his fight until he has made it possible for every man and woman to enjoy the freedom and rights offered them when Lincoln said with 'Freedom and justice for all'."

CROWD OVERFLOWS

Long before Father Cox arrived in the auditorium, police had stopped people from entering the building. Every available seat was filled, the halls and stairways filled and the crowd overflowed into the street. Traffic was stopped in Eighth avenue for a block.

Father Cox said:

"There should be no rich, privileged class. There are starving thousands who need the money the millionaires spend each year to go to the Riviera for a fling an, there kill a couple of their sweethearts.

ASSAILS PHILLIPS

"We can't fool with the Republicans and Democrats that are in power today, tieing up the world. Look at Mr. Phillips, the utility man who went to Washington last week and told President Hoover that Western Pennsylvania was able to care for its jobless and needy. And at the same time his men were out shutting off the gas and light of those unable to pay.

"I never want to criticize the President of the United States. It is the system that I am hitting. When I met Mr. Hoover in the White House and told of our needs, he said the government was doing more than its share now, and its job was to get the men back in their old jobs.

"If he would do for our unfortunate as he did for the Belgians and Russians during and after the war, he would go down in history as one of our greatest presidents.

"When I recall his statement to me, I believe he is the most courageous man I ever met to stick to his gang. He is a brave man or a fool."

DENOUNCES MELLON

Father Cox also denounced Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, declaring the secretary had returned $2,000,000,000 in income tax refunds in the last 10 years but had done nothing to provide a bonus for the soldiers. He continued:

"Mellon has nothing for the soldiers who fought to save this country, but he can return billions to his wealthy friends. Who ever heard of a rich man paying any more income tax than was absolutely necessary? But they get it back. The men who went to France to save the hides of the swivel chair heroes in Washington get nothing. They were promised a bonus in 20 years.

"Do you think that if they had promised to pay Charlie Schwab 20 years later for the steel he supplied for the cannons, that he would have been satisfied? He would have said 'no' and there would have been no war.

"You people of Homestead have lots to be proud of, but you also have something that does

AUTO FIRED ON IN EAST END

A report that several shots were fired into a speeding automobile by a pedestrian who tried to stop it in Larimer avenue, near Paulson avenue, early today, was being investigated by East End police.

Joseph McCausland, of 157 Carver street, told police he witnessed the shooting. He declared a man stepped from the curb to flag down a passing automobile, and when the machine swerved, the pedestrian fired several shots into it.

Nelson Foster, 34, a Negro, of 2146 Wylie avenue, was shot through the left leg early today during a struggle with an unidentified Negro, who robbed him of $32 in Wylie avenue near Kirkpatrick street, according to police.

William J. Davis, of 119 South Harrison avenue, Bellevue, reported he was held up and robbed of $10 while walking under the McAfee Bridge early today.

Cab Windows Broken In South Side Attack

A cab driven by J. Baroski was stoned last night in Carson street, near South Eighth street, police were told. The cab was not carrying passengers. The driver reported the missiles smashed the cab windows.

Passengers Unhurt In Wreck of 'Lark'

WATSONVILLE, Cal., Jan. 28.—(INS.)—Two hundred passengers and the crew of the Southern Pacific's crack train, the "Lark," were uninjured today because the train was traveling slowly when a mysterious attempt was made to wreck it here early today, railroad officials said.

Signals that had been tampered with caused the engine to be derailed at an open switch. Officials said it was the third attempt in two weeks to wreck the train.

ON BROADWAY

VIC FAUST . . . HE RINGS BELLS AND GRINS

FAUST NOW HIT ON BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Vic Faust, the tall, thin, sad-faced Swiss bell-ringer, has finally conquered Broadway.

Six nights and two matinees weekly he is making large numbers of New York's sophisticated listen to the musical pealing of the bells he has been ringing for 20 years. He is making them like it, too.

Less than two years ago Vic was broke and hungry in Pittsburgh, hugging the radiators in poolrooms. Capt. Menke's Golden Rod showboat had been forced to close, and Vic had no job.

Producers of a big, expensive New York musical—"The Gang's All Here"—decided to show Vic as a freak attraction. Thus he was lifted from the Allegheny River to Broadway—a chance for fame and fortune.

But Vic's debut lasted 30 seconds. The show didn't endure much longer. In those 30 seconds Vic's part called for him to be booted literally off the stage by Ted Healy, starred comedian.

Vic was stranded in New York, penniless. For a year he seemed to have disappeared.

But he reappeared the other night in a legitimate New York theater—the Golden—as a feature of Broadway's latest success, "Ten Nights in a Barroom," played for all it's worth by Capt. Billy Bryant and Company, late of Elizabeth, Pa.

SEEK TO LINK PRISONERS TO BANK KILLING

One Partially Identified In Fatal Verona Holdup, Other Believed Car Driver

Two men, held prisoner since Saturday, when they were arrested as supicious persons by Rankin police, today were in the county jail pending further investigation while county detectives endeavored to determine whether they were responsible for a robbery on December 6, 1930, in which a Verona bank teller was killed.

One of the men, Mike Hadok, of 32 North Center street, Youngstown, has been identified as the man who killed the teller, Charles N. McFarland, in the holdup of the Allegheny Trust Company, Verona, police said.

The other, Mike Manulo, 42, of 1879 Lawrence street, Youngstown, was thought by detectives to have been Hadok's companion, driving the machine in which the thief escaped with $1,000.

Neither of the men, who have been secretly investigated since their arrest Saturday, has admitted knowledge of the robbery, detectives said. Hadok was tentatively identified by several persons who saw the killer flee.

Cycle Rider Injured In Crash on Bridge

Ralph Kelic, 30, of 1335 Romanhoff street, was seriously injured this morning when his motorcycle skidded and crashed into an iron girder on the Sixth Street Bridge, near Duquesne way, according to a police report.

Police removed Kelic to the Allegheny General Hospital. The motorcycle skidded when Kelic attempted to pass an automobile.

1932 SHOWING LAUDED BY VISITORS

Display of Accessories Surpasses Previous Years; Operatic Star on Program

Attendance at the annual Pittsburgh Auto Show at Motor Square Garden exceeds last year's attendance by 10 per cent, in spite of two rainy days, it was announced today by W. O. Owings, secretary of the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association. He anticipates an even greater attendance gain during the remaining three days of the 1932 show.

In addition to the machines themselves, there is a sub floor exhibit of accessories. Entertainment afternoon and evening includes dance music by Walker Moore and his orchestra, and songs by Catherine Redfield, operatic star.

A gift is given away every afternoon of the show, and an automobile every night at 10 o'clock.

A new Graham sedan was awarded last night to William G. Gaches, 3501 Campers street, North Side.

R. S. Cole, vice president in charge of sales of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation, compared futile discussion of the past two and a half years with locking the door after the horse has escaped, and described a prosperous future for 1932 at a district meeting of 100 Hupmobile dealers in Pittsburgh yesterday.

Mr. Cole was the guest of H. F. Gleason, Pittsburgh distributor, who acted as toastmaster at yesterday's meeting. C. E. Salisbury, factory service director, also spoke.

SURGERY SAVES SECOND CHILD

Six-year-old Shirley Himebaugh of New Castle, is "doing nicely" in the Presbyterian Hospital today following the removal of particles of a peanut from her lung.

The operation, one of the most delicate known to surgery, was performed by Dr. Ellen J. Patterson. It was the second successful operation of this kind by Dr. Patterson within a week.

The bronchoscope, designed by Dr. Chevalier Jackson, former Pittsburgher, was used in the operation. It permits a view of the lung passages.

The child was in danger of death from bronchiel infection when she was taken to the hospital.

McKeesport Hospital Seeking $100,000

They're Willing To Economize On Someone Else

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Public official is sorer than a hammered thumb because somebody suggested he give 10 per cent of his pay to the conscience fund.

That's a thing that could be carried too far. It means a lot of the boys would be working for nothing.

This economy wave is great if you only go into it ankle deep. Every official has a suggestion to reduce the other's man's pay.

But when it comes his turn to eat a steak off the gored ox he yells for broccoli.

Everybody wants to economize by proxy.

We do not think that public servants are overpaid. Some of them do two men's work. We think Congress should be paid an extra fireman's salary because they are under fire, too.

So many chickens are coming home to roost they have to use the Akron's hangar for a coop.

Ad Drive Launched To Assist Painters

An increase in painting contracts in 1932 was indicated by Fergus O'Connor, special representative of the paint division of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, at a meeting of paint dealers last night in Hotel Henry.

He pointed out the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company has doubled its 1932 advertising appropriation to assist master painters in obtaining new business.

POOR TAX RAISE OMITS CITY

County Commissioners have fixed the 1932 tax rate at 8⅛ mills as the county levy for Pittsburgh and 11⅛ mills for territory outside of Pittsburgh. The excess is the levy for the Poor Board, 3 mills, double that of last year. The levy in the city remains the same.

The county's budget of expenses, with further pruning assured, totals about $22,000,000. The current rates are expected to provide about $15,000,000 from the 8⅛ mills levy, about $5,000,000 from delinquent tax receipts, fees and other miscellaneous sources, and $2,000,000 from the 3-mill poor tax levy.

The county's 1932 total valuation is approximately $1,805,000,000 which includes $700,000,000 outside Pittsburgh, that is assessable for the poor tax.

In addition to providing about $2,000,000 for the Poor Board, the County Commissioners have pledged $500,000 to the Allegheny County Emergency Association which will have to be diverted from the road tax.

Heinroth Sadly Prepares To Leave for N. Y. Post

Twenty-five years ago a young ambitious organist played at the dedication of Carnegie Institute. Today that man, his years heaped with laurels and his ambition realized, is packing dozens of books and papers piled into little mountains about his study above Carnegie Music Hall. Charles Heinroth is getting ready to return to his home town.

Dr. Heinroth, organist at the music hall for the past quarter of a century, will leave for New York Sunday to become professor of music at the College of the City of New York. It means a promotion, but it is fraught with regrets for Charles Heinroth. He said:

"This beautiful organ, than which there is no finer in the world, is part of me. I designed it and helped to build it; it's my baby, and one of my greatest regrets is that I cannot take it with me."

Heinroth yesterday recalled the high lights of his career in Pittsburgh and for the first time revealed the story of why Andrew Carnegie gave an organ to Carnegie Institute. He said:

"Carnegie was so impressed by being awakened from sleep one Sunday morning aboard a steamer by a brass band that he decided to be awakened every morning by music. A band was out of the question, so Carnegie had pipe organs installed in both his Pittsburgh home and in Skibo Castle, Scotland. He then determined to give Pittsburgh the world's best organ."

Funeral services for Emerson K. Lewis, 57, formerly vice president of the Lewis Foundry & Machine Company, founded by his father, the late John L. Lewis, were held yesterday afternoon. He died suddenly at his home, 634 Watson street, Coraopolis, Monday. For the last 10 years he had been associated with the Duquesne Steel Foundry Company. He was born in Pittsburgh. He leaves a brother, J. L. Lewis, Jr., of Coraopolis and a sister, Mrs. W. A. Herron, of Pittsburgh.

TWO MEN HELD IN BAR PROBE

Two men were at liberty in $1,000 bail each today, pending hearings on perjury charges tomorrow night before Justice of the Peace George R. Craig, of Edgewood, as a result of the Bar Association's campaign against "ambulance chasing" and other alleged unethical practices.

They are Robert W. Miller, of Hill avenue, Carnegie, and George I. Brady, 412 Ridgewood avenue, North Side, and are alleged by Attorney Donald C. Anderson, a member of the association's investigating committee, to have made false statements under oath before that body.

Miller is alleged to have denied he was employed by a certain firm of attorneys and that he had cards printed, "Robert W. Miller, attorney at law."

FUMES INVADE OAKLAND HOMES

Engineers of Mellon Institute today were checking gas lines of a dozen houses in Chesterfield road at Terrace street, Oakland, in an attempt to locate the source of a sickening odor which caused occupants to leave their homes for an hour or more last night.

A check last night by employes of the Peoples Natural Gas Company revealed the gas lines in satisfactory shape. One employe said the source probably was a street sewer. The condition existed for less than two hours.

PITT ARRANGES REGISTRATION

Registration of new students for the second semester at the downtown division of the University of Pittsburgh will be taken Monday between 4 and 8:30 p. m. in the offices on the Chamber of Commerce Building.

Officials said about 3,200 students will be in the classes for the second semester, new enrollments practically equaling the losses by mid-winter graduations.

It also was announced that students unable to pay the entire tuition fee upon registration will be permitted to spread a portion of the sum into monthly payments.

INJURED IN FALL FROM RADIO CAR

Fred Kleber, 39, of 223 Cedarville street, a patrolman attached to Central station's radio car, was injured seriously early today when the door of the moving police car opened, throwing him into the street.

The accident occurred in Bigelow boulevard, near Dithridge street. The driver of the car, Patrolman Carl Locher, took the injured policeman to the Mercy Hospital, where he was reported suffering from a fractured skull. Patrolman Locker told Police Capt. John Schnurr the door had not been closed securely.

Gives you 3 times more for your money yet kills germs in 10 seconds

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC goes 3 times as far because it can be diluted with 2 parts of water. That's economy for you. Why waste money on antiseptics that must be used full strength?

WE stress the great economy of Pepsodent Antiseptic because it convincingly proves Pepsodent Antiseptic's unique germ-killing power. When fighting colds, irritated throat and Bad Breath (Halitosis), remember there are really only two leading kinds of antiseptics. On the one hand you have the mouth wash that must be used full strength to be effective. On the other hand you have Pepsodent Antiseptic—utterly safe when used full strength, yet powerful enough to be diluted with two parts of water and still be effective! Pepsodent Antiseptic is at least three times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—and gives you extra protection against stubborn colds, and throat irritations. When choosing your mouth antiseptic, be sure you choose the one that kills the germs even when diluted with water! Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be safe! Be safe—and save money!

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)

The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting colds and sore throat prove its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember, Pepsodent Antiseptic is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, it kills germs even when diluted with water!

Gives you 3 times more for your money yet kills germs in 10 seconds

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC goes 3 times as far because it can be diluted with 2 parts of water. That's economy for you. Why waste money on antiseptics that must be used full strength?

WE stress the great economy of Pepsodent Antiseptic because it convincingly proves Pepsodent Antiseptic's unique germ-killing power. When fighting colds, irritated throat and Bad Breath (Halitosis), remember there are really only two leading kinds of antiseptics. On the one hand you have the mouth wash that must be used full strength to be effective. On the other hand you have Pepsodent Antiseptic—utterly safe when used full strength, yet powerful enough to be diluted with two parts of water and still be effective! Pepsodent Antiseptic is at least three times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—and gives you extra protection against stubborn colds, and throat irritations. When choosing your mouth antiseptic, be sure you choose the one that kills the germs even when diluted with water! Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be safe! Be safe—and save money!

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)

The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting colds and sore throat prove its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember, Pepsodent Antiseptic is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, it kills germs even when diluted with water!

USE 3 TIMES STOP COLDS

Join the thousands who prevent infections through the nose from dust, which cause colds, sinus trouble, catarrh, coughs, by using Kondon's Jelly three times a day. This simple practice will give you a healthy head all winter. Drug stores, 30c and 60c.

KONDON'S QUICK RELIEF FOR NOSE, HEAD AND THROAT

Large, Red Pimples Disfigured Face. Healed by Cuticura.

"My forehead, nose and chin broke out with large, red pimples. They festered and when I squeezed them they were very sore. They seemed to come in blotches and disfigured my face while they lasted. The pimples itched and although I tried different remedies they did not help me.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample of each. After using them my mother thought they looked better so I purchased more and in a short time I was completely healed." (Signed) Raymond W. Danley, 2639 Braddock St., Phila., Pa.

Wreath for Lillian Russell Laid on Her Grave by Thurston Hall

By GEORGE SEIBEL

"Actors are sentimental people, most of them, no matter how unsentimental may be the roles they have to play. Iago or Richard III is generally a soft-hearted fellow who hands out dimes to beggars, and the blackest of villains is apt to make a specialty of feeding stray cats or homeless curs off the stage.

George Seibel

There is the dour and stern Gen. Mannon in "Mourning Becomes Electra." He is such a meat-ross on the Nixon stage that his wife poisons him and we don't blame her very much. Off the stage he is Thurston Hall and the other morning he went out to the cemetery to lay a wreath on the grave of Lillian Russell, in memory of a year he played in her company when she was doing "Wildfire."

Thurston Hall remembers that season as the happiest in his whole acting career, which began when Denman Thompson, of "The Old Homestead," saw him in an amateur performance near Boston — Hall's native city — and encouraged him to go on the stage.

"Lillian Russell was one of the kindest, most generous and fair-minded women I have ever known," said Hall. "She radiated sunshine wherever she went. And I couldn't help dropping a few tears on the wreath as I put it on her tomb."

There's something human in those hard-boiled Mannon-alls, all.

COMING TO PITTSBURGH

Thurston Hall is very partial to Pittsburgh and its people, which is only natural, when his 25 weeks in stock here are considered. But he wasn't always like that.

When Harris Davis brought him here, he came against his will. There had been some misunderstanding about a contract, and Thurston Hall wanted to be released. Higher powers of the theatrical world stepped in and he came somewhat unwillingly to Pittsburgh. He spent his first week making certain speeches bewailing his fate, but the audience seemed to think he wouldn't mean it.

By the end of the first week, with the genial and friendly spirit of Harry Davis and the fraternal fellowship of Dennie Harris Hall, was pretty big at home, and admitted that the wife was right.

He was always glad to come to Pittsburgh, however, and is glad to be here again, as a matter of fact, as he is to be in stock anywhere.

FIRST SAW MARY HALL

He has another memory that is linked with our stock days in Pittsburgh. When he first played in Boston, George W. Wilson, who has just died, made him acquainted with Mary Hall, who was then playing with the Castle Square Stock.

"Do you want to meet the most beautiful girl on the American stage?" asked Wilson.

Who wouldn't?

So they called on Mary Hall, and her frank and bashful hazel eyes quite overwhelmed the young actor. She was playing in another Pittsburgh stock company, along with Robert Gleckler, when Hall came to town.

He has just returned from five years at the head of his own company, touring England, South Africa and Australia. To see him on the stage in "Mourning Becomes Electra" and would think he had just come back from the Civil War. I told him I felt like asking him how he had left Gen. Grant. But off the stage he isn't at all warlike, as the wreath on Lillian Russell's grave reveals.

Notes About Coming Bills

Alice White, film actress, comes to the Penn tomorrow for a week of personal appearances. The screen will have Lovers Courageous, starring Robert Montgomery.

The Stanley's stage bill for tomorrow will feature Chic Sale, Dennie Harris Hall, James Cagney and Loretta Young.

The Nixon, Jan. 25 to 30, will be the scene of the Theater Guild's production of Eugene O'Neill's "Mourning Becomes Electra," with Thurston Hall, Alice Brady, Lee Baker, Ian Keith and Dorothy Sebastian.

Dorothy Mackaill is starred in "Safe in Hell," melodrama of the tropics, opening tomorrow in the Warner.

The Academy inaugurates its new policy of stock burlesque Sunday midnight with the show, "Footlight Flashes."

Dig Up Dead City in Metro

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Premier Masquers is bringing back to life the dead city of Herculaneum, and Hearst Metrotone News, in its current issue, brings you the Pearl Fulton and other Beatles presents the first pictures of the progress of this amazing work, with a graphic description by the Globe Trotter. The pictures show some of the villas excavated by Romans, names in the year 79 when Vesuvius went on the greatest holiday in history.

Mahatma Gandhi receives a tremendous ovation upon his arrival in Bombay. In a speech he urges people to carry on the campaign of civil disobedience which has since led to his return.

MONKEY COLONY

The first pictures of Prof. Serge Voronoff's monkey colony at Menton Bay on the Riviera are shown. Dr. Voronoff is the noted scientist who discovered how to rejuvenate old age with monkey glands.

Max Schmeling, world champion Joe Jeanette, pugilist, is seen signing a contract to fight Jack Sharkey for the title at Madison Square Garden in New York City next June.

From Chicago comes a picture of the destruction by federal agents of hundreds of barrels of beer that were seized in a brewery on South State street, alleged to have been owned by Al Capone syndicate.

YOUNGSTERS SWIM

Sons and daughters of the United States officers stationed in the Canal Zone give a startling exhibition of diving and swimming at the Balboa Club pool in Panama.

Thrilling pictures of tremendous leaps from the highest ski slide in the world came from Ogden, Dolores, Indiana, where international champions compete.

Onegin Sings for Art Society Tomorrow

Mme. Sigrid Onegin contralto, will appear for the fourth Art Society concert in Carnegie Music Hall tomorrow evening. Her program will start with a group of songs by Robert Franz followed by the classics of Franz Schubert and Johannes Brahms. A group of folk songs sung in the original languages also will be given.

Plays, Players, By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

A new acting version of "The Merchant of Venice" will be used when that play is presented in the Nixon for 5 nites and 11 matinees, beginning next Thursday. It was prepared by Maude Adams, who will be seen as Portia in the production, which has been touring the road most successfully since opening in Cleveland in the fall. It also will have Spesh Nitsse. Otis Skinner will be seen as Shylock, who is sometimes called the only decent man in the play.

If your kiddie comes at you with "Say, Pop, I want to go to the Nixon Saturday," don't be shocked. He will not be referring to M B K, but to Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch, which will be given Saturday morning by the Children's Theater of New York. Quite an hour of fun, we're told. And the org. behind is doing a fine work in providing youngsters with wholesome entertainment.

The Professional Players subscription series in the Alvin will include three more plays, two of which come to the Sixth classic opry house in Feb. First will be the comedy, "Experience Unnecessary," on the eighth program. Seats for it will be procurable in the b. o. Monday and thereafter. This will be third in the group. Two weeks later, Washington's Birthday, the fourth will arrive. This will be Ethel Barrymore in "The School For Scandal."

New Yorkers had to go to Hoboken to see "After Dark," given in the tempo and technique of the good ol' days, but they can see Billy Bryant's showmasters, "Ten Nights in a Barroom" and "Via Faust in their own home town for Billy has moved into the John Golden Theater after wowing 'em in Chi. . . . Ted Healy, who is touring with "Girl Crazy," is contemplating a vaude act that will include a band. . . . Polo Negri, who is entertaining in New York after a recent operation, will open in vaude in Chicago Feb. 6, in a song act, assisted by pianist. . . . Weber & Fields, together again after years of looking askance, will make their new debut next week in Baltimore. . . . Channing Pollock's new play, "Strangehold," will be tried out next week by Jessie Bonstelle's Civic Repertory Theater in Detroit. . . . The new musical show being produced by Barry (Buck) Buchanan, formerly of Tech, is titled "Seein' Is Believin'," and it will be tried out in Washington late next month. . . . There are rumors the Four Marx Brothers may split after filming "Horse Feathers," with Groucho going it alone.

Chic Sale Spotted for Role With Jackie Cooper In Film, 'Limpy'

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, by King Features Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 28.

After weeks of seeking, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has found a partner for Jackie Cooper in "Limpy."

And for once they've had to go outside their own fold. The actor who gets the job, providing Hollywood red tape doesn't tangle the deal, is Chic Sale.

Chic, of course, is under contract to Warner Brothers, and their consent has to be obtained. But as the part, that of a Civil War veteran, fits the actor perfectly, and, as Chic's next Warner picture doesn't start until the middle of March, the plan is likely to go through.

Chic Sale

For once the question of billing won't furnish a snag. When Jack of Wallie Beery's caliber are willing to share credit with Jackie, Jack Warner can afford to make concessions.

GOSSIP OF CINEMALAND

The best creative talent in the Hollywood gown shops has been drafted to furnish exclusive designs for the stars to wear at a party of the Masfair Club. The men have it easier. Many are going in overalls and tuxedo coats. Eddie Cline is having a suit made of foreign mohair.

Eleanor Boardman

Eleanor Boardman sails with Dolores Del Rio for Hawaii. Eleanor decided to keep King Vidor company while he is directing scenes for The Bird of Paradise. . . . Jesse Lasky, Jr., is the censorship editor at Paramount. His job is to keep up on the latest verboten from the Hays office. . . .

Edna May Oliver has one of those recording devices in her home. Instead of writing letters to her friends, she sends them messages on a photograph record. . . . Ric Cortez makes the dentist pull a towel over his face (Rics) so he can't see the instruments coming.

Yet . . . Fresh as a Daisy at the Office Today
No "Acid Headache"
No Upset Stomach . . .
THE Law of Good Health says: "Don't overindulge, eat too much, drink unwisely."
Science says: "If you do, the QUICKEST, SIMPLEST and EASIEST way to avoid FEELING its results is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia taken this way:
"TAKE—2 tablespoons in a glass of water before bed.
"TAKE—2 tablespoons in a glass of water with the juice of a WHOLE ORANGE when you get up."
Or take six Phillips' Milk of Magnesia tablets the same way which give an equivalent amount of Milk of Magnesia, for each Phillips' Milk of Magnesia tablet equals one teaspoonful of the liquid Milk of Magnesia.
That's all. Tomorrow you'll feel great. Millions are learning this. Millions are doing it.
Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is nothing but the most powerful NEUTRALIZER of the ACIDS that follow overindulgence known. It goes into your acid-soured stomach, alkalinizes its contents, sweetens them—takes the sting out—banishes the headaches and sour stomach that usually follow.
Get Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in the familiar liquid form, or the new, more-easily convenient tablets. All "Milk of Magnesia" is not alike in effect. So insist on Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia . . . the kind doctors endorse.
THE LAW of Good Living says: "Don't overindulge, eat too much, smoke too much, drink unwisely."
Science says: "If you do, Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is probably the quickest and most effective way to avoid feeling its after-effects."
PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia
Neutralizes the acids that cause "Acid Headaches" and Sour Stomach within 15 minutes after taking!
TWO FORMS NOW AT STORES
You can now get Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in tablet form, as well as ordinary liquid form. Each tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Milk of Magnesia. Carry the tablets with you wherever you go. They taste like mint candy.

Some Married Folks Aren't Suited for Each Other

She has "those dancing feet"—
And a gypsy heart—
And she "wants to live."
Once she was married. Then she cheated it.
"Couldn't help it!" she laughs with a careless shrug.
Divorce. Illness. Now he wants her back.

But "he just lives to work and eat and sleep," says she. "And I'm sure I don't love him. But—should I go back anyway? I realize youth won't always last—"

Such a common plot! This Twentieth Century is full of plots like that.

Vagabond Girls with Hearthside Husbands—

Stay-at-Home Wives with Wandering Mates—

Does the combination ever work?

FAILURE AS WIFE

"Dear Sally Martin:

"I have a problem, and I can't seem to solve it alone.

"I am not in love with anyone—at least I don't think I am. I am 23. I am peppy, love dancing, reading, traveling, sports, parties and flattery. I'm not vain, but I am not so hard to look at, either.

"I have been married five years, and a year ago I was divorced. The divorce was all my fault. I cheated. I just couldn't seem to help it. I wanted life, not home, dishes, cooking, scrubbing, every day in the week. No fun. Well, two years of married life made me realize what a failure I was as a wife.

"He's older than I. Eight years. He was wonderful to me in his way, but he had very different views of life, coming from a large family, while I was an only child. I wanted life. He was content with just me and staying home. I got frightfully tired of that, but I tried not to. I didn't give in to myself without a struggle.

"But finally I began going out to parties, dancing and so forth. Then the divorce. And I ran plenty. I soon went away, but I came back and my ex-husband came to see me.

CAN'T DECIDE

"I go around with him now. He wants to marry me again. He said he would forget and forgive me. But I don't know whether I want to marry him or not. I can't even answer him when he says 'Do you love me?' I don't know. I like to go out with him, but I can't make up my mind to settle down again. I don't want to hurt him again, and I don't think I am the wife type. I know I won't be young all my life, either, but I can't figure out if I should marry him or not, because I still dread being tied at home and love good times and he doesn't. Just to eat and sleep is his ambition.

"What do you think? Should I go away and live my own life, and let him live his? Or should I remarry him and try to make him happy? What is wrong with me anyway?

"VAGABOND GIRL."

What's wrong with you?

If you were four years younger, I might say that nothing was wrong with you except Youth . . . But now I suspect that something is getting to be wrong with you fast.

Just a careless kid?

So's a racketeer!

He probably doesn't mean to be bad, either. He also "wants to live" . . . and can't be bothered to live regular.

Crime's just carelessness—carried on too long.

So, for your own sake, I'd advise you to snap out of it, lady. Stop picturing yourself as a Pretty Butterfly, and see yourself for what you're fast getting to be. You'll never "see life" this way. You'll see only the dregs. And 10 years from now your Gay Time Comrades will be giving you a smile and a handout because they're sorry for you.

NOT RIGHT MAN

How do I know?

Because I make my living working with girls like you.

That for you. And now about this man.

Marry him! No!

Even though you steadied down, he wouldn't be the man for you. Don't kid yourself, though, that this proves him a poor stick. You're simply two different kinds of human beings. There's hot, eager life in you. You're using it all wrong—but it's good stuff, and you could do great things if you wished. And he's a fine person too—

But you'll never have the same wave length.

So, having made one mistake, don't make another by tackling an impossible situation the second time.

Be yourself—your squarest, finest self, kid—and not just the cheap, phony sparkler that you are now.

Let him be himself . . . and respect him for that self . . . but don't marry him.

Don't marry anyone until you've grown up enough to understand a grown-up's game.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Unsightly Sties on Eyelids Often Due to Carelessness

Very few persons escape that annoying and distressing condition known as "sty." You don't need to be a doctor to recognize it. It is unpleasant to look at and certainly contributes to an appearance of real misery.

Dr. Copeland

It is amusing to hear the various theories given as to the cause of sty. "Bad blood" and overuse of the eye are among the most frequent explanations.

A sty is an infection of the tissues in the margin of the eye-lid. At first there are redness and inflammation. Within a few days the spot begins to swell. The inflamed area increases in size and a yellowish spot appears in its center. Pretty soon this ruptures and pus escapes. The whole trouble clears up within a few days.

In the early stages, hot compresses should be applied to the sty. Hot boric acid solution is excellent to use in this way. The heat brings the sty to a head and hastens the escape of pus.

Frequently it becomes necessary to open the sty. When this is done, the duration of the trouble is shortened by many days.

Sties often recur. For this reason vaccine injections have been recommended to head off these repeated "crops."

Yellow oxide of mercury ointment is another "classical remedy. It should be rubbed daily into the margins of the eyelids. This is done on going to bed at night. Upon arising in the morning the lids should be cleansed with warm boric acid.

Sties are caused by infecting the lids. This may be due to dubbing the eyes with dirty fingers. Another factor is a run-down condition. When the body is in good health, and the powers of resistance are normal, sties will not occur.

Chronic indigestion, constipation, lack of the proper number of hours of sleep, excessive use of the eyes, faulty diet, kidney and intestinal disturbance—these are a few of the causes that may help to bring about this condition.

The prevention is simple. Avoid rubbing the eyes with your hands. If you do a lot of reading and use your eyes excessively your eyes should be tested. If there is any defect in vision, glasses should be worn.

You should be sensible about it and wear them if they are needed. There are two reasons why people subject to sties and who need glasses should wear them. Glasses give normal vision and remove any unnecessary strain on the eyes. Secondly, glasses serve to protect sensitive eyes against dust and wind.

Please remember that recurring sties are a sign that you are indulging in habits that are injurious to your health. Correct your habits. Keep the eyes clean. Eat abundantly of foods that supply the necessary vitamins. Make it a point to obtain sufficient sleep.

Contract Bridge

By E. V. SHEPARD

OFFICIAL SYSTEM
As Adopted by Leading Authorities

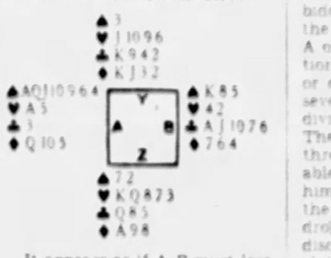
Going Game Without Risk

Z made an opening bid of 1-Heart. A's hand looked so powerful that he offered a strong invitation bid of 2-Spades—the same bid that he would have made had he dealt. Y ventured to raise his partner to 3-Hearts. B volunteered 3-Spades. Z bid 4-Hearts; A ended contracting with 4-Spades. The hands were as shown below.



It appears as if A-B must lose one heart trick and three diamond tricks, which will defeat their contract one trick. The question is: Can A so play his cards as to fulfill his contract? The opening lead is Y's J of hearts.

Before playing from A's hand, review his resources, just as he did. A can win one heart trick with his A. He can take seven trump tricks, and he is certain of one club trick; that makes nine tricks that can be seen. To fulfill his contract A requires an added trick. With the A-K-J of diamonds all against him it is uncertain whether or not A can win a trick in that suit. To have sufficient strength to open the bidding Z must hold in hearts the K-Q, and also the missing A of diamonds, with some additional strength either in clubs or diamonds. There are missing seven clubs, which probably are divided 4-3 between opponents. The A of clubs and dummy's three spades offer four probable entries to B's hand enabling him to lead clubs five times. If the fourth lead of that suit drops all opposing clubs, A can discard one loser upon B's last club and go game. That appears to be the only safe method of playing the hand, and A decided to play that way before putting up his A of hearts on the first trick.

When dummy is boarded every careful player plans his campaign before playing to the opening lead. A should win the first trick with his ace. Then he should lead his lone club, putting up dummy's A. The return lead of B's lowest club should be ruffed with one of A's high spades; he must preserve his two lowest trumps for leading trumps to dummy. Having trumped a club, A must lead one of his low trump honors; overtake with B's K and again lead and trump a club. The missing Q and 9 of clubs will fall. Next, A's 6 of spades must be led, and overtaken with B's 8, dropping the last adverse trump. B's fourth club must be led and trumped high by the declarer; the last opposing club will fall, leaving a good card of that suit in dummy. A's 4 of spades must now be overtaken with B's 5; dummy's good club must be led, and upon it A must discard his last heart. Opponents can now win only three club tricks, and game has been won without risk.

Dicky Learns Truth About the Comedy Line

There was more than astonishment in my reaction to Dicky's stricture that a man would never have said that the photograph of another man looked like a chimpanzee with the croup. There was mirth also, so much of it that I had hard work to keep from laughing outright, a proceeding which I knew Dicky would never forgive. For I had a most vivid remembrance of an hour in my early married life when Dicky had come across a picture of Jack Bickett, not a former husband, as was the man in my play but my brother-cousin, the man nearest to my heart of any in the world until Dicky entered my life. Dicky had been wildly jealous of Jack's very name, although he never had seen him, and I could hear, as though it were yesterday, my husband's contemptuous voice as he snorted: "Humph! he looks like a gorilla with the mumps."

It always had seemed to me a laughable line, and when I had used it in the interchange of comic marital badinage I had quite preened myself because, unlike many other lines of my dialogue, I had quoted it with almost exact phrasing.

I knew better, however, than to recall that long ago incident to have denied hotly that he ever had used such an expression, and that he himself would implicitly believe the denial.

But the knowledge of my own impregnable position on the question, did he but know it, suddenly eased doubts which I had felt concerning the work. If this were the only fault Dicky could find in the first half of my third act, then I need not worry—at least over his reaction to my effort.

This conviction made it easier for me to do something popularly supposed to be anathema to an author, whether temperamental or not—consent to a change in the lines of a role.

"You're probably right at that," I said, magnificently forswearing my own opinion. "I'll take it out, of course. But you'll have to give me some expression I can use in its place. I haven't time to rewrite the whole colloquy."

A queer little confused look came over Dicky's face. Then he laughed outright, albeit a bit ruefully.

"You've evidently heard the story of the famous playwright who, when his ignorant producer told him that 'right there he needed some humorous lines,' answered blandly, 'For instance?' and effectually ended the conversation. You've got me licked, old dear. I have nothing to substitute for your 'chimpanzee with the croup.' It isn't such a bad line after all. In fact, now that I think it over, it sounds oddly familiar. Yet I am sure it isn't a line of any play I ever heard."

"I don't think I ever heard it in a play," I said demurely.

"Well!" you surely never heard it in real life, did you?"

"Not that exact phrasing," I parried, restless and terrified at his question, for it suddenly seemed of great importance to me that Dicky should not discover my use of his phraseology. I felt almost like a shoplifter who is in imminent danger that the purloined scarf up her sleeve will be discovered.

But Dicky's keen eyes had seen something in my far-from-poker face which excited his curiosity.

"Look here!" he demanded suddenly, "what have you up your sleeve? There's some funny business about this line that you're holding out on me. What is it? Come clean now!"

There was mirth in his eyes and his manner, but there was an imperative note in his voice which warned me that he would not easily drop the question he had raised concerning the line to which he had objected.

"There's no 'funny business' at all," I told him with what vehemence I could muster.

"That's no answer at all," he paraphrased, mimicking my voice and manner perfectly. Then he rose from his chair, carrying me with him—he had pulled me down upon his knees when I had gone over to him with my plea that he tell me the lines in my third act, of which he disapproved—and putting his hands upon my shoulders in the same gesture I had used but a few minutes before, searched my face with keen, impudent eyes.

"I have it!" he said at last. "Somewhere in our checquered history I've talked in my sleep—it must have been a nightmare—or I'd gone on a worse jag than usual and emitted something which was remotely enough like this spiel for you to twist it into this pitiful wisecrack. Come on, now! Spill it! What was it I really said?"

He was on the scent now, and I knew he never would let up on me until he had found the end of the trail. With a philosophic remembrance of the easy jump from a lamb to a sheep I slipped my head into the hangman's noose.

"It is a paraphrase of something you said," I confessed. "When we were first married you said Jack Bickett's photograph looked like a 'gorilla with the mumps.'"

Household Hints

Rub sewing-machine oil stains with lard, allow to stand for at least three hours, and wash with cold water and soap.

Jam ferments rapidly if kept in a damp larder. A two-pound jar of lime placed on the floor under the shelves will quickly absorb dampness.

If windows are very dirty, wipe them first with a damp cloth. Then wipe again with a cloth dipped in methylated spirit. No polishing is required.

Fifth Club Gets Ford. Title Jobbery Balked.

GIBSON REPORTS NO DEALS IN SIGHT

MANAGER GEORGE GIBSON, of the Pirates, in town to remain until he heads for Paso Robles with the advance guard on February 17, admits that the proposed deal with a minor league club involving Pitcher Steve Swetonic is still held up by reason of a failure to obtain the necessary waivers on the North Side flinger, but he is not prepared to say whether the situation will lead to the retention of Swetonic or a deal for him inside the National League.

Gibby, as usual, is open minded on the subject of trading. He says he will consider any deal which he thinks might strengthen the Pittsburgh club but will not let any player go at a sacrifice. The conclusion to be drawn from his remarks is that if the Eastern National League club which refused to waive on Swetonic is willing to offer in exchange for him material that would be helpful to the Buccaneers, a swap may be possible, but that otherwise Steve is likely to be kept on the Pirate payroll. The new skipper is not looking for the better end of any bargaining, but neither is he going to take the short end of it.

Steve Swetonic

THE SAME POLICY will be followed in the case of any other player on the Pirate roster who may be sought by a rival club. The local management is not offering any of its men for trade however, and if any player elopes the first advance will have to come from the other end.

Gibson at present does not anticipate any trading. "I am willing to be reasonable," he said, "but naturally I am not going to consider anything that means 90 per cent for the other side and 10 per cent for us. That appears to be all that anybody is willing to offer. Whether or not I attend the schedule meeting in New York next Wednesday will depend on developments in the matter of trading prospects. Right now I'd say the chances are that I'll not go."

SOME MANAGERS [illegible] per cent of [illegible] per cent before the first [illegible] and [illegible] that [illegible] are not [illegible] training [illegible] that he [illegible] that no players are not understudied. There will be two practice sessions each day, one in the morning and one in the afternoon, he said. A single drill [illegible] enough work for the boys.

HORACE FORD must be given a place among the much-traveled players in the big show. The veteran shortstop, nearing 35, goes to his fifth club in the National League in the cash deal that sends him from the Reds to the Cardinals. He spent five seasons with the Braves after leaving Tufts College, one with the Phillies, one with the Dodgers, and six with the Reds. On the Cincinnati club, Ford and Hurley Cuts, prior to the transfer of the latter to the Giants in 1930, formed the greatest double-play combination in baseball. In 149 games in 1928, Ford took part in 128 double killings, which stands as the all-time single-season record for major league shortstops. The release of Ford sends away the last of the players who were regulars in the Cincinnati lineup before the coming of Dan Howley as pilot in 1930.

Emil Fuchs

REPORTS THAT THE Boston National League club has rejected the efforts to get Hack Wilson from the Cubs for the latter by the Cardinals to the Dodgers are denied by Emil Fuchs, owner of the Braves. He says he has [illegible] in Wilson to such a [illegible] he would be willing to give up on [illegible] offered for him.

"I do not want to have anything to do with Wilson," Fuchs said. "It is true that I tried to get him and that I had him during the Chicago meetings, but the [illegible] was not given exactly the best of treatment. The Chicago people told us we as good as had him in exchange for three of our players, then stepped from under and did business with St. Louis.

NO SOONER HAD the Cubs obtained Wilson than they tried to peddle him to us, but I told Branch Rickey that I'd give them only one-fourth of what I had promised the Cubs for Wilson.

Now we'll give the Dodgers no more than one-third of what we were willing to give the Cubs for Hack, which is approximately what we originally offered for the player. You can make up your mind if that one-fourth is a price at which the Brooklyn club will leap eagerly."

ONE OF THE big professional basketball games proposed for Pittsburgh this winter is nearly assured. Promoter Johnny Evsond announces that he has closed a match between the Rosenblum Celts and Boston Visitations for a contest here on the night of Friday, February 12. Lyceum Battalion, and he will shortly make a choice between Duquesne University gym and Motor Square Garden as the scene of the game. The Visitations won the American League championship last year and have figured in the play-off in that league for three consecutive seasons.

THE ROSENBLUMS ARE to appear in Beaver Falls Saturday night for the first time, meeting the fast St. Mary's team of that place in the Beaver Falls High school gym. The St. Mary's five has a fine record for three seasons, having lost only a few games in that time and is rated one of the best independent quintets that section ever boasted.

This will be the first opportunity the Beaver Falls boys have had to match themselves against a big team of the front pro ranks, and their followers are confident they will give a good account of themselves in competition with the Celtic stars. The following night, Sunday, the Rosenblums will play in Youngstown, O., against the Ft. Wayne team.

THE RAW EXHIBITION put up by Battling Battalino and Freddie Miller in their so-called featherweight championship bout in Cincinnati is thought such a fake that it was dropped and declared no contest in the third round with neither principal receiving any pay. was not in the [illegible] been especially respected.

With the two fighters under the same management it was clear that the match was nothing but a business affair in which Battalino would make a effort at doing a weight that is known to be beyond his reach and then go down to defeat and let the N. B. A. title pass to a stalemate. The Cincinnati commission took the right step in refusing to let the parties get away with it, but it erred in ever allowing the thing to be put on in the first place. That a job was planned was evident to everybody seemingly, except the commissioners themselves.

Jackie Fields

ANOTHER RING TITLE will be at stake tonight. Lou Brouillard, who took the world welterweight championship from Young Jack Thompson, will defend that crown in a 10-round bout with Jackie Fields in Chicago. Title competition isn't new to Fields. He held the welter honors himself for a time, having won the championship from Joe Dundee on a foul, July 25, 1929, and lost it to Thompson, on a decision, May 9, 1930. But his attempt to reach the throne a second time appears unlikely to be successful unless there is another of those business arrangements behind the match. You never know what's on top in the fight game in these days of interlocking managerships, as witness last night's affair in Cincinnati, but if tonight's bout is on the up and up, Brouillard looks like the probable winner. He is still gaining in class though already holding a title, whereas Fields has lost considerable of the ability he once possessed.

JACKETS, BISONS TO CLASH

PITT BATTLES MOUNTAINEERS TOMORROW

By JESS CARVER

Record [illegible] figure to be the thing for this week-end's college basketball [illegible] in the city. Yesterday Buzz Hogan at Tech hinted at a shift in his starting [illegible] and today Dr. Red Carlson at Pitt and Chick Davies at Duquesne have joined the Tartan menace in announcing changes in the [illegible] fronts.

Tomorrow night Pitt will send its second stringers against West Virginia on the occasion of the Mountaineers' initial invasion of the city. The Mountaineers will be a [illegible] for the Panthers, Tech, Carnegie Tech [illegible] yesterday for [illegible] Brown at center, [illegible] and A. Wroble at forwards and Hughes and Bugas at guards. Jim McMullen, the big football star alternated with Brown at center, indicating that Carlson figures him to be about [illegible] for varsity action.

W. VA. IMPROVED

West Virginia has been laced by Geneva and West Virginia Wesleyan but sports triumphs over Temple, Bethany and Salem in a row, and has been resting for the [illegible] weeks.

For the important tussle with Tech Saturday, Chick Davies is [illegible] over some shifts in his various squads. He's been favoring Shuttz, Irwin and Joe Zerilla at forwards in the workouts this week, and in view of the fact that both [illegible] played fine ball while the Duke were on the road last week, the chances are they'll be in the [illegible] Friday night.

Capt. Burk McGeever and Irvin Brenner have been alternating at the center job during the past practice sessions this week, making it not improbable that Brenner will be used as a starting pivot man.

JAGNOW AT CENTER

Dudey Moore and Marty Reiter however, appear set for guard jobs.

With Lou Jagnow in at center the Tech forward positions are being held down by Smith and Silverman. Capt. Jimmy Leonard and Carrots Fergus so far have successfully withstood challenges directed at the guard jobs.

It has been reported that Bus Albright, last year star for the Pitt quint who dropped from the squad this season, would rejoin the squad next week.

The Tipoff

Joe Orsini, the boxing pilot at Pitt, is hoping one result from arranging a match to shoot against the West Virginia [illegible] after tomorrow night's basketball game in the stadium. If Benny Martin is able to compete in the 145 lb. class, Joe's troubles will be [illegible] what for with the ranks [illegible] for duty it will give Pitt six gritty [illegible] leather-fingers.

[illegible] and [illegible] candidates [illegible] in the [illegible] class, please [illegible] Joe's office. [illegible] a match and [illegible] and [illegible] a good run on the [illegible] a real sport out of the best of [illegible].

[illegible] O. will turn out en masse and [illegible] to hear Dr. Jock Sutherland address the high school football squad of [illegible]. Which reminds the good Doctor will not be on hand to watch Pitt and Notre Dame play basket-ball. Maybe Jock isn't as crazy to see Knode in action again as we [illegible].

What we wonder most [illegible] football [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] middle of a scrap between [illegible] and an Attalage last [illegible] evening will get no better than a draw with the Airedale.

Do you realize that within a year or two it will be time for the opening of a new football officials' convention? The job now belongs to Walter Okeson, and that throws it up to the bookies, who stand or having a better chance of getting the post than Judge John Kane? Run that through the wringer a time or two.

ARMY RIDERS TO MEET

Two Army teams will fight it out in Hunt Armory Saturday night in the second game of the Pittsburgh Polo League schedule, the 107th Field Artillery riders taking on the 308th Cavalry team.

The handicap standing of the Artillery is 11, while the Cavalry is 10, which means the Cavalry will be one point to the good at the takeoff. The game will get under way at 8:30 o'clock.

N. Y. U. Appoints Jake Cann Head Coach

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Howard G. (Jake) Cann, the greatest all-round athlete ever produced at New York University, has been appointed head football coach and director of physical training at the Violet institution to succeed John F. (Chick) Meehan.

Cann, who graduated in 1920 and who has been head basketball coach at N. Y. U. since 1923, will assume his new duties Monday. Cann also will be a member of the faculty, with the rank of assistant professor.

He succeeds his father, Frank H. Cann, as physical director and supervisor of the university gymnasium. The senior Cann has been connected with N. Y. U. for 37 years and for more than half that time has been physical director.

Cohen Brothers Oppose Y. M. H. A.

Les Cohen, former Pitt star center, and member of the 1927-28 undefeated collegiate championship team, and Mill Cohen, Pitt forward for the last two years, will perform another of the "brother acts" tonight at the Y. M. H. A. floor in Oakland when they head the list of star performers from the Cohenson quintet which tackles the Blue and White passers. In a preliminary game the Varsity B team hooks up with the St. Joseph Lyceum.

CUB HURLER TO SIGN

ATLANTA, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Bob Smith, Chicago Cubs' pitcher, will sign the contract sent him by the club, Ted Sullivan, president of the Atlanta baseball club, said today. The salary, he said, is the same as last year.

GAMES TONIGHT

Boston at New York Rangers.
Chicago at Detroit.

By CARL W. SHATTO

The Yellow Jackets will attempt to shake a slump and ease out of the cellar position in the International Hockey League standings when they meet the Buffalo Bisons at Duquesne Garden tonight.

During the slump in question the local skaters have suffered defeats in five of their last six starts. They are in last place by a margin of one point, representing a half game, and can pass Syracuse in the event that the Stars lose to Windsor tonight.

Although the Bisons come here in first place, a spot they have occupied ever since Pittsburgh was admitted to the circuit, they, too, are in something of a slump. In their last three starts the invaders have lost to Syracuse and Detroit, and been tied by Windsor. This word is not particularly heartening because that is about as prolonged a slump as Buffalo ever has been known to suffer.

BISONS BOAST BIG EDGE

Furthermore, Buffalo is not exactly an ideal foe for the Jackets when they are trying to regain a winning stride. Last season the locals gained only one victory and two ties in 10 starts against the pace-setters. This season the Reidmen's net gain in three duels with the Bisons has been one tie.

In addition to a very capable defense, Frank Nighbor, new pilot of the Empire Staters, will put on display here one Carl Voss, leading scorer of the International loop, and Lloyd Gross and Ronne Martin, two other rough and ready forwards, who also are flirting with the top perch in the individual scoring race.

Leo Reise, speedy defenseman, who played a prominent role as the Jackets rode into the playoffs last season, and who returned to the Pittsburgh fold as the Yellow Shirts met the Indians in Cleveland last Saturday, will do considerable skating in the local backfield tonight. He is slated to provide relief for both Gordy Fraser and Joe Matte.

NEW STARTING LINE

Norman Locking, aggressive, hard-shooting youngster, who has crowded Eddie Rodden off the third front line, will be at left wing as a unit in a combination that includes Ty Arbour at center and Stu Dunning at right wing. Coach Charley Reid is contemplating advancing this trio to a starting lineup position.

The Jackets have participated in no league action since their Cleveland engagement. Since that time Coach Reid has asked waivers on certain of his players. They can be counted upon to show plenty of fight tonight. The probable lineup:

Pittsburgh		Buffalo
Cox	G	Vaughey
Fraser	D	Murray
Watts	D	Lederman
Arbour	C	Voss
Locking	A	Gross
Dunning	W	Martin

Spares—Pittsburgh, Miller, Bonness, Buffalo, Pennell, Greig, Fiske, Hynes, Goupil, Lauder, Ross, Cain, Cuff, Bugarin, Jackson.

LOCALS WIN AT MIAMI

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 28.—The semi-final round of match play in the annual Miami Beach amateur championship golf tournament is being played today over the LaGorce Golf Club course here. Among those participating are E. J. Dettling and C. M. Scott, both of Pittsburgh.

Dettling is opposing Ray Kilthau, of Great Neck, N. Y., in the third flight, and in the same division Scott is tackling H. W. D. Nicholson, of Washington, D. C.

Dettling yesterday won his second-round match from Brooks Glenn, of Miami, by 2 up, winning on the eighteenth hole with a 20-foot putt. Scott trounced H. M. Purdy, of Windsor, Ont., Canada, by 3 and 2.

J. F. Sullivan, Pittsburgh, was eliminated in the sixth flight by William Casparis, of Miami, by 6 and 5, and George Baton, also of Pittsburgh, defaulted to George Duffus, of Toronto, in the eighth class.

Flashing his way around the course in sub-par fashion, T. Philip Perkins, former British amateur champion, triumphed over Gus Novotny, of LaGrange, Ill., by 4 and 2. John B. Peyton, of Cooperstown, N. Y., the defending champion, put out Ed Romfh, Jr., of Miami, by 3 and 2.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Never were truer words spoken than those to the effect that a prophet is not without honor except in his own country. . . . Battling Gizzy knows this truth, for, after several years of fighting around these parts, he recently branched out for a bout with Cowboy Eddie Anderson in Flint, Mich., and knocked the natives there positively google-eyed with his club-fighter type of milling. Slim McCleland, Detroit's best referee who officiated went back home to tell the folks that he had just seen in action one of the greatest natural fighters he ever set eyes upon, and Scotty Monteith, former manager of Battling Gizzy Johnny Dundee and matchmaker of Madison Square Garden, New York, who was a spectator, went into ecstacies over the Dennora whirlwind and now is breaking his neck trying to beat Floyd Fitzsimmons to showing him in Detroit.

All of which brings up the point that this same Gizzy, probably not fully appreciated in these parts, has been compiling a record that even exceeds that of Ted Yarosz, who has just turned in his fiftieth successive victory as a professional without a single blemish against his name . . . For be it known that Abie Witz's lightweight has to his credit 53 wins and one draw in his last 54 starts . . . The draw was with Mickey Duris in Johnstown and he later defeated Duris in a return bout . . . The record is particularly impressive in view of the fact that Gizzy rallied from a knockout by Ray Newton and a technical knockout by Jimmy Reed and a defeat by the decision route by Tommy Crawley to go on to his victory splurge . . . He later defeated Crawley in a return bout, but was not given a chance to redeem himself against Newton and Reed.

Among those he has beaten are Jackie Dugan, Harry Forbes, Eddie Edelman, Sammy Dorfman, Mickey Doyle, Roger Bernard and Anderson, in his last seven starts, and Eddie Brannon, Johnny Chiodo, Windy Meyers, Benny McArthur, Chet Smallwood (twice), Al (Rube) Goldberg, Georgie Balduc, Ray Collins (twice), Dude Eades, Steve O'Malley, Babe Ruth, Bobby Young, Midget Mike O'Dowd, Andy Andrucci, Eddie O'Dowd, Joey Powell, Stanley Williams (twice), Young Corsey, Jack Headlip, Frankie Buff, Louis Severin, Jackie Miller, Joe Thomas, Johnny Smackey, Frankie Nanci, Slambang Taylor, Paul Ungler, Sammy Lupica, Paddy Mahan (twice), Joey Boychan, Tommy Crawley, Ken Hargraves (twice), Young Angelo, U. S. Carpentier (four times), Eddie Ruttman (twice), Eddie Weygant, Tommy Heilman (twice), Jack O'Banion (twice), Andy Stahura, Jack McFarland, Slip Betts, Young Meano, Tony Conginica, Joe Dunn, Jackie Griffith, Terry McGovern (twice), Frankie Moran, Joe Elrene, Al Yidecker, Bad News Taylor, Eddie Kosman, Jackie Richards and Nick Caruso. All three of his defeats occurred in 1930.

Old Hoss Riggs Stephenson, of the Cubs, is another one of those ice cream fiends in the world of sports . . . He thinks a pint of the stuff every night helps his batting average . . . A New York paper says the Brooklyn club will have one of those And How outfields this year as follows:

GIBBY TO TALK OVER WCAE

George Gibson, who returns to the Pirates as manager this season, will speak over Station WCAE, the Voice of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph at 6 o'clock tomorrow evening, being interviewed by Charles J. (Chilly) Doyle, baseball expert. Gibson has just arrived in the city to begin making arrangements to take his club to the Paso Robles (Cal.) training camp, three weeks hence.

Tory Gregg, captain, and Charley Reid, coach, of the Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets hockey team of the International League, were interviewed by Carl W. Shatto, hockey expert, during the Trained Seals period of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE at 7 o'clock last night.

Others who appeared on the weekly program, directed by Harry Keck, sports editor, were Charles J. Doyle, who paid a tribute to William Wrigley, Jr., late owner of the Chicago Cubs; Jess Carver, and Tom Birks.

Baseball Pays Final Tribute To Wrigley

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Leaders of organized baseball came to Chicago today to pay final tribute to William Wrigley, Jr., owner of the Cubs, who died at Phoenix, Ariz., Tuesday morning.

Memorial services, held simultaneously with the services at the Wrigley home at Pasadena, Cal., were to be conducted at the St. Chrysostom's Episcopal Church late in the day. Presidents of both major leagues, John Heydler, of the National, and Will Harridge, of the American, together with Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, Cubs players, officials and friends were expected.

CUE LEADERS DEADLOCKED

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Augie Kieckhefer, of Chicago, went into a three-way tie with Otto Reiselt, of Philadelphia, and Arthur Thurnblad, of Chicago, in the world three-cushion billiard championship struggle last night by defeating Allen Hall, of Chicago, 50 to 39, in 42 innings.

Gus Copulos, of Eugene, Ore., won his fourth straight game in defeating Bud Westhus, of St. Louis, 50 to 36, in 53 innings.

Tiff Denton, of Kansas City, defeated Frank Scoville, of Buffalo, 50 to 36, in 55 innings, and Jay Bozeman, Vallejo, Cal., conquered Len Kenney, of Chicago, 50 to 35, in 48 innings.

Penn Five Victor Over Nittany Lions

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—The University of Pennsylvania basketball team triumphed over Penn State, their ancient foe, by the score of 27 to 23 in a see-saw battle last night. State was unbeaten in its two previous starts. The lineup:

WEBER TRAILS WALKAUSKAS BY POINT

By JULIUS LEVIN

Arthur Hyatt, Schenley High center, holds a 12-point lead over Bill Jesko, South High forward, in the individual scoring race of Section I in the City League.

Hyatt shows a point total of 84, representing 36 field goals and 12 fouls. Jesko has 72 points as a result of scoring 25 field goals and 22 fouls.

Weber, of Allegheny Vocational, has moved up to within a point of Frank Walkauskas, of Allegheny, who has been setting the pace in Section II since the season got under way. Walkauskas has scored 27 field goals and eight fouls for 62 points, while Weber shows 25 field goals and 11 fouls for 61 points. The scoring records follow:

BENEFIT FLOOR TILT TONIGHT

The Stowe Collegians, formerly the Osceola quintet, and the Rox Rangers, keen district rivals, will aid charity tonight, when they clash in a big benefit tilt on the Stowe Township High School floor.

The proceeds taken in will be turned into the coffers of the soup kitchen fund, maintained for the destitute children of the township. Toby Uansa, former Pitt football star, is coach of the Rangers, and Andrews, who was a versatile player at Juniata College, tutors the Collegians.

The M. E. Church five and the Christian Church quint meet in a preliminary, which gets under way at 8:15 p. m.

Davy Grove, of the North Side, who came here unheralded a few months ago from Ohio and proceeded to knock some of our best welterweights galley-west in preliminary bouts at Motor Square Garden, breaks out into a rash of main-boutitis at McKeesport tonight, when he faces a heavy mixer in Frankie Bauer, of Cleveland.

Another Ohioan, Young Terry, of Akron, boxes Johnny Chiodo, of Johnstown, in the other 10-round bout of a double windup bill.

Leo Zimpetta, of Charleroi, and Terry Fagan, of St. Michaels, Pa., box the second bout, and Petey Jahn, of the North Side, and Scotty Graham, of Donora, are in the opener.

Vieing with the McKeesport professional show for the patronage of the fans is the first night's battling in the preliminaries of the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U. junior championship tournament at the Keystone A. C. This competition will continue through tomorrow and Saturday nights, with a field of 205 mixers entered. The battling will get under way at 8:15 each evening.

Boxers in the flyweight, featherweight, welterweight and lightheavyweight classes only will box tonight.

Between Rounds

Buddy McArthur and Ray Fay box the windup at Fairmont, W. Va., tomorrow night. Both Buddy and Phelan Reilly are in the semi-final. Buddy also is matched with Chuck Burns at Clarksburg, W. Va., February 10.

Max Baer's wife and King Levinsky's sister have superintended their training for their ten-round clash in Madison Square Garden, New York, tomorrow night.

Because of the interlocking connections in the welterweight class, there is talk to the effect that the Jackie Fields-Lou Brouillard bout in Chicago tonight may be one of those things, with the title reverting to Fields.

Sailor Matty, of Homestead, and formerly of Steubenville, Pa., who boxes Billy Street, Negro middleweight, of the Hill, in the second bout on the Motor Square Garden card next Tuesday night, has met Pauline Walker, Billy Alger, Vincent Silvoi and Danny Devlin, among others, in the East Liberty Park and Johnny Wanzer has the upper.

Sultan Bess and Joe Raymond, of Bamberg, will arrive here Sunday for their two-hander battles on the Garden card. Bess is in the best shape of his career, and Raymond makes his local debut against Tiger Joe Ragusa in the eight-round semi-final.

Tiger Joe Heal wants a return bout with Paul Turner, who knocked him out in the Moose Temple, Wednesday night. Tom Mahre wants a return go with Roger Brooks, who defeated him in the semi-final and Moe Burch would give almost anything to get in there again with Jimmy Thomas, who beat him at the Garden last week. All three of these return bouts may materialize.

Guy Salerno, Jack Perry's middleweight from Los Angeles, will pinch off no part of a soft assignment in his local debut, in one of the 10-round bouts at the Moose Temple next Wednesday night. He is in with Jackie Joe Walters, Springfield (O.) Negro, who was entertaining with hard punching in the downtown arena last season. Charley Baxter will be one of the principals in the other 10-rounder.

Eddie Kaufman says that the name of his new boxing club, which will open its doors next week, is the Arena. His matchmaker, Bill Dunmore, expects to be able to announce his card within a few days.

Abie Witz yesterday signed his two boxers, Battling Geary and Jimmy Thomas, to three-year contracts. Thomas was 21 years old yesterday, while Geary was 21 last April 6.

Harry (Sandsag) Taylor is back from Canada, where he took a long rest, and has begun training for battle here.

Sonny Rosen, a boxer, has bought the contract of Emmett Rosin, Elwood City lightweight, from Joe Alexander and will box temporarily as Emmett Rosin. He reports Emmett is in good condition and ready to box again. His most recent battle was with Charley Retzlaff in Duluth.

Fight Results

At Cincinnati—Bat Battalino floored Freddie Miller four stopped by referee, no contest, 3 rounds. Ted Graham knocked out Speedy Wade, 1 round. Max Kirchner knocked out K. O. Crawford, 2 rounds.
At Barcelona, Spain—Jose Girones knocked out (undefeated) Paul Noack, 4 rounds.
At New York—Willie Siegal defeated Herman Pollack, 6 rounds. At Dunlo—Chuck Hunsicker knocked out Jack Taylor, 2 rounds. Goldman defeated Tony Corcaro, 6 rounds. Steve Clifford knocked out Ed Edwards, 1 round. Al Monahan defeated Patsy Scalzo, 4 rounds. William Nelson defeated Bob Monahan, 4 rounds.
At Oakland, Cal., Jimmy Evans defeated Young Jack Thompson, 10 rounds.
At San Francisco—Eddie Hagler defeated Bobby Vincent, 10 rounds. Max Terry defeated Benny Gallup, 10 rounds.
At St. Louis—Eddie Shea knocked out Harry Falkenstein, 2 rounds. Johnny (Two Ton) Kaiser defeated Steve Katchel, 8 rounds. Dave Barry defeated Bobby Allen, 8 rounds. Howard Scott defeated Pete White, 8 rounds. Pee Wee Terry and Larry Dugan drew, 8 rounds.
At Peoria, Ind.—Ray Drake defeated Red Holloway, 10 rounds.
At Seattle, Wash.—Raymond (Battling) Dozier defeated Sammy Santos, 8 rounds.

GIBSON PLANS RUNNING FOR PIRATES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The big corps of Pirate sharpshooters, which soon will depart for the Paso Robles spring training camp, is in for a lot of running, according to plans arranged by Manager George Gibson, who arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday to take charge of the preparatory work.

Forrest Jensen

Gibby will not demand that each hurler become a Nurmi, but he always has been an advocate of road work and running for pitchers and the big Canuck, as he re-enters the sport of the diamond, is convinced more than ever that the secret of good pitching, to a large extent, lies in the condition of the legs and wind of the man on the slab.

"There is no good reason why a highly-paid pitcher should come close to a stage of collapse after running out a double or a trinle," declared Gibson as he dwelt upon the subject of condition.

WILL DEMAND RUNNING

"The fans become a bit disgusted at the sight," continued Gibson. "And the fans are right. If a pitcher takes the proper kind of running exercise he will be able to go to the slab after running out a long hit. I have always demanded plenty of running and I think the need of it in a training camp is greater now than ever.

"Every pitcher should practice quick starting and speed at the outset of a sprint. In doing this he will fit himself to be able to break from the mound on a bunt. If the pitchers were in good shape few batters could beat out a tap on the grass, but the hurlers will not practice the quick start and, therefore, they are flatfooted just long enough to allow a hit."

JENSEN LEAVES EARLY

Gibby yesterday received a request from Outfielder (Forrest) Woodie Jensen. The clever young Dane wishes to go to camp with the first squad and permission has been granted him. Accordingly, he will have the benefit of almost a week of practice when the other regulars arrive. Jensen says there are some outfielding tricks on which he would like to practice. In his short Pirate career he showed much finesse as a flychaser, but apparently he wants to improve.

Chillysauce

The rang and file of Chicago players will miss William Wrigley, Jr.

"He's a dandy," Lefty Grimm told me as he spoke of the Cub owner. "He seemed to think he was a lucky guy to be there whenever he would sit on our bench wearing a Chicago sweater coat."

It will be interesting to watch the fortunes of the Cubs in the next few years. The directors of the club made a dozen smart moves toward baseball success, but they seemed to disagree when they dropped Joe McCarthy, who really built the fascinating team.

The lamented Wrigley tried hard to win a world series, but this pleasure was denied him. His 1929 Reds looked like a better balanced club than the Athletics, but the Braves went haywire in the series.

Short Ship Racing Dates Announced

URBANA, O., Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Dates for the 1932 short ship racing circuit were set here yesterday at the annual mid-winter meeting of the stewards. Another meeting will be held February 17 at Cleveland to arrange races and purses. The official opening will be held at Urbana from May 30 to June 1. All dates are inclusive. The complete schedule:

Wilmington, May 24-28. Urbana—May 30-June 1. Lebanon—June 2-4. Marion—June 7-10. Mansfield—June 13-17. Elyria—June 20-24. Zanesville—July 4-6. North Randall—June 27-July 2. Toledo—July 11-21. Marion—July 24-26.

The barrier system of starting was adopted at the meeting.

Notre Dame, Purdue Book Two Games

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Notre Dame and Purdue have signed a contract to meet in football in 1933 and '34 on a home and home basis. The first game will be played at Notre Dame Stadium, November 11, 1933.

MUSHBALLERS MEET

The Mystery Mushball Club, of Lawrenceville, will hold its splurge organization meeting Sunday at 4121 Foster street at 1 p. m. All members and others wishing to join the club and have a try-out are asked to attend.

BELL RESIGNS

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Harry Bell, athletic director at Butler University, has announced he has resigned. He recently was granted a leave of absence for graduate study in coaching at the University of Southern California.

Snowberger, fourth ranking automobile race driver in the United States in 1931, here with the car—a straight eight Hupmobile—in which he hopes to clean up this year. He finished fifth in the Indianapolis 500-mile grind last Memorial Day. He is exhibiting his car in the showrooms of H. F. Gleason, Baum boulevard, today and part of tomorrow.

BATTALINO GO 'NO CONTEST'

CINCINNATI, Jan. 28.—(INS.)—The world featherweight throne was vacant today.

Relieved of his title after failing to make the 126-pound weight limit, Battling (Bat) Battalino, Hartford, Conn., battler, put up such a poor showing in a bout with Freddie Miller here last night that Referee Lou Bauman declared "no contest" in the third round.

Convinced that the former title holder was stalling, Bauman lifted him to his feet once and urged him to "fight." Another blow from the challenger floored Battalino again and Bauman announced his decision at the direction of the Cincinnati Boxing Commission. Boos filled the auditorium as the referee left the ring and both fighters resumed the sparring tactics.

Miller, one-time stablemate of the Bat, vigorously claimed the crown and refused to leave the ring. He finally was carried to his dressing room by his seconds amid the tumult and roar of disgruntled spectators.

With the abrupt ending, Battalino dashed to the loudspeaker and explained that he was weakened by his attempt to make the weight limit. When he tipped the beam at 129¾ pounds, his $1,000 forfeit was turned over to the Cincinnati commission, which will give it to charity.

Carl Wilsbach, chairman of the commission, climbed through the ropes following the referee's decision.

"The commission had foreseen such an emergency," he declared, "and the money will be returned to all."

As a result of the "no contest" ruling, the throne remains unoccupied, that same condition that would have existed had Battalino won. If Miller had been triumphant, he would have been crowned king, the commission ruled, following the weigh-in.

Two Knockouts In Amateur Bouts

Two knockouts marked the National Sand and Gravel Association convention amateur boxing bouts at a smoker staged in the William Penn Hotel last night. The summary:

BUSINESS

Mesta Machine Profit To Be Nearly As Large As in Previous Year

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

EARNINGS OF THE Mesta Machine Company for 1931 were not far below those of 1930. The annual report to be published late in February is expected to show net profit greater than in 1929 when $1,787,241 or $2.82 a common share was earned, but less than in 1930 when $2,509,175 or $4.02 a share was earned. Profit is likely to be nearer the 1930 than the 1929 figure.

The company reported net profit after all charges of $1,637,641 or $2.61 a share on 600,000 shares of common stock after deducting preferred dividends for the first nine months of 1931. Comparative figures for this portion of previous years are not available.

Production has been at a high rate during the past two years in spite of the condition of general business. Mesta Machine is one of the outstanding makers of rolling mills, rolls and other heavy equipment used by steel mills. The struggle of steel producers to achieve lower costs has materially benefited Mesta.

Orders Keep Plants Busy for Two Years

THE HIGHLY SKILLED engineering forces and the specialized types of machinery needed to produce steel mill equipment have tended to limit the number of organizations in the business to a comparatively few old and established makers of steel mill machinery. This has kept Mesta's business away from the costly type of price cutting competition which has affected other industries.

During the past two years Mesta has been kept busy completing orders for equipment which were started before the depressed condition of general business became acute. Engineering departments of steel mills are still working on plans for future modernization programs which eventually will contribute to Mesta's sales. It is improbable, however, that any great portion of these plans will materialize into actual orders in the near future.

Current Financial Position Is Strong

MESTA IS IN an excellent cash position. On September 30, 1931, current assets amounted to $5,539,834 against current liabilities of only $1,404,366. Cash, including special time deposits, amounted to $2,465,251 and exceeded all current liabilities. Inventories stood at the comparatively low figure of $991,557, since practically all the organization's products are made to special order and no large amount of cash is ordinarily tied up in either materials or finished products.

With total assets of $11,232,638 and plants carried at a depreciated value of $5,395,260, the company has no funded debt. Preferred stock amounted to $1,455,700.

The company has a dividend record extending over 30 years. The common stock is on a $2 annual basis.

WHEAT PRICES SHOW GAINS

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—Grains tended upward early today after hesitating at the start. Forecasts of a cold wave were a bullish influence, and there was a falling off in Russian wheat shipments, with Argentine estimated exports less than expected. Opening at ½ decline to ⅛ advance, wheat later showed gains all around. Corn started unchanged to ¼-⅜ off, and then made a general upturn.

Wheat bulls contended that all the known and freely exploited bearish factors had long since lost their force. It was pointed out that for nine weeks prices of wheat had backed and filled over a range of 8 cents and were now just midway of the range. Absence of selling pressure, though, rather than urgency to purchase, gave the market much of the time a rising trend.

STOCK MARKET SAGS IN DULL TRADING

Rails Lead Slump With Few Off 2 or More; G. E. and N. J. Standard Hit Lows

NEW YORK, Jan. 28. - (AP.)—The stock market sank gradually and apathetically today, with the pulse of trading very low.

With some two thirds of the mid January rally lost, and traders discouraged over the further dragging out of the railway wage conference and the faintness of signs of seasonal recovery in business, the market presented a rather dismal appearance. Absence of an important volume of selling, however, was its redeeming feature.

Rails led the decline with such issues as Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, Union Pacific and New Haven of 2 or more and 1-point losses numerous. In the industrial category, United States Steel lost more than a point, and Bethlehem with directors meeting after the close to consider the dividend, sagged a point to a new low at 16. Standard of New Jersey and General Electric sagged fractionally to new lows. American Telephone lost more than 2, and General Motors, Westinghouse, Sears and others lost a point or so.

Financial quarters took some comfort in the Washington news that the Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee had agreed that the forthcoming tax will would not be retroactive, but this failed to stimulate the stock market.

News that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would take over the functions of the National Credit Corporation was in keeping with expectations in several quarters, and banking executives expressed encouragement over unofficial reports from Washington that the reconstruction corporation would pursue a liberal policy in extending credit.

High financial quarters seemed more interested in the bond market than in stocks, and felt that the improved outlook for new financing was encouraging. Credit conditions remained about stationary, with federal funds showing a little firmer tendency.

Taplin Says P. W. Va. Covered Charges

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—The Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway just about covered fixed charges during 1931, according to F. E. Taplin, president, who added:

"Business around Pittsburgh, particularly in the coal and steel fields, is at a low point at the present time, but I find somewhat better sentiment as a result of the formation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation."

China's Financial Situation Is Poor

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Due chiefly to the government financial situation, China's domestic bond exchange market appears weak, Shanghai reports to the Commerce Department state. The Shanghai banks have agreed to advance to the Chinese government 7,500,000 Chinese dollars per month for two months to meet annual new year settlements.

Receivers Appointed For Clothing Stores

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Federal Judge John C. Knox has appointed the Irving Trust Company and Samuel Kaufman equity receivers for the Hilton Company, Inc., on petition of Royal Tex Clothes, Inc. Mr. Kaufman and Frank Murray were appointed receivers for the company in New Jersey.

DIVIDEND NEWS

Lackawanna Securities.

Lackawanna Securities Corporation declared a dividend of $1 payable March 1 to record February 15. At this time last year a similar dividend was declared and paid. It was declared in July, making total payments in 1931 of $1. A like amount was also paid in the two preceding years.

Lehigh Coal Lowers Rate.

Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents, payable February 29 to record of January 30. The company had been paying 50 cents quarterly since last April, prior to which time it was on a 25-cent quarterly basis.

Trade Deals Preferred.

The board of directors has omitted the quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock, due at this time.

Dollar Extra on Tobacco.

Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company declared an extra dividend of $1 in addition to regular quarterly dividends of $1.50 on the common stock, both payable March 15 to record March 5.

Lorillard Votes Preferred.

The board of directors of P. Lorillard Company, at a meeting held today, declared a dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock, payable April 1 to record March 15.

Dollar Extra on Tobacco.

American Tobacco Company declared an extra dividend of $1 in addition to regular quarterly dividends of $1.50 on the common stock, both payable March 15 to record March 5.

Lorillard Votes Preferred.

The board of directors of P. Lorillard Company, at a meeting held today, declared a dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock, payable April 1 to record March 15.

Lands Win Suits.

Lands Corporation and Lands Realty Company, subsidiaries of Lands Corporation, have won suits to recover $1,225 and $1,000, respectively, from the United States Government, it was announced today by Attorney General William D. Mitchell.

Courage In Action

The Pittsburgh Automobile Show may properly be called an "exposition of courage."

It symbolizes the "Never say die" spirit which is the heart of American progress.

The Automotive industry of America, born in public skepticism, again bucks the current of immediate conditions, by declining to conserve its courage and imagination for a more convenient and profitable season.

It has poured millions of dollars into new and better models because it knows that the sun is shining behind the clouds.

More important than the money spent is the example set.

GRAY FAVORS TRADING CURB

WASHINGTON Jan 28 (AP) Rigid restriction of speculative transactions on the commodity and stock exchanges was urged before the House Agriculture Committee today by Chester Gray, of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

He indorsed the Haugen-Capper Bill to place a 2,000,000 bushel limit on long or short holdings in grain futures Gray said

"We want the Secretary of Agriculture to have the power of limiting and, if necessary, removing short selling from the grain futures exchanges.

"We favor corresponding restrictions on the cotton exchanges, and I also am authorized to say the bureau favors a similar limitation for the stock exchanges.

"If regulation will not suffice we are ready to support the prohibition of all short selling."

Stock Exchange Topics

Group Activity Reported In Missouri Pacific Issues Lately

There have been reports of groups activities in Missouri Pacific Railroad common and preferred. This would not be surprising in view of the fact that the floating supply of the shares is comparatively small so that the issues could respond readily to pool work. Allegheny Corporation holds a 65 per cent interest in the common stock and a 32 per cent interest in the preferred. Naturally this reduces the amount of stock available for trading purposes in the stock market. There have been optimistic estimates of the increase in share earnings which would result from a 10 per cent wage reduction.

When the market was moving forward earlier this month, many individual operations were controlled by the trading element credited with leadership on the selling side in the late 1931 months. About a week or 10 days ago, these professionals again switched to the selling side and their activities became widely known, resulting in considerable outside profit-taking and a following on the short side. Some of these traders were covering shorts actively late Friday and again on Saturday when the market developed weakness. Apparently they were anticipating favorable developments. A few of these operators temporarily have adopted a side line position, awaiting an indication from within the market before becoming active again.

There have been reports of good scale support in some of the pivotal stocks during the recent reactions. This buying has not been aggressive and the orders have been for comparatively limited lots. However, it is maintained that the demand has been for the account of interests who were buyers in the first few days of this year when a good decline was in progress. They sold stocks during the subsequent advance and were in a position to replace their long holdings at more reasonable prices.

Considerable interest continues in the rails judging by the comments which are heard in financial quarters. It is apparent that at the moment quite a number of houses favor New York Central, New Haven, Chesapeake and Ohio, Rock Island and Southern Pacific in this group. These are the stocks most often mentioned in the discussions of the position of the various carrier stocks. The view is still quite popular that the railroad group will give a better cue to the trend of the market than industrial or utilities in the coming weeks.

Officials of Sherwin Williams Company state that business in the first four months of its fiscal year, beginning September 1, was about on a parity with that in the same period last year. The company continues in a strong cash position, with no bank indebtedness, and has an accumulated earned surplus of over $13,400,000.

American Machine and Foundry Company is installing this week in the factory of one large cigaret manufacturer its new machine for manufacturing cigarets at a much faster rate than the old one. This machine, which will be run experimentally under factory conditions, has at American Machine's factory broken down only when rates of 2,400 to 2,500 cigarets a minute have been reached. While the normal operating range of the present machines is about 600 a minute, even a speed of only 1,500 a minute for the new machine under operating conditions would represent a substantial saving to manufacturers.

M. S. Sloan Resigns From N. Y. Edison

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Matthew S. Sloan has resigned as president of the New York Edison Co. and its affiliated electric companies and as trustee of the Consolidated Gas Company and director of companies in the Consolidated Gas group, effective immediately.

Friend Pleads With Jim to Help Keep Ed Away From Belmonte

(Adapted from the original motion picture story of W. R. Burnett with screen play by John I. Mahin, produced by Cosmopolitan Productions and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.)

CHAPTER XIX

The long years that Fightin' Jim Fitzpatrick had spent in protecting his brother's interests on the police force now told on him like a rosary of sorrows. When he left the courtroom after the acquittal Tom was at his side.

"Why don't you give the kid a break, Jim?" he said, when they had reached the chief's office. "If you don't, he's sure to go wrong. This is the very time he needs someone to lean on—someone to help him go straight. This Belmonte mob'll corral him—they've got a lever on him now—and he'll wind up with the rest of 'em."

"There's no use talkin', Tom," said Jim. "I've done everything for that kid. The way he acted after I was made chief makes me feel like he isn't my brother after all. I tried to give him every break—and there's nothing I can do now."

"Well, why don't you get him out of town, send him away for a time, get him away from these crooks? He's a likeable kid; he listens to everybody—he believes in everybody."

"He'll have to show me this time," bitterly said Jim. "If he can stand on his own feet on the right thing, I'll stick by him—I'll know he's got something of the Fitzpatrick in him."

"Talk to him anyway. At least he's got an in with the mob now—maybe he can help you break it up," insisted Tom.

"Listen, Tom," said Jim sternly. "I'd rather he played the game square with that bunch of crooks than to be a stool. I can't use my own brother for a stool. He hasn't fallen THAT low—I hope. It's up to him. If he wants to live right he can do it. But I'd rather he'd be honest in anything he goes into."

"If you could get him away from that Beaumont jane he'd be all right," continued Tom. "She's the one who put the skids under him—she's the one who got him mixed up with that mob."

"Yes, and it's my own fault—I see it now. I asked him to help me. He got in with that girl to try to help me dig the lowdown on the Dopey murder. She's poison."

"Well, it was your own fault all around," sighed Tom.

"What do you mean by that?" asked Jim.

"Don't you remember when you had a certain girl sprung who had been framed by those two vice squad men? Don't you remember she was sent to Bedford?"

"Yes—yes, what of it?—that was a raw deal and when I found out about it I got her out and broke the cops," said Jim.

"Well, that gal was Daisy Beaumont," slowly said Tom, carefully watching the expression on Jim's face.

"To hell you say!" exclaimed Jim. "And to think that I got her out for this!"

"Now—that's the point," continued Tom. "I think that gal's grateful. I think she'd do anything for you. Why don't you talk to her? She'll listen to reason and I know that Ed'll do anything she says."

Jim turned and stared out the window. There was nothing but a blank wall opposite, but he looked long and hard.

"I'll be damned," he muttered.

* * *

When Fightin' Jim left his office that night he didn't walk straight out Center street toward home. He stopped for a good 10 minutes in a shop near by headquarters and emerged with what almost approached a grin on his face and a big flat box under his arm. And he broke a custom of years' standing by taking the street car to his own corner.

He let himself in stealthily, deposited his box on the living room table and untied it and then with a roar called out:

"Patrolman Michael Fitzpatrick! Report to headquarters at once!"

Mary, her eyes round with surprise, ran in from the kitchen and a clatter and bump on the front stairs announced Mickey's approach from the second floor.

"Jim — hello — you're early, aren't you, honey? Dinner's not nearly ready," she said breathlessly.

"It's all right, sweetheart. Plenty of time—Mickey and I have big business for a little while here, you, Fitzpatrick," not so much noise," he broke off as Mickey burst into the room with a wild yell.

"Hello, Dad! Gee, maybe there's time to play awhile before supper. I sure am glad you got home!" he cried excitedly.

"So am I, Mickey, because you and I have high doin's on tonight. Sit down, Patrolman Fitzpatrick, while I give your mother a kiss," big Jim smiled a happy smile, dropping the cares of his office from his shoulders in the fun of the game which he and Mickey played each evening. He gave Mary a kiss and a hug and then turned to the center table with its big box.

"Patrolman, it has come to my attention that you have been unusually conscientious in the pursuit of your duties, that you have faithfully followed the instructions of your superior officers and that you have on several occasions valiantly defended the honor of the department by your courageous behavior in the face of danger or adversity—"

"Oh, say, if you mean fightin' about Uncle Ed, that wasn't—" Mickey broke off, realizing that his mother had said not to mention that episode to his father. But Fightin' Jim didn't seem to notice.

"And in view of this we have decided to reward your most commendable efforts by promoting you to the rank of Corporal. Here, Corp. Fitpatrick, are the uniform and accoutrements of your rank." Jim finished his little speech with a flourish and handed Mickey one by one the blue uniform, cap, night stick, and badge, which he had had made in miniature duplicate of those worn by police officers, and designed by the tailor who made his own uniforms.

Mickey was speechless. He looked at the uniform. He looked at his father. And then, regaining his voice, he let out a wild war whoop.

"Mamma! Mamma! I'm a corporal. Lookee what Dad brought me—he made me a corporal." He held it up to him and did a mad twirl in the middle of the floor to show Mary the suit when she came in breathless from the kitchen.

"I'm a corporal, a corporal! Hurray! hurray! Some day, maybe I'll be as great a cop as you and Uncle Ed won't I?"

Jim didn't answer. His eyes sought Mary's and hers returned the look in mute sympathy.

Synopsis

Jim Fitzpatrick, police captain noted for his honesty, succeeds in having Daisy Beaumont freed after she is arrested on a false charge. Four racketeers are found murdered and Fitzpatrick suspects Guiseppe Belmonte, overlord of a huge vice ring. Belmonte is arrested by Fitzpatrick, but is soon released. Ed Fitzpatrick, sergeant of the vice squad, promises to help his brother Jim to bring Belmonte to justice. They discover that Daisy is employed by the vice leader. Ed admires Daisy and visits her. Belmonte plans revenge on Jim with Daisy's help. Ed is detailed to guard a fortune in gold bullion being transferred from a bank. Becoming drunk, he plans to steal it himself and reveals his plans to Mike Cholo. The next day the gold is stolen and Lieut. Makowsky is killed while chasing the robbers. Two of the bandits are arrested and tell Jim that Ed planned the robbers. Jim orders Ed's arrest on a murder charge. Belmonte wants Ed to be freed and his gangsters intimidate the witnesses. All three of the accused are freed when the jury returns a verdict of not guilty. Belmonte gives a party for the three men, after which Cholo is found in an alley, stabbed to death.

Now Go On

Jim turned and stared out the window.

ALL IN A DAY

By MARK HELLINGER

The Lowest Racket of All

THE DOCTOR and I were sitting in a restaurant. We had dined at a late hour, and the rush had already been over when we arrived. No more than four or five couples were lingering in the place and, of these, only one couple was interesting.

The man I did not know. He was a good-looking bird with flashing, black eyes. But the girl was quite familiar to me and so was her story. It's known to almost everyone in the Times Square district. She's a drug addict, and has been for some time. Every once in so often somebody who's fond of her at the moment sends her to a hospital for a cure. The cure never stays effective very long.

I told the doctor something of her history. He looked at her and appeared interested. I rolled along.

"Too bad," I observed, "about a kid like that. Looked as though she had a definite future on the stage a few years ago. Don't know how she contracted the hop habit, but it certainly knocked her off in great style."

The doctor nodded.

"Yes," he murmured, half to himself, "it does that. You don't know how she started, eh?"

I repeated that I did not.

"You should know more about these things than I do, doc," I told him. "How do they all start? A big love affair that ends tragically. Or a sweetie who's on the stuff and teaches them the habit. Or inability to sleep, and a doctor who prescribes a drug. How else can they begin?"

My friend was silent for a moment. Then he looked at me.

"Mark," he said, "have you any idea how many men and women in New York today are drug addicts without knowing it themselves?"

The question astonished me.

"What?" I cried. "How can—"

And have you any idea," he went on, "how many Broadway people have contracted the narcotic habit through no fault of their own in any shape whatsoever?"

I raised a hand.

"Wait a minute, pal," I asserted, "you're making me a trifle dizzy. I don't quite get you. How can people become drug addicts without knowing it? And if they're weak enough to control the habit, where else can you place the blame?"

He smiled.

"If you're interested," he went on, "I'll be glad to tell you about it. Your writings show that you are very broad in your beliefs and your understandings. But we are never so tolerant that we could not be more so. Listen."

And he told me a story. A sample case, as it were.

An actor, well known in the business, was rehearsing day and night in preparation for the opening of a new show. He was unable to get much sleep and he began to complain to his friends that he was suffering from severe headaches for the first time in his life. He didn't realize, of course, that his condition was due entirely to nervousness and the lack of sleep.

One of his friends recommended a doctor. "A Dr. X," let us say.

"He's a grand fellow, this Dr. X," enthused the friend. "One of the nicest guys you'll ever want to meet. Drop in to see him after the rehearsal today and just tell him about yourself. He's done wonders for plenty of people."

So over went the actor. Dr. X greeted him warmly. And the actor liked him immediately.

"I don't know just what's the matter with me, doc," he said. "I never had much trouble with headaches before. Do you think it can be my eyes or my teeth, or some such thing?"

Dr. X was very sympathetic.

"Without so much as an examination," he replied, "I think I know what the trouble is. I have a great admiration for your art, and it really pains me to see you suffer. If you will put yourself in my hands, I think we can make a new man out of you. Now let me see."

He examined the actor in the customary manner. And as he worked he kept nodding. Finally he talked.

"Just as I thought," he stated easily. "A little sinus trouble. Nothing at all to become alarmed about. I'll give you a prescription, and you'll spray your nose with the medicine three times a day. You'll find, I'm sure, that it will help you immensely."

Dr. X's prescription was a cocaine solution. The actor took it to his druggist and had it filled. Then he used the spray and the results were astounding to him. He felt as he had not felt in a long time. He worked with the utmost enthusiasm. He was a new man.

Did the actor know that as he used that spray he was becoming a drug addict? Foolish question. He didn't have the slightest idea of the truth of the situation. He had been recommended to a doctor. He had found that doctor a charming gentleman. The doctor had prescribed something that had helped him immensely. How else would you look at it?

A short time goes by. The cocaine solution has been used up. The druggist is sorry when the actor goes to have it renewed, but the prescription cannot be repeated or a copy given. So the actor returns to the doctor for another visit and another consultation.

He tells the medico that his headaches have returned. He feels very badly. The doctor examines him again and once more hands him the same prescription as before. The result, of course you know. With the first spray the actor again feels better.

And so it goes, on and on, the actor will go to no other doctor because he is firmly convinced that Dr. X is the only man who can help him. He sends other patients to this marvelous man. He pays fancy prices for his various "treatments" and Dr. X grows wealthier and wealthier.

My friend tapped the table.

"Mark," he said, "there isn't one Dr. X in this city today. There are 20 of them. What they do not know—but what they will learn very shortly—is that the government has been secretly investigating their prescriptions for the last eight months. The drug store records always tell the complete story. And the government is almost ready to swoop down.

"I am a doctor, and you are not to judge the medical profession harshly because of what I have just told you. There are thieves and racketeers and murderers in any profession in the world. There is no reason why my profession should be immune."

He smiled again. And this medical friend of mine has a swell smile.

"Remember what I told you before about tolerance?" he asked. "Well, that's why I spoke about it. Sometimes the story behind the addict is a little more unfortunate than anyone realizes. And, when you're looking at a narcotic patient, you never know whether the blame is on his shoulders or not.

"You see?"

I've been thinking about that ever since. About the very lowest racket of them all. . . .

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS Junior Komic Club

There is a regular birthday celebration at every meeting of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club. Each child sees his or her name in the Sun-Telegraph the day before the birthday, and in many of the chapters the manager of the theater presents birthday cakes with the child's name in colored icing.

PRINCE (AMBRIDGE)

Children of Ambridge flock to the Prince Theater on Saturday mornings. There is a thriving chapter at the Prince and everybody looks forward to the meeting as the big event of the week. The singing contest at Saturday's meeting was so well received that another contest has been scheduled. The songs selected were "Goodnight, Sweetheart," "River Stay Away from My Door," "Nevertheless" and "There Ought to Be a Moonlight Savings Time." While the boys and girls seemed to sing equally well, the decision was in favor of the girls. Perhaps next week the boys will carry off the singing honors.

A dancing class precedes the meetings at the Prince, the members being instructed by teachers from the Mann School of Dancing. At the stage show Saturday, little Myrna Heberling acted as mistress of ceremonies. Jimmie Brown led the program with a song, followed by a recitation by Julia Ganley. Marjorie and Peggy Estep did a clever song and dance number and Marie Simon and Jimmie Brown sang a duet.

Chorus singing is also a feature at Arsenal Chapter. The song reels are almost as popular as the western pictures. At the meeting Saturday Blanche Covaleski, Bernadine Gressler and Jeanne Jesnisk sang and Gertrude Koontz and Jeanne Welsh did a snappy song and dance number.

Arrangements are being made for the band, made up of members of Boy Scouts, under the direction of Walter Sarraf, to appear at various chapter meetings in the city. These boys have been making such a hit at the Enright that we want other chapters to hear them.

The following members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club will celebrate their birthdays tomorrow. The club sends greetings:

Rowland: Jack Winterbottom, Frederick Tyler, Lois Gage.

Enright: Fred Hill, Ruth Ortzberger, Jerome Weisman, John Kearns, Nancy Roger, Mary Netti, Joe Waldsmith, Marie Fry.

Etna Harris: Violet Yanke, Marjorie Bayard, Bernard Steckle, Virginia Janciar.

Mt. Oliver: Herbert Schwartz, Irwin Swartzman.

South Hills: Mary Jane Byron, Albert Handford, Betty Fish, Joseph Grady.

Belmar: Helen McClain, Sara Sims, Jane McClain.

Plaza: Mercedes Reunsfelder, Joseph Waldsmith.

Manor: Joseph Malitovsky, Bernice Sanders.

Davis: Edward Miller, Alex Brazilivich.

Memorial (McKeesport): Dorothy Gross, Leonard Parker, Curtis Jones, Domick Morradonna, Bill Ennis, Da Delafield.

Grand Greensburg: Patrick Garlitis, James Long, Melva Davis.

Prince (Ambridge): Michael Waslo, George Storar, Francis Jarnikv, Andy Ferrick, Russell Basalyga.

YOU TELL 'EM, SNODY

(Lamar, Mo., Democrat.)

Lamar H. S. plays Webb City Friday and Coach Snody Bury has his pep speech painted on a sign and hung in Dell Beam's barber shop. The sign says:

Can We?
Will We?
Yes, We Do.

This is a nifty pep speech and very neatly lettered by an artistic hand.

A Civic Duty

Both the City and the Chamber of Commerce Should Move For Relief from Unfair Utilities Rates

In a case now being heard by the Public Service Commission the charge is made that New York bankers bought the property of the Duquesne Gas Company for $2,844,344, then by complicated transactions unloaded it through subsidiaries for $3,673,307.

It is an interesting illustration of a method by which the public is mulcted by the public utilities. Through high finance such as is charged in the Duquesne Gas Company case investment values are inflated and stock watered. To earn even a modest dividend on the watered stock it becomes necessary for the utilities to charge the public much more than is just and reasonable.

The public utilities of the Pittsburgh district are in some cases charging their customers two or three times as much as they should. A conspicuous example is the 25 cent fare charged by the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company for a 10 cent bus ride.

It is the duty of the municipal government and of the civic bodies to remonstrate against the extortionate public utilities rates of all kinds and if the companies cannot be induced voluntarily to reduce them to force them to do so through legal proceedings.

Representatives of 32 Western Pennsylvania municipalities recently met in Wilkinsburg and organized for just such a fight. Pittsburgh, which suffers more from unjust rates than most of the municipalities, was not represented. In explaining why he did not attend the meeting, John S. Herron, president of Council, remarked that the city has a special assistant city solicitor in charge of public utilities matters, whose duty it is to look after the city's interests.

This assistant city solicitor should join with the official representatives of other municipalities in whatever action is necessary to obtain relief from the exorbitant rates.

The Chamber of Commerce should also take a hand in the fight. The Allied Boards of Trade have been working hard to obtain relief, and they deserve the co-operation of the Chamber. The Chamber has waged a vigorous campaign for better railroad rates on lake cargo coal. It is no less its duty to demand fair utility rates.

Increase in Poor Tax

The County Commissioners Can Also Help the Destitute By Furnishing Work Relief

It is unfortunate that it should have been necessary to increase the county tax rate at a time when so many people are "hard up." The County Commissioners could hardly have done otherwise, however, than accede to the Poor Board's request that the poor tax be raised from 1½ to 3 mills. The board is without funds, and 16,000 families are dependent upon it for support.

It is preferable that money needed by the county to tide over the unemployed should be raised by issuing bonds rather than by increasing taxes.

It is also preferable that work relief be given rather than direct relief.

The County Commissioners are not as zealous as they might be to furnish employment to the destitute through the construction of public works.

One thing of this sort that they might do is to build the Town Hall. The people voted $6,000,000 of bonds for such a purpose, and the need for a Town Hall is demonstrated nearly every day.

Only Tuesday night Pittsburgh's lack of a large auditorium was made painfully apparent when 2,000 more people than could be accommodated tried to attend the public health meeting of the American College of Surgeons. Five thousand persons sought admission to the meeting, and there is not a hall in Pittsburgh that will seat more than 3,500.

Construction of the downtown subway by the city with the $6,000,000 bond issue authorized for that purpose by the citizens 12 years ago is another important and necessary public work that might well be undertaken at this time and which would involve no expense to the taxpayers for at least three years, not even for bond interest and sinking fund charges.

How desirable it is that the street cars be placed underground in the Golden Triangle and traffic congestion thus relieved can be inferred from some of the things that are being said in connection with the discussion of the right of the police to tow automobiles illegally parked on the downtown streets to garages.

If the public authorities, both city and county, were to utilize their power to issue bonds for the construction of useful public works on which the destitute could be given employment, much poverty would be relieved without hardship to the taxpayers.

Blue Law Decision

A Federal Court Injunction Might Help Pittsburgh to Get Innocent Entertainment on Sunday.

Judge Pollock, of the United States District Court of Kansas City, Kan., has issued a ruling which, superficially at least, seems capable of being used to free Pennsylvania from the shackles imposed on innocent amusement on Sunday by the blue law.

An injunction has gone out from the court, restraining the Attorney General and other law enforcing officers of Kansas from enforcing that state's blue law against certain theaters which desired to give Sunday movie shows.

One reason given for the injunction is that the blue law is not enforced against all offenders, and that discrimination amounts to oppression, which the court cannot tolerate.

The court expresses the opinion that Sunday movies are not condemned by "the right-minded thinking people" of the state.

There are other points, also, in the decision which apply as forcefully to conditions in Pennsylvania as they do to Kansas.

Misleading Names

The Better Business Bureau Calls Attention to a Bad Practice in the Fur Trade.

The Pittsburgh Better Business Bureau insists on honesty in all forms of business.

The latest demand is for the abolition of misleading names in the fur business. Goat, rabbit, dog, opossum and raccoon furs, the bureau charges, are being sold by certain dealers under fancy names which might lead the unwary to suppose that they were respectively bear, red fox, black fox, marten and sable.

The dealers may say that people are familiar with these trade names and are not deceived. There is no reason, then, why they should not be given their right names.

In the long run simple, uncompromising honesty will be found more satisfactory.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Broadway's cabarets are trying to adjust floor shows to swiftly changing conditions. Perhaps nothing has impressed the pleasure-loving boulevardier with the new order as the electric sign hardby the Winter Garden gleaming red, "Two-Bits Cabaret."

One by one the two to five-dollar couvert places have quietly faded from the picture. Medium-priced places flaunt banners "No Cover—No Minimum Price." And the innumerable so-called "taxi-joints" that made additions with split lead pencils for the befuddled are no more.

N. T. G.'s Hollywood, which started the slash in prices, is about the sole survivor of the cabarets of two years ago. The night club, which differentiates from the cabaret in offering one or two stellar acts is about finished, temporarily at least.

Such talented "draws" as Helen Morgan, Beatrice Lillie and others have failed to fill the tables. The majority of cabarets are a pathetic counterfeit of the gaudy places that flourished so many years. Performers and orchestras are those totally unknown to the White Way.

They are cached in dinky basements, badly lit and stuffy with smoke. In one the other night after the theater, I counted 18 people. Two girls billed as a sister act tried to amuse with amateurish dancing and left the dance floor to no applause.

Afterward, a frayed imitation of the gifted Jimmy Durante cracked some moth-eaten gags which seemed to drop complete duds. His discouragement had a touch of sadness when he observed: "I know this is rather sour, but I'm doing my best. And it's this or the bread line."

A Broadway statistician figures 276 cabarets and night clubs closed doors during the past 12 months. Of the better types of places, the Casino in the Park has prospered most during the winter. Its chief attractions are the pale young pianist, Eddie Duchin, and the ever popular Morton Downey.

The first cabaret I ever visited in New York was Maxim's, somewhere in the Thirties near Broadway. It was a rowdy rendezvous straining to ape its Parisian namesake. It twirled with confetti and midnight found hiccuping gentlemen in paper caps blowing horns and beating clappers. I was on a newspaper assignment to talk to the tragic and novelette Celeste, a cigaret girl who married a rich wastrel and when invalidism shunted him to a wheel chair, cried cigarets amid this pseudo-gaiety. The husband passed away and a few years ago I again saw Celeste, buxom and gray, checking wraps in a Forty-ninth street chop-house.

* * *

Now and then some character of an older Broadway stands out vividly in the passing panorama. There was a cabaret, The Pekin, in the building occupying the space where Seventh avenue intersects Broadway. If memory serves, the seal-like Vincent Lopez used to "harry the harpsichord" there. At any rate it featured a blonde wiggle dancer, not unlike the Gilda Gray of a later period. She was a hoyden who chucked customers under the chin as she shimmied by tables. I see her now and then in the more sedate type of tea room places. The white-haired gentleman who escorts her is, I am told, her husband, an executive in a religious publishing house. There is the air of middle-aged domestic peace about them. One, at least, who came out of the cabaret to contentment.

* * *

Leo Marsh took me to see Gilda Gray the first night she appeared on Broadway. It was in a night club over the Winter Garden. Husky voiced, with a wild mop of straw blond hair and the rowdy manners of the honky tonk, she seemed distinctly unlikely for the cornucopian pay and theatrical stardom later achieved.

Lonely?

Going through life playing solitaire . . . wishing you could get into the big game, yet not knowing how?

"Why are some people so popular?" Is that what you're saying to yourself? "Why does everybody warm up when they come around? Why does everybody trust them . . . take them into their confidence? Nobody treats me like that. People are nice enough—but it's a cold niceness. They never really let me in."

Want to know why they don't let you in, partner?

BECAUSE YOU WON'T LET THEM IN.

You think the world is shutting you out. The truth is deep inside yourself you're shutting the world out. People haven't shoved you into a corner. You've picked that corner yourself and parked yourself in it.

It all began with your own conceit and fear. Maybe there was a hurt. Some shock, or loss, or continued unfairness. I can't tell about that. But for some reason, your bruised or frightened spirit went off by itself and proceeded to brood over its own troubles.

And the longer it brooded over those troubles, the more it decided that those troubles were different from all other people's troubles. This was both a flattering and a consoling thought. It pleased your egotism to feel that you were Different. It also alibied your cowardice and cussedness. And so you encouraged that feeling in yourself—

And the more you encouraged it, the more different you felt—and the more shut out from the rest of the world—

And the more shut out you grew, the lonelier you became—

And now you're so lonely that you often wish, "I were dead." Well, you might as well be—for all the good you are to yourself or anyone else. And the saddest part is that you are wishing it all on yourself.

There's a perfectly easy way to get into other people's lives . . . to share their joys and sorrows, their hopes and dreams. And that is—LET THEM INTO YOUR OWN.

Those people you're envying . . . popular, happy, successful people—their lives haven't been much different than yours. They've simply taken life differently. They've realized that life was all of a piece—and they've taken and shared it just as it came. They've taken, they've given "pot luck."

Remember that old expression? Your mother used it when she asked some passing stranger to stay for supper.

"There isn't much," she'd smile. "Just pot luck . . . but you're welcome."

And never a one refused that welcome. Sometimes the pot held mighty simple fare. Just a boiling of beans or an old-fashioned vegetable soup. Sometimes, on holidays, there were grand left-overs from the turkey dinner. But whatever there was warmed the spirit as well as the flesh, for her friendliness went with it.

"Life's not luck," to me, dear. The same old pot for all, with the same old makings in it. Take it and share it. Don't huddle off in a corner with your bowl of bitter brew. Don't wait until some one spreads a particular feast and invites you to dine. Come out of your loneliness and into the friendly cheer. Throw your life into that common pot—ALL of your life—don't hold back a scrap of this or a shred of that.

And then take out, as others take—pot luck.

SHARE YOUR LIFE WITH THE REST OF THE WORLD AND THE WORLD WILL SHARE IT'S JOYS WITH YOU.

Bond Buyers Answer Slander: Cardozo

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era," and other important works. Now writing for The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

After all the hue and cry, utterly insincere and dishonest, about New York City being headed for bankruptcy because of Tammany and Mayor Walker's administration, we find that the city's $100,000,000 bond issue was snatched up eagerly, by people who know their business, in two hours and that the over subscription was 100 per cent. Evidently the intelligent know that the loose slander was in the Pickwickian or political sense. The drastic cut in the improvement plans of the Walker administration fail to disclose that anything planned, and now temporarily abandoned, was bad or even unnecessary under normal conditions. Every public improvement planned, and now postponed, is needed. Many children's playgrounds will have to go over. The unprecedented hard times, with the heavy obligations imposed by charity and the loss of income because incomes have been reduced and men are unable to pay, has brought to New York City precisely the same problem that the national administration faces with its deficit, and that the states face and municipalities everywhere.

But New York's bonds remain the best in the world, and the proof is in the crush to get them at a premium with a hundred per cent more offers than can be accepted.

* * *

Prosperity Loan Easy to Float

So, too, the nation could float a five billion dollar prosperity loan and dispose of the bonds. No one believes that the United States is bankrupt. It remains, in its resources, the richest country in the world. The fact that some of the old bonds not due for years are selling slightly below par only measures the stupidity of hysteria and panic. Congress has now about completed the Administration's program for relief—by setting aside billions of dollars, despite the deficit, to give financial assistance to the bankers and industrialists. This is not challenged. But the Administration's relief plan will not increase commodity and security prices, nor give us the increase in purchasing power among the people upon which depends the restoration of prosperity or of normal conditions.

The prosperity loan will do that very thing.

Senator La Follette estimates that it will furnish work directly for 1,500,000 of the unemployed—and give them wages to spend. The enormous public work to be done, under the loan, indirectly, will give employment to another vast army by increasing the demand on industries. The wages lost and in this way restored would be spent with the merchants—whose problem is more trade.

The primary reason for our present condition is that during the hard times $18,000,000,000 in wages and salaries have been wiped out.

Prosperity means the resumption of trade; trade means the restoration of wages, and a prosperity loan will put millions on the payroll again.

* * *

Must Build Prosperity From the Base Up

We have adopted an unsound theory in America that if government concerns itself with the men at the top, they will concern themselves with the men at the base. We know better now. Prosperity must be built from the base up. You cannot have mass misery and national prosperity. The banks are bulging with money, but as a nation we are in the slough of despond; and we are there, with the banks bulging with money, because the money is not being used by the industrial and commercial forces; and these cannot use the money because Tom, Dick and Harry, the men at the base, are unable to buy, and thus create a demand on the industries; and they are unable to buy because they have no jobs; and until a way is found to put breadwinners and spenders to work they will be unable to buy.

The administration's relief plans are all right as far as they go; but they do not go to the millions at the base. It has no plan to put men back to work and no plan to feed the millions who are out of work and hungry. That is a serious defect.

* * *

Food or Work Is Vital Necessity

The other day in New York City there was an eviction riot; police under the compulsion of their duty, battling with desperate housewives, a sick child taken from its bed with a fever and set upon the street. That is a warning. The trouble has been that, while the railroad executives and the bankers have had the ear of the administration, the type of these housewives has not.

Now that we have taken care of the railroads and the bankers, it is time to consider the human side of the crisis and give some heed to the hungry women and children. If the smaller governmental units have exhausted their resources in feeding the starving, and the banks have made the abandonment of relief work by the cities a condition for loans, the nation must feed these people or give them work.

And giving them work will be of more service to the industries and the businessmen, and finally the bankers themselves, than any of the methods thus far devised by the administration.

Cardozo Foremost As American Jurist

The New York Bar Association has urged the appointment of Judge Benjamin N. Cardozo to the seat in the Supreme Court made vacant by the resignation of Justice Holmes. It must impress the average man as remarkable that this appointment is not made. By common consent of bench, bar and laymen, Cardozo is the foremost American jurist not now on the Supreme bench of the United States. No one, thinking of the court alone, suggests one reason against his appointment. Every great lawyer of both parties is agreed that he would be an ideal successor to the great liberal jurist who retires.

Why, then, the quandary of the President?

The American people expect that the successor of Holmes shall be a liberal and a great jurist. Cardozo is both. And the appointment of a reactionary would be a tragedy to the country and to the court. We have so much regard for the Supreme Court that we hope in the event of the selection of a reactionary the Senate will refuse to confirm. That is the manifest duty of the Senate.

* * *

Politics Doesn't Count On Supreme Court

The fact that Cardozo is a Democrat is immaterial. No one is thinking of his politics unless it is the President and his advisers; every one else is thinking of him as a liberal, who is a very great jurist with a well-thought-out philosophy of the law. Mark Sullivan, the correspondent closest to the President, writes at length to protest against the Senate injecting "politics" into the choice of justices of the highest court. There is no politics involved now, and if there was politics in the case of Judge Parker it was because he was nominated as a reward for political services. But it is scarcely true, as Mr. Sullivan insists, that no President has ever thought of politics in the choice of justices of the Supreme Court. If that were true there would always be a better party division on the bench. Even John Marshall was made Chief Justice purely as a matter of politics. From the war of the States down to Cleveland's first term the bench was packed with Republicans, though there were great Democratic lawyers and jurists in those days.

But the Senate is not interested in the politics of the appointment as far as parties are concerned; it is interested in seeing that when a great liberal like Holmes passes he shall not be replaced with a reactionary on human, social and economic matters. There is not a Republican in the Senate who would vote against the confirmation of Cardozo; and the President would render a service not only to the country but to himself by nominating him.
